W. R. Hearst On Equality.
Good Name for a Plane.
Such a Mare's Nest.
Both Were Cannibals.
Vacation for Pope Pius.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

BIRTHDAYS MAKE you thoughtful. W. R. Hearst, who has just celebrated his birthday, with many friends in his own house, and millions that have never seen him, in other houses, to wish him happy returns, sends a thoughtful telegram in reply to the question: "What do you think about conditions now?" Other old-fashioned Americans will be interested in the telegram:

"San Simeon, Cal., May 2.
"Arthur Brisbane, New York:

"It is the fundamental guaranty of his rights and liberties.

"As soon as discrimination is introduced, it leads eventually and inevitably to discrimination in favor of the big fellow and against the little fellow.

"It may not start this way, but it ends this way, and the only safeguard against discrimination against the little fellow is freedom from discrimination.

"They established it to obtain freedom from the discrimination under which they had been suffering.

"They established it to create liberty and equality—equality of rights, equality of privileges, equality of opportunities, equality of obligations.

"You cannot have the benefits of equality unless you have equality.

"You cannot discriminate in favor of one class or against one class and have equality.

"You cannot have unequal privileges and unequal obligations and maintain a government based on equal rights.

"If we want to surrender the ideals of our fathers and go back to the unequal systems which they founded this republic to avoid, we have the right to do so; but we should realize what we are doing.

"We must realize that we are attributing failure to what is universally recognized as the greatest success politically and economically in the world.

"We must realize that we are not going forward, but backward.

"We are not adopting new systems, but returning to old, discredited and discarded systems.

"Both Communism and Fascism are government by caste and class.

"Both Communism and Fascism mean the abolition of liberty . . . political and individual, and the substitution of despotism.

"When the torch of liberty is extinguished, our era of enlightenment is ended, and we return to the dark ages of force and fear.

"All the progress our fathers dreamed of, and all that we have achieved, are based on the democratic principle of equality.

"That is the keystone of the arch: and if we remove it, the whole structure of our democracy crashes to the ground.

"William Randolph Hearst."

CESARE SABELLI and Captain George Pond were ready yesterday to hop the ocean from New York to Rome. This opening of the trans-Atlantic flying season is to be followed by seven or eight other attempts.

The monoplane chosen for the New York-to-Rome flight is well named, "Leonardo Da Vinci." Leonardo, more than four hundred years ago, designed an airplane that would have flown if he had had a light gas engine to put in it.

His drawings, still preserved, are admirable. He is the original flying machine inventor. Previous flying plans, like the one that Vergil imagined for Daedalus, were mere dreams.

Flying is made possible by an engine that developes the power of one hundred horses, and weighs less than half as much as one horse.

If you don't believe it, Hitler's agents can show you a 1933 Jewish new year postcard, which shows a "sacrificial rooster" marked with a swastika, with Hitler's head at the end of the rooster's neck. What more "proof" could you ask?

FURTHERMORE, by Jewish resolution, "the Aryans of the world, the pick of humanity, are to be annihilated." They must be a rather feeble "pick of humanity," since they outnumber more than twenty to one the Jews that are going to annihilate them. These Hitler visions recall a remark made by Meyer Hecht's venerable father: Mein sohn, wann mann meshuggah wird, faengst's im kopf an."

"My son, when a man goes crazy, it starts in the head."

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION informs you that Hiawatha, of the poem, was a real person, and a cannibal, until superstitious fears made him give up cannibalism. The cannibal part need not horrify you.

Did You Wire Your Congressmen to Sign McLeod Bank Bill Petition?

Today will determine whether the McLeod bank payoff bill will be wrested from those who seek to prevent a vote before Congress adjourns.

The signatures of 145 Congressmen must be on the petition to discharge the House Rules Committee from consideration of the measure at the end of the House session today if the bill is to be brought to a vote on May 14, probably the last date on which a vote may be had.

These Western Pennsylvania Congressmen have not signed the petition:

State Relief Director Tells Plan as Board Grants More Funds

With the relief crisis safely passed, officials of the local Relief Works Division today were proceeding with caution as they slowly rehired RWD employes.

The general tenseness which has existed here for nearly two weeks was relaxed by word from Harrisburg that allotments had been made for direct relief and the work program, too.

The allocations of $1,600,973 for direct relief and $837,200 for jobs were made at a meeting of the State Emergency Relief Board yesterday.

At the meeting Eric H. Biddle, executive director, recommended that after August 1 a cash dole should be given to the needy instead of relief orders and clothing.

MILLS LAUDS ACTION

George P. Mills, director of the local Emergency Relief Board, expressed gratification and relief over the grant for the county. He said:

"This will permit us to carry on practically the same as we have been doing during April. The allotment for the work program will help ease our burden."

Encouraged by the report of a budget of $837,200 for the work program in the county, James L. Stuart, RWD director, was work-

TAX BILL GOES TO ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—Higher taxes for big incomes and estates and lower ones for the person who works for a living lacked only the signature of President Roosevelt today to become an actuality.

The new revenue bill, which its framers estimated would bring into the Treasury an annual income of $417,000,000, was given final congressional approval yesterday by the Senate.

Among the changes in the tax structure it would make would be the levying of bigger taxes upon gifts, corporations and personal holding companies, partial individual tax return publicity, and numerous guards against tax avoidance.

The 10 per cent super-income tax for 1935 was stricken out, Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, its author, deciding not to press it in view of its overwhelming rejection by the House.

SOCIETY GIRL WEDS SECOND

Betty Lewis, the Pittsburgh society girl who launched upon the marital seas four years ago while still a 16-year-old student at Winchester School, has given up a dancing career to enter into a second marriage, it was revealed today.

A divorce February 14, 1933, marked finis to her elopement and marriage in 1929 with Harry C. May, then a sttudent at Shady Side Academy. May was charged with desertion.

Betty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Lewis, of Squaw Run road, Fox Chapel, today announced her marriage to William Morris Sharp, son of Mrs. Oscar Seeley and of Neilson Sharp, both of Philadelphia.

The ceremony was peformed April 5 by the Rev. A. H. Evans, of New York.

Over 100 Names Now On Petition Seeking To Force Bill Vote

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—While signers to the petition for the discharge of the Rules Committee from consideration of the McLeod bank payoff bill went over the hurdle of 100 names today, 20 Pennsylvania representatives still ignored the voice of their constituents in appeals for relief of bank depositors.

Fourteen members of the Pennsylvania delegation have signed, contributing materially to the 145 names required. Those who have refused to sign in the face of the demands of the people "back home" include:

J. Twing Brooks (Dem.), of the North Side, Pittsburgh District; Charles I. Faddis (Dem.), of Waynesburg; William M. Berlin (Dem.), of Greensburg; Charles N. Crosby (Dem.), of Meadville; J. Buell Snyder (Dem.), of Perryopolis; Harry L. Haines (Dem.), of Red Lion, and Robert F. Rich (Rep.), of Woolrich. All represent Western Pennsylvania districts.

Opposition of the coterie of House leaders who have fought the bank payoff legislation is visibly weakening, according to Representative Clarence J. McLeod, of Michigan, author of the bill. He said:

"These self-styled leaders have discovered that they cannot control the rank and file of members of Congress in ignoring the will and desires of their constitutents, and the enormous number of letters and telegrams received from the people praying for relief of bank depositors

WOODIN DIES LOYAL TO ROOSEVELT

Ex-Head of Treasury Passes in Imaginary Chat With Chief

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—William H. Woodin, the frail little Secretary of the Treasury who helped pilot the nation through the 1933 banking crisis, is dead.

He succumbed last night to complications which followed a throat infection. He would have been 66 years old May 27.

The throat trouble developed last summer and forced him to leave the Treasury post in November.

When told of Mr. Woodin's death, President Roosevelt said at Washington:

"I am deeply shocked and distressed by the passing of my dear friend."

An industrialist at the expense of a boyhood ambition to be a doctor, Mr. Woodin turned to music after his sixtieth birthday and achieved note as a composer.

A warm friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mr. Woodin in his last hours, talked affectionately of the President, whom he called "Governor."

Dr. Robert Buckley, one of the Woodin physicians, said:

"From what he said, he was extremely fond of the President.

"He seemed to believe he was conferring with the President, saying:

" 'Yes, Governor. No, Governor. I don't think so, Governor.' "

Mr. Woodin made a picturesque cabinet officer. He liked to play the guitar—and he did it well. Postage stamps, prints and objects of art, all of which he collected, were other hobbies of the mild-mannered man who guided the Treasury through grave times.

He had a boyish spirit that prevailed no matter how solemn the occasion and he smiled his way through his enormous tasks in Washington.

When his health weakened, Mr. Woodin tried to resign. President Roosevelt wouldn't listen, saying Mr. Woodin had done "a grand job." The President granted him an indefinite leave of absence, hoping Mr. Woodin could return to the office.

But Mr. Woodin's health did not improve sufficiently and he resigned January 1. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., acting Treasury Secretary, was sworn in as his successor.

Funeral services will be held at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church at 4 p. m. Saturday. Burial will be at Berwick, Pa., the city of his youth.

6, Kidnap Target?

HAROLD SOCHATOFF, 6 . . . A MAN ASKED HIM TO RIDE

Master Harold, 6, 1420 Potomac avenue, Dormont, who ran home from school today, told of how a "black-haired man in an old car" asked him to ride—just after his mother had received, she told police, a telephone call asking for $5,000 between now and Sunday.

Son Flees as Mystery Driver Invites Him Into Auto

An attempt to kidnap a Dormont schoolboy was charged today by the boy's father following a demand on the lad's parents that they turn over $5,000.

At 9 o'clock this morning the telephone rang in the home of Ben Sochatoff, 1420 Potomac avenue, Dormont, and, according to Mrs. Sochatoff, a voice said:

"I hate to trouble you but you will have to have $5,000 before now and Sunday or we are going to take your boy."

That was all.

At 11:15 the boy, Harold Sochatoff, 6, was on his way home from the Hillsdale School when an auto cruised up beside him in Potomac avenue, his father claims.

The driver, he said, invited the boy to get into the car, but the lad refused and rushed into his home.

Meanwhile, the hysterical mother had telephoned to Sochatoff, a salesman for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. He rushed home and notified newspapers and the Dormont police.

The Sochatoff boy had only a vague description of the autoist who invited him into his car. He said that the driver had black hair and that the auto was an old machine.

KIDNAP DEATH THREAT TOLD

TUCSON, Ariz., May 4.—(AP.)—Threats of death hung over two members of the Robles family today for failure to pay the $15,000 ransom they have been trying to give kidnapers for the last three days.

Revealing a hitherto undisclosed threat of the ransom note delivered to Fernando Robles, a few hours after his daughter, June, was kidnaped April 25, the elderly grandmother of the 6-year-old girl said death was decreed for both Fernando and his little girl unless the $15,000 was paid. She told an interviewer:

"They threatened to kill not only the baby but my Fernando, if the money was not given."

She expressed the conviction the kidnaping was the work of persons in Tucson, where she believes June is held. She cried:

"My son each night makes the trips those people ask him

Burns' Son, Police Chief 'Spanked'

N. Kensington Mayor Accused by State Motor Bureau

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, May 4.—A collision of two automobiles near Creighton last Christmas Day today brought the revocation of driving privileges of four persons, including the chief of police and the son of the mayor of New Kensington.

Daniel V. Burns, Jr., son of the mayor, and Daniel Zeloyle, police chief, were suspended from driving for one year. Stanley Ziecina, Pittsburgh, driver of the car involved in a crash with a machine driven by Burns, and Joseph Falkenhagen, Pittsburgh auto salesman, were suspended for three months.

Burns' suspension was for failing to report the accident and for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Ziecina also failed to report the crash. Chief Zeloyle and Falkenhagen were suspended for permitting use of an auto to one who had no legal right to drive. Zeloyle also was charged with permitting unlawful use of registration plates. Falkenhagen was given the option of a hearing.

In the report of L. E. Smith, examiner for the Bureau of Highway Patrol and Safety, which acted in the case, the four men and Mayor Burns were accused of attempting to "cover up" the accident, in which all four passengers were hurt. Mayor Burns was reprimanded by the bureau for condoning to his son's action, as was Frank Bordonaro, New Kensington policeman, who was identified at the hearing as having represented that he was driving the machine operated by young Burns.

ROOSEVELT WARNS BIG BUSINESS TO STOP CRYING 'WOLF!'

U. S. CHAMBER HITS NEW DEAL PROVISIONS

Asks Moderate Policy As Wallace Hints Tighter Control

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—Big business, warned by President Roosevelt against crying "wolf," voted today its opinion of the New Deal.

The President, in a message to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States last night, asserted that the citizenship as a whole "will be impatient of those who complain," and warned against those who "hold out false fears." His message said:

"It is time to stop crying 'wolf' and to co-operate in working for recovery and for the continued elimination of evil conditions of the past.

URGES REVISIONS

Today, however, the chamber adopted resolutions requesting modification of the Securities Act, further revision of stock exchange control legislation, approving international silver negotiations and demanding repeal of the wheat processing tax.

Other resolutions urged greater power for code authorities in NRA, indorsed a policy to give code authorities more power in fixing minimum wages and disapproved taxation which discriminated among types of businesses.

One resolution said the chamber opposed compulsory legislation for unemployment reserves, and advised code authorities to report within six months on a plan for their industries individually.

The chamber recommended that when the federal budget is presented, a "real" one in accord with actual expenditures be produced.

HINTS MORE CONTROL

In a resolution entitled "individual rights," the chamber said:

"The rights which are guaranteed to American citizens, and which they cherish, should always assure them protection in their lawful occupations and lawful enterprises from reliance upon the fallible judgment of persons in official positions."

Before action on the resolution Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told the chamber that sooner or later the nation may have to engage in more distasteful control of agriculture if certain other laws, such as the tariff, are not changed.

Wallace said that just as there are rules of the game in agriculture there must be rules throughout the economic system. He added:

"We may fear that sooner or later we shall be forced to engage in distasteful control if the rules of the game which interfere with the international flow of commerce, and other laws, are not changed.

"We must have something that fits together to make sense. Business men should not shape their conduct to bring about an undue curtailment of industrial production. A much greater demand for industrial goods exists than has been taken advantage of."

MARKET 'POLICE' VOTED IN HOUSE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Drastic supervisory power over stock exchanges was voted by the House today in approving another section of the Rayburn stock exchange bill.

The Federal Trade Commission, under the section, is given power to lay down rules for election of officers, qualifications of members, fix rates of commission and otherwise issue regulatory orders.

A motion by Representative Fish (Rep.), of New York, to deny this power to the commission was defeated.

ing on a plan which would avoid the sudden "starting and stopping" that has characterized the created work program recently.

Philip H. Lantz, deputy director, explained:

"We intend to profit from the mistakes of the past, and avoid the nearly disastrous shutdowns. We will spend a day or two in working out a program in advance and start only those jobs we are sure will be completed.

"If we keep a little money in reserve, then we won't be caught on a shutdown order."

RE-EMPLOYMENT PLANS

Officials here would not estimate the number to be re-employed, but all said it would be a "substantial" number. At present 707 watchmen are at work and a "few scattered hundreds" have been re-employed, Lantz said.

Meanwhile the County Commissioners rehired 60 laborers to complete the Catfish Run road, South Park, left uncompleted by the RWD suspension. Tie-up of the road would seriously inconvenience motorists in the park this summer, the Commissioners said.

HOUSING PROGRAM

Biddle recommended at the State Emergency Relief Board meeting yesterday that the water rents, insurance and taxes of houses occupied by the unemployed be paid by the board, a plan advocated by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board.

Pending word from Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins as to what amount the federal government will give Pennsylvania to finance relief until February 1, 1935, the state board took no action on the Biddle recommendations.

Biddle suggested that the state board, once it knows what amount the federal government plans to give Pennsylvania, adopt a "long-range" relief program.

Biddle would have the state embark on a new public works program to provide employment for persons now on relief. This work, he suggested, should be a continuation of the RWD projects which succeeded the CWA program.

to. The money waits. What can we do? They do not come. If only they would come!"

ORDERS REVEALED

While the contents of the original ransom note never have been publicly disclosed, authoritative sources said it demanded that the girl's father drive along a lonely road until certain signals were received when he was to toss the money out and continue without stopping. Mrs. Robles said:

"If only we could have kept the silence at first. It was terrible though, when the note said they must have $15,000 between 5 o'clock and 9 o'clock that night they took June. How could we get that much money with the banks closed?

"They were stupid. They should have given us more time. But fear was on us to keep the silence, for they threatened to kill not only the baby but my Fernando if the money was not given.

"We must hope and pray."

UNCLE'S DENIAL

Meanwhile, from Carlos G. Robles, Uncle of the victim, came a denial of rumors that Alphonso Aguirre, chauffeur for Bernabe Robles on search for the girl last week-end in Sonora, Mexico, was acting as an intermediary between the family and the kidnapers. He said:

"Mr. Aguirre is an acquaintance of ours, but that is all. Mr. Aguirre is not an intermediary and will not be."

All authorities remained out of the investigation while the family awaited word from the kidnapers, even though the three-day period in which the family expecected some signal from the abductors had passed. Official investigation was stopped at the family's request to allow unhampered negotiations for June's return.

U. S. CHARGES 'SCHEME' TO WEIRTON

Attempted to Deprive Workers of Rights, Attorney Says

WILMINGTON, Del., May 4.—(AP.)—Continuing its attack upon the Weirton Steel Company the government today charged a "deliberate scheme" was effected to deprive Weirton employes of the right of collective bargaining.

Presenting the rebuttal to the company's defense in the suit for a preliminary injunction to prevent interference with the balloting of the steel workers, Frank K. Nebeker, former Chicago judge, told Judge John P. Nields in United States District Court that "the company plan, in connection with certain restraints and acts of coercion ad interference perpetrated by the defendant, is a scheme deliberately adopted and maintained to deprive a substantial number of its employes of the rights sought to be exercised by them, namely the right of collective bargaining."

VIOLATION CHARGED

He pointed out the case as "extremely important." He added:

"It involves the National Recovery program, and it is not an exaggeration to say that the eyes of the people of this country are focused on this particular proceeding. This is particularly true of the interest of labor under the recovery program.

"This is not brought in behalf of the Amalgamated Union of Iron and Steel workers. It merely happens in this particular case that these employes of the defendant have associated themselves with that union and have made an effort to secure the right of collective bargaining through the organization."

DUQUESNE MILL VOTE ORDERED

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—The National Labor Board announces that it has voted unanimously, in response to a petition, that an election of employe representatives of the Carnegie Steel Company, Duquesne, Pa., be granted.

The board stated the form, method and procedure of the election would be announced later.

On March 20, a delegation representing approximately 1,500 employes of the company, petitioned Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the Labor Board, for the election. At that time, affidavits charging the company with coercion and intimidation of the employes in connection with an election held February 23 by the company under its employe representation plan, were filed.

The Carnegie Steel Company is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation and employs approximately 4,000 workers at its Duquesne plant.

PROBE BLAMES BANK FAILURE ON FINANCIERS

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—Investigators reported to a Senate committee today that the policies which led to the failure of the $35,000,000 Union Trust Company of Cleveland were dictated by Joseph R. Nutt and that he was "influenced" by the Van Sweringens.

Nutt, former treasurer of the Republican National committee, and O. P. Van Sweringen, railroad builder, are under indictment for what investigators terms a "window dressing" loan to the bank. Nutt once was president of the institution.

The report naming them was submitted to the Senate Stock Market and Banking committee today by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel.

'WINDOW DRESSING'

It held the bank's failure was due to "unsound banking practices over a period of years." Among the practices named were "heavy investment in real estate," "excessive concentration of loans to the Van Sweringen and Eaton interests," "loan to officers, directors and their affiliated corporations," a bad dividend policy and inadequacy of reserves.

Pecora's report charged general use of "window dressing" practices by the bank and suggested it had obtained advance notice of bank calls.

LINKS RAIL MAGNATES

Other conclusions reported were:

The Union Trust turned over to J. P. Morgan & Co., as collateral on a Van Sweringen loan, the same collateral it held as trustee for other Cleveland banks on previous loans.

The report said:

"There is very little doubt that the affairs of the Union Trust Company were dictated by Mr. Nutt, and, too, there is very little doubt but that the policies and act of Mr. Nutt were, in a great measure, influenced by the Van Sweringens."

All the stronger races, including your own, whatever it may be, were cannibals in the beginning. Those that were not cannibals died out, because they had no meat to give their children in time of famine. Minnehaha was doubtless a cannibal also, and did the cooking for Hiawatha.

MILLIONS WILL be glad to hear that Pope Pius, now seventy-seven years old, will move from the hot gardens of the Vatican to spend the summer at his villa on the hills, Castel Gandolfo. Recognition of the Pope's temporal power by Italy makes the move possible, after sixty-four continuous years of papal residence within the Vatican walls.

The Pope will take with him only a few high church dignitaries, and a detachment of the faithful Swiss Guards and papal gendarmes. Audiences will be granted at Castel Gandolfo.

The fact that the Pope has been able, in spite of his age, to endure the oppressive heat of the Vatican for so many summers is due to his absolutely temperate life and many years of mountain climbing vacations in high Alps before he was elevated to the papacy.

THE DEPARTMENT of Justice needs two million dollars for more men to hunt Dillinger, and to buy guns for the hunting. Some agents of the department have been armed with machine guns taken from captured gangsters, a sort of "hoist with his own petard" idea, fortunately the United States seems to have plenty of money, to hunt Dillinger or anything else.

In the last ten months, Uncle Sam has spent fourteen thousand dollars every minute, something more than nineteen million dollars a day. While spending nineteen million, he has taken in only eight million dollars a day, which means that he has borrowed ten million dollars every day to do business on. That can't last forever, without inflation, and not even with inflation.

THE FRENCH are feverishly hunting for spies, particularly in and around the great fortifications of Belfort on the German frontier. We are free from spy worry here, for there is nothing for a spy to report except that we keep comic opera "coast defense pop-guns" to shoot at ships that will never come, leave vital spots like the Panama Canal wide open to attack, for lack of adequate air defense, and leave our richest cities open to bombardment and destruction at any time.

SOMEBODY IN this country should remember the warning that Solon gave Croesus, displaying his piles of gold:

"If anyone comes having better iron than thee, he will be master of all this gold."

If anyone should come having better and more airplanes, and submarines, than we, he could cart away that large rabbit's foot seven billion dollar lump of gold in Washington, without serious interference. We should be compelled to say:

"Yes, certainly, take it, but please don't poison gas us anymore."

FARLEY AWARDS 15 AIR MAIL CONTRACTS

First Move by U. S. to Return Business to Private Operators

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—The air mail, untouched by private hands for nearly three months, will go out in the ships of nine commercial companies over routes totaling 16,797 miles within 30 days.

The nine companies held today the first contracts awarded by the Postoffice Department in its move to return flying of the air mail to private operators. Fifteen temporary contracts, each for 90 days, were awarded.

Simultaneously postal officials sent out a call late yesterday for bids on 10 new routes to be opened May 25, along with new offers on two routes for which proposals were rejected.

BID DISCARDED

Analysis of the new contract making showed that five companies out of the dozen or so which once carried the mail were given 11 of the awards. One route apiece was handed to the newcomers.

Postmaster General Farley and officials of other departments have been studying for more than a week to determine how fully the old contract holders met the strict reorganization orders that followed cancellation of all previous contracts February 9 on charges of collusion.

The reorganizations, Farley said, were not complete in detail. He added, however, they had "apparently been undertaken in good faith" and had been approved upon the advice of the Attorney General after assurance the changes would be completed shortly.

A low bid of the Kohler Aviation Corporation, Grand Rapids, Mich., for the Detroit-Milwaukee run, was discarded, Farley said, because the company retained an officer, Richard W. Robbins, of Pittsburgh, who took part in the 1930 conference of operators, which, he asserted, resulted in awards of "illegal contracts."

FIRMS NAMED

Farley said the routes now outlined and those for which new bids will be obtained May 25 would bring the air mail mileage network to 28,548. When the old contracts were canceled, 25,248 miles were being flown.

He estimated the cost of the enlarged network at $9,000,000 a year, as compared with $19,454,980 in the 1933 fiscal year and the $14,000,000 appropriated for the 1934 fiscal period.

United Airlines, Inc., obtained three routes, one of them the Newark-Oakland run. Eastern Airlines, Inc., received the Newark-Miami, Newark-New Orleans and Chicago-Jacksonville routes.

American Airlines, Inc., Chicago, was credited with three routes.

The Newark-Los Angeles mail will be flown by TWA, Inc.

The new concerns receiving contracts were Long & Harman, Inc., Dallas, Tex., Pacific Seaboard Airlines, Inc., San Bruno, Cal.; Wyoming Air Service, Inc., Casper, Wyo., and Central Airlines, Inc., Pittsburgh.

MARGIOTTI HITS RIVALS, BOSSES

Edward C. Shannon and William A. Schnader, both gubernatorial candidates, are "tools of the Mellon - Grundy - Vare machine," Charles J. Margiotti charged today.

Margiotti, also a candidate for Governor, said both his opponents were considered "safe" by the bosses. Schnader, he said, was their first choice, Shannon being used as a "spare."

Having concluded a tour of the eastern and northern counties, Margiotti will address two mass meetings tonight, in the Junior High School, Monessen, and the baseball park, Charleroi.

He will speak over KDKA at 7:45 p. m.

Tomorrow afternoon Margiotti will talk in the fair grounds in Mercer County and in Sharon. Senator James J. Davis will take the stand in Margiotti's support in both these meetings.

FATHER POISONS 9 BY MISTAKE

SAPULPA, Okla., May 4.—(AP.)—Doses of what Chester Barrett thought was quinine proved to be poison and killed three members of his family. Six others, including himself, are seriously ill.

Barrett, unemployed, last night gave seven of his eight children, his wife and himself doses from an old resceptacle that at one time had contained medicine.

Lee Snider, deputy sheriff, said he had learned that about two years ago Barrett purchased poison to kill rats at the small home near here, and that all of this was not used. Some time ago the original container broke and the powder was transferred to the old quinine box.

Hepburn Hides in N.Y. To Shun Love Queries

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Katharine Hepburn, the spectacular young star of the screen, has hidden away somewhere in New York today and the mystery surrounding her marital affairs remains as dark as ever.

She returned to the metropolis last night after a trip from Merida, Yucatan, where she secretly divorced Ludlow Ogden Smith, a New York and Philadelphia broker, and resisted the efforts of the town's best reportorial inquisitors to make her talk.

Flashlights boomed as she strode from her train through the Pennsylvania Station. She was asked:

"Miss Hepburn, are you going to marry Leland Hayward?"

First she smiled, then she frowned, and finally she stamped her foot. Then she said:

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 4.—"I want to be questioned immediately about the Lindbergh ransom money."

So declared Stewart Donnelly, alleged international swindler of Indianapolis, held in New York today for swindles totaling $100,000 here and in four other states. He said:

"I had nothing to do with the money or with anyone connected with the case. I'm too smart to go in for that kind of thing."

"They have as much larceny in them as the swindler. They go into the deal expecting to make something for nothing."

PERSHING KIN'S PAINTING UNDER FIRE

'Beautiful,' Says One; 'Just Plain Awful,' Cries Another

Outraged "art" clashed today with Dormont School officials and leaders of the Parent-Teacher Association over the fitness of a mural, titled "Education Versus Crime."

The mural is the work of Louise Pershing, Pittsburgh artist, who wielded her brush for two months at $42.50 a week in a Public Works of Art Project to provide, she said, "something beautiful for the children."

The controversy, still somewhat vague, likely will be aired at next Monday night's meeting of the Dormont School Board.

Meanwhile, the mural is in the basement of the Hillsdale School, Dormont, instead of gracing the hallway near the auditorium for which it was intended.

"Hideous.
"Gruesome."
"Grotesque."
"Just plain awful."

Mrs. J. L. Perry, of 2727 Broadway, Dormont, president of the Hillsdale School P. T. A., said she objected to the painting because in her opinion it was not suitable for children to see constantly. She added that it "very probably is a fine work of art." She said:

"But it would take an artist to understand its meaning, not young children in the elementary grades. Its figures are grotesque."

Mrs. C. A. Aylesworth, of 2921 Espy avenue, Dormont, mother of two girls who attend the school, took an opposite view today. She exclaimed:

"Why, it's beautiful, inspiring."

The mural is designed to depict the advantages of education, its benefits in later life and its triumph over crime. Characters in various roles have been portrayed.

Declaring that it was up to the board and that the picture belonged to the government, Miss Pershing declared:

"I do not mean to criticize the people of Dormont except that I do not believe they understand the artistic merits of the mural."

"If they accepted it readily and with applause I would doubt if I had created anything worth while."

Miss Ella McKnight, school principal, and Ralpf Radcliff, superintendent of Dormont schools, refused today to comment on the controversy. They are understood to oppose its hanging in the hall.

ALTAR BOY DIES THROUGH LOVE FOR DUTY

Performs Rites Despite Illness, Collapses At Service

Death today had taken 15-year-old Patrick Joseph Hickey—the altar boy who preferred to lay down his life rather than force his duty.

Patrick died late yesterday in his modest home at 321 Corry street, North Side, after two days' illness of pneumonia. He had collapsed on the altar of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church Tuesday evening while serving at May devotion services.

The boy had been ill before church time but he refused to remain at home and he went on the altar and performed his duties as usual until near the end of the service, when he collapsed.

Patrick was carried into a side room and revived. Then he was assisted to his home by two other altar boys and a doctor called. Patrick battled bravely against the inroads of pneumonia, but he fought in vain.

Today his widowed mother, Mrs. Anna Hickey, wept for the son she lost. Patrick's only brother, Francis, 13, shared her tears.

BANK SHOOTING GIVES CLUE TO DILLINGER

U. S. Agents Visit Ohio Town; Fingerprints Examined

FASTORIA, O., May 4.—(AP.)—Capt. Jack Kesler, of the Fostoria police said the possibility that John Dillinger or his gang were responsible for the bloody First National Bank raid here yesterday loomed larger in the investigation of police today.

His statement came after the arrival of two federal and private investigators from Cleveland and Cincinnati. Capt. Kesler said a money drawer in the bank appeared to have telltale finger prints unpon it. He summoned Howarn G. Robinson, London prison farm indentification expert, to examine the drawer.

Despite Capt. Kesler's statement, Department of Justice officials in Detroit, headquarters for this area of Ohio, said it was their understanding it was "pretty definitely established that Dillinger himself was not involved in the Fostoria case, and no federal investigation was planned," so far as they knew.

FIVE PERSONS SHOT

Five persons were wounded by machine gun fire late yesterday as the two robbers escaped with $17,299 from the bank.

Police Chief Frank Culp, shot in the lungs by the robbers' murderous fire, was the most seriously wounded. William Feasal, 67, farmer, shot through the chest by a stray bullet, was in critical condition today. Wounds of the other three were minor.

The thugs forced William Daub, 40, assistant cashier, and Miss Ruth Harris, 22, bookkeeper, to act as shields for their getaway when citizens, armed with rifles, opened fire from rooftops.

Witnesses differed as to whether the pair's red-haired leader resembled John Dillinger. A teller, Ralph Barbour, said he thought the redhead had the notorious desperadoe's characteristics, but Andrew Emerine, bank president, disagreed.

Police, as uncertain as the witnesses, recalled that Emil Wanatka, proprietor of the Little Bohemia resort at Mercer, Wis., who was Dillinger's "host" recently, said the fugitive had dyed his hair red.

GUNS HIDDEN

Concealing machine guns in topcoats which they dropped upon entering the bank, the robbers ordered half a dozen employes of the bank to line up against a wall while they looted the cages.

The robbers used the latest bank holdup technique. They forced bank employes to enter the street first, jumped into their car, and ordered Miss Harris and Daub to stand on the running boards.

Two miles from the city limits they slowed down and told their shields to jump off. Miss Harris fainted as help arrived.

R. S. Powley, bank cashier, received a flesh wound from a bullet which was deflected by a suspender buckle. Two citizens, Ed Walters and Robert Shields, were wounded slightly.

Mute Writes He's Tired Being Taken for Dillinger

CHICAGO, May 4.—(INS.)—Three Chicago police squads had "John Dillinger" in custody today until the suspect obtained a paper and pencil.

In response to a tip, the police rushed to the South Side. Standing at a street intersection was Dillinger's double, a man who looked so much like pictures of the hunted desperado that the police were certain it was the much sought killer himself.

They surrounded him with shotguns and machine guns and rushed him off to the nearest police station. On the way the suspect refused to talk, strengthening the hopes of the sergeant in charge that he had captured the desperado.

Once inside Capt. John Norton's office the man seized a pencil and paper and wrote:

"I am a mute, but I am not Dillinger. I have been stopped several times before and I'm getting very tired of it. I wish you would capture Dillinger so I could have a little peace."

The man identified himself as Leo Weiner, 24, of Brooklyn, N. Y. He said he came here to Chicago to get work at the World's Fair.

Meanwhile the city-wide hunt for Dillinger continued unabated following the finding of an abandoned automobile known to have been used by either the desperado himself or his henchmen. Bloodstains found on the front seat of the car convinced federal agents that one of the Dillinger men was seriously wounded and the man hunt surged over the North Side where the car was found.

CRAZED SHOOTS 3 IN MINE

International News Service.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 4.—An imaginary grievance apparently preying on his mind, Anthony Phillipino, 38, a contract miner, today snuffed out the lives of two of his former employes, who quit their jobs about two weeks ago. A third fled into the woods and may have died there of bullet wounds. A fourth man escaped.

The dead were Louis Rodrigney, 30, and Alfonso Vita, 21, of Sugar Notch.

John Cartempi, 39, saved his life by hiding behind a pillar in the mine working where the men were employed.

The four men left Phillipino's employ about two weeks after a dispute and went to work at a drift operation in a lonely and wooded section near Hudson. Drift operations are open workings located near the surface.

WEDDING LINKS BANKING CLANS

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—The grandchildren of two of New York's most prominent bankers and philanthropists were married yesterday when Edith Brevoort Baker became the bride of John Mortimer Schiff.

Miss Baker is the granddaughter of the late George F. Baker, chairman of the First National Bank. Schiff's grandfather, the late Jacob H. Schiff, was head of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

The wedding took place in the Park avenue home of the bride. Chief Justice Frederic Kernochan, of the Court of Special Sessions, performed the ceremony. Only relatives and close friends were present.

Miss Baker, who attended Miss Hewitt's school, studied in Paris and made her debut at a brilliant ball in 1931, is noted as a pianist and composer.

Schiff was graduated from Yale in 1925 and from Oxford in 1927. Four years ago he became a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

FIND GIRL SLAIN, BOY WOUNDED

WAYNE, Neb., May 4.—(AP.)—Dr. L. B. Young opened his dental office today and found Nancy Ann Alford, 19, dead in a chair with her wrist slashed, and his son, Ronald, 20, unconscious on the floor nearby. The youth's wrists also were cut.

Officers expressed the opinion that Ronald chloroformed and killed the girl and then attempted suicide. He may recover, doctors said.

County Attorney H. D. Addison gave a cause for the slaying. He said they had confessed looting the James Ahern store recently. Addison added that the young couple apparently were implicated in a dozen other robberies.

PEN FUGITIVE RECAPTURED

CHESTER, Ill., May 4.—(AP.)—Warden Joseph Ragen, of Southern Illinois Penitentiary, announced that James O'Connell, who with Randol Eugene Norvell, kidnap gang leader, has been a fugitive from the prison, was captured this morning near Alto Pass, Ill.

Warden Ragen said capture was by a group of prison guards and that O'Connell surrendered without resistance. He quoted O'Connell as saying Norvell was nearby and exhausted by the chase. The warden said he believes the fugitive kidnaper may be captured today.

O'Connell, 33-year-old burglar, was hungry when taken by the prison guards, Ragen said. He said the man was not armed when found.

Norvell, leader of the gang convicted of kidnaping August Luer, Alton (Ill.) bank president, last summer, and O'Connell escaped from the Chester prison last Friday by worming their way through a sewer outlet to the Mississippi River.

2 Policemen Shot By N. Y. Gangsters

Universal Service.

BERKELEY, Cal., May 4.—Dr. Robert E. Cornish may go a great deal further with his now famous resuscitation experiments—but not on the University of California campus!

They sent him his formal "dispossess" notice today, and now the young doctor, his resurrected dog "Thirteen," the machine that brought "Thirteen" back to life, and all the rest of Dr. Cornish's equipment must move from the old anatomy building of the university.

A statement issued by Dr. Monroe E. Deutsch, vice president and provost of the university, said Dr. Cornish had not followed the university's policy of carrying on investigations "quietly and unobstrusively."

In the meantime, "Thirteen," on the twenty-first day of his new life—he was "resurrected" on April 13—totally unaware of the furore of publicity and resultant action that revolved about him, continued his improvement.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—George F. Baker, banker and philanthropist, left a net estate of $73,759,683 when he died May 2, 1931, a transfer tax appraisal filed today showed. He was head of the First National Bank of New York.

TURNER IN NEW RECORD FLIGHT

Capt. Roscoe Turner, noted airspeed pilot, today claimed a new flight record between Detroit and Pittsburgh, covering the 271 miles in 49 minutes and 19 seconds—an average of 329.4 miles per hour.

As timed by Western Union offices, Capt. Turner left the Detroit airport at 2:47 p. m. yesterday and at 3:36 he circled over the County Airport here in his Wedell-Williams low wing monoplane.

Climbing from his plane, Capt. Turner said he could have gone a little faster, but his oil got too hot. He explained:

"My motor is timed for 2,400 revolutions per minute, and I had her up only to 2,150 when the oil started spattering in my face."

He made the trip merely as a speed test flight.

INSULL CHATS WITH CAPTOR

International News Service.

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, May 4.—Despite a thick mist which enveloped the Exilona at sea today, Samuel Insull, indicted Chicago former utility magnate, spent some time in his deck chair conversing with Burton Y. Berry, in whose custody Insull is being brought back to the United States to face trial.

Berry, suffering from toothache, kept his face covered with a scarf. Insull was puffing a cigar and appeared to be in good humor. He said:

"I enjoyed a seven-hour sleep last night, the best night's rest I have had in more than a week."

Library in Erie Ousts CWA Canvas

ERIE, Pa., May 4.—(AP.)—A painting which depicts a young boy and a girl surrounded with birds, animals, trees and flowers, completed by a CWA worker here, will be removed from the children's room in the Erie Public Library because of a recommendation of the Art Club of Erie. The club declared the picture "unsuitable" for the room.

FETE TWINS, 75, ON BIRTHDAY

Twin brothers born in Philadelphia in 1859 were celebrating their 75th anniversaries in Pittsburgh today.

The twins, residents of Pittsburgh for the last 57 years, are Charles Dietrich, of 633 Turret street, and William Dietrich, of 6760 Reynolds street.

The brothers, after leading almost parallel lives, now are both retired, after working more than 30 years with the Westinghouse company. They were retired at the age of 70, in 1929.

Mrs. Myrtle Jones, 6630 Rowan avenue, and Mrs. Lillian McCutcheon, of 629 Turret street, are daughters of Charles. Miss Mildred Dietrich is a daughter of William. There are three grandchildren.

Dress Found in Lake Hints Mystery Death

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 4.—A woman's dress was found in the West Penn dam at Lake Lynn, William Duliere, editor of the Point Marion News, hooked the garment while fishing.

Residents believe a woman's body is at the bottom of the lake, held by a weight. Each summer the banks of the stream are lined with campers many of them from Pittsburgh.

CRUSADER GETS NEW PULPIT

The Rev. Ray E. Snodgrass, vice crusading pastor of the First Christian Church, North Side, has resigned to accept a call to the Central Christian Church, of Wichita, Kan.

A leader of the North Side group of ministers protesting conditions which they alleged existed, the Rev. Mr. Snodgrass was understood to have been one of those responsible for bringing in state police for a clean-up raid. He is chairman of the North Side Ministerial Association. Pastor of the First Church for four years, he will assume his new charge about June 15.

Mid-West Touring In Armored Cars Now in Vogue

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Dillinger's town will have no old home week this summer. It's afraid the boy will take advantage of the reduced rates.

Now, the police are figuring that Dilly may show up at the Kentucky Derby. The closest shave he has had so far is when a waitress spilled hot soup on his bullet-proof vest.

If Dilly goes to the Derby it will worry the officials. They are trying to find out what hoss he bet on so they can let it win.

Ex-Fiancee's Mother Mum on Astor Ring

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—"A closed incident," Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie said today regarding the broken engagement of her daughter, Eileen, to John Jacob Astor, III.

Astor, who returned yesterday from a "heart-mending" trip around the world, said a reconciliation might be possible. He also said the diamond engagement ring he gave Miss Gillespie hadn't been returned, but lies in a vault.

When asked about the ring, which Astor said was once the property of Empress Eugenie, Mrs. Gillespie replied:

"We have nothing to say."

Astor told reporters Eileen's parents "felt justified in placing it in a vault," because she was under 18.

To this, Mrs. Gillespie replied today:

PINCHOT CALLED ANOTHER 'HUEY' BY REED

Senator David A. Reed, tiring of an effort to persuade Gov. Gifford Pinchot, his opponent for the Republican senatorial nomination, to discuss national issues, yesterday ripped into the Governor for alleged political assessment on salaries of state employes, and strongly hinted it was a species of bribery.

The Senator spoke twice, in the afternoon before 600 feminine "Reed Volunteers," and in the evening at a mass meeting in Washington, where he was pledged the support of the Washington County Republican organization.

At the afternoon meeting in the William Penn Hotel Senator Reed repeated that he was not supporting or opposing any candidate for the governorship, thus noting reports that he had been selected for a slate which included Attorney General William A. Schnader as a candidate for Governor. The Washington county organization, while backing Reed, is also for Lieutenant Governor Edward C. Shannon for Governor.

CHARGES COERCION

Referring to reports that state employes were being assessed a portion of their pay for the Pinchot campaign, Senator Reed said:

"It is called bribery to appoint an official for money received. I can see no moral or ethical difference between demanding money for appointing a man to office and demanding money for leaving him in office. Yet that is what is going on today with every state employe. I know they resent it deeply and they have a right to do so.

"State employes are being told that if their votes are not cast for Gov. Pinchot they will lose their jobs. They are told unless they give 'expressions of gratitude,' as such money is termed, to the Governor's campaign, they will lose their jobs. It is the greatest coercion of the state payroll in the history of Pennsylvania politics.

"In the campaign of 1930 Mr. Pinchot pledged himself against such practices, but the pledge did not outlast its echo, as we all know because of the manner in which assessments were made on state employes in the campaign of 1932, when the Governor was supporting Smedley D. Butler for the Senate."

'HUEY LONG OF PENNA.'

Earlier in his speech the Senator said he had dared Pinchot to debate issues, but that the Governor declined and was resorting to personalities. He said the Governor was conducting himself as the Huey Long of Pennsylvania. His voice shaking with anger, the Senator took note of Pinchot's charge that Reed was not interested in unemployment relief. He said:

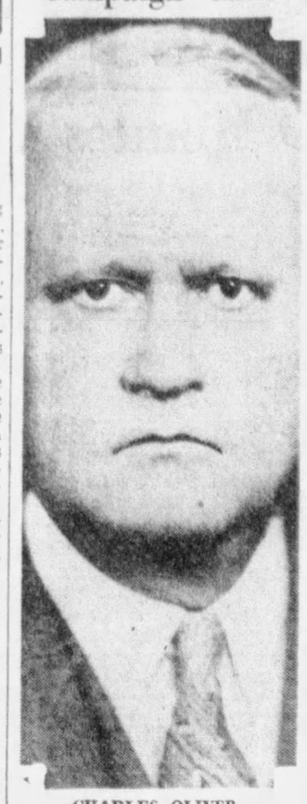
"I have no criticism of relief appropriations or the way they have been spent. The Governor came to me for assistance in getting relief money, and I, in his absence, last year procured relief money from the RFC for Pennsylvania relief.

"I don't know why anyone should want the senatorship badly enough to be lying to try to get it."

Senator Reed said he had no criticism of the NRA as an emergency measure, but objected to its gradual extension into the control of business, with price fixing. He said codes were prejudicial to small business organizations while helpful to big business.

Miss Elizabeth Arbuthnot was chairman at the William Penn meeting, which was opened by Francis S. Guthrie. Raymond D. Evans, Allegheny County campaign chairman for Reed, and Mrs. Walter Riggs, vice chairman, were other speakers.

Campaign Chief



CHARLES OLIVER

CHARLES OLIVER HEADS DRIVE

Charles Oliver, industrialist and philanthropist, has been named campaign manager of the Fall drive of the Community Fund of Allegheny County, it was announced today, as plans for the campaign were pushed by officers. The Fund's slogan in the drive will be "Rebuild."

In Speaking of the plans for the drive Mr. Oliver said there is a special need for clarifying the confusion which exists concerning unemployment relief coming from government funds and welfare agencies being provided through the Community Fund. He pointed out that straight unemployment relief is now coming almost wholly from federal and state money. He said in part:

"Next fall's Community Fund campaign will give citizens of Allepheny County a chance to show whether they are ready for recovery in the true sense of the word. Families that have endured four years of unemployment at a tremendous cost in health and standards, will not be brought back to their former place in normal life by the mere continuance of a weekly food order. Above all, these families need friendship, guidance and health supervision, to help them renew their hope and courage and sense of self-reliance."

LABOR GROUP ACTIVE IN RACE

Announcement was made today of indorsements of the Co-operative Political Conference of Allegheny County, a labor and liberal organization claiming 150,000 membership.

Candidates supported are:

For the Legislature—James L. McNamara, Second District; Henry Lees (Dem.-Rep.-I), Fifth District; William L. Blake (Rep.-Dem.), Seventh District; John E. McElroy (Dem.), Ninth District; C. Strobel (Rep.-Dem.), Tenth District; John C. Murray, Tenth District; John Arnold (Rep.-Dem.), Thirteenth District, and Joseph F. Piole (Dem.), Thirteenth District.

The conference reports it has been approved by the executive committee representing the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, the McKeesport Federation of Labor, United Labor Council of Tarentum and vicinity, the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Pennsylvania Security League.

Pension Favored By Senate Candidate

Martin C. Mihm, candidate for Senatorial nomination in the Forty-second District, speaking before the Twenty-sixth Ward unit of the United American Veterans' Association, outlined his platform which calls for increased widows' pensions, elimination of child labor, a lower eligible age for old age pensions, unemployment insurance and a full crew act. Mihm declared he would work for a constitutional convention to revise the Constitution.

The Twenty-fifth Ward Democratic Club will meet tonight in the Columbus Avenue School, with candidates invited to speak.

RALPH E. SMITH BACKS M'NAIR FOR GOVERNOR

At a meeting in the Peoples Pittsburgh Trust Company, Squirrel Hill, marked by clashes of factions and candidacies, Smith declared last night:

"There is no doubt about my stand. I have always been for McNair for Governor."

The announcement came at a time when the lack of indorsements for the McNair candidacy from the Mayor's official family was beginning to arouse considerable comment.

Smith, however, whose unsteady tenure of office has been one of the main news factors in City Hall, also advocated support of the Democratic county chairman and vice chairman.

TERMED 'COYNE MAN'

The two referred to, David L. Lawrence and Mrs. J. Wood Clark, both seeking re-election, support George H. Earle for governor.

Opposition to Lawrence and his senatorial candidate, Joseph F. Guffey, immediately flared forth in the speeches of John B. Sweeney and C. Gregg Lewellyn.

Attorney Charles J. Scheif, candidate for Legislature in the Fifth District, and A. P. Meanor, candidate for State Senate in the Forty-fourth District, also spoke.

Addressing a Republican mass meeting in the Mt. Lebanon Municipal Building last night, Violet Stewart Happer, candidate for the Legislature on both the Republican and Democratic tickets, declared:

"I am greatly relieved when I find that the other lady candidate from the Twelfth Legislative District is a trained nurse, as I believe every one will agree that when two poor lone women go up against 82 men, they will need a nurse or perhaps a specialist before the campaign is over. It will be like looking for a four-leaf clover looking for my name on the ballot, as I am No. 39 on the Republican and No. 22 on the Democratic ballot.

"One of the lady candidates for Congress from this district just declared that during her term in the Assembly she could not be 'handled.' Well, I would like Miss Grimes, the lady candidate for Congress or anyone else in this meeting to tell me if they ever heard of a woman who could be handled on any occasion. I have been before you many times before fighting mostly for men candidates, and now I am going to ask you to help me win my own fight on May 15."

'ALL FINE MEN,' SCHNADER SAYS

TOWANDA, May 4.—(AP.)—Carrying his campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor into the northern counties, William A. Schnader, Attorney General, last night said that he "will listen to no faction" if he is elected.

He told a meeting of voters:

"My record of 11 years at Harrisburg proves that I have never bowed to factional influence and I can assure you that I never will."

He said that all the candidates for Governor are "fine men" and that "the campaign has boiled itself down to the question of who is best qualified."

TABOR PLEADS FOR SCHNADER

On the three evaluations of character, experience and record, William A. Schnader best meets the requirements for Governor, according to Edward O. Tabor, independent leader.

Tabor, who previously indorsed the candidacy of Gov. Gifford Pinchot for United States Senate, made his plea for Schnader in an address last night. The action ignores the local tieup between Pinchot and Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, candidate for Governor.

"The record shows that during Schnader's 11 years as Attorney General he has known neither bosses nor subjects, but has served the people of all the state, fearlessly, wisely and impartially."

Scheif Still in Race for Assembly

Attorney Charles J. Scheif declared today he had not withdrawn his candidacy for Democratic nomination for Legislature in the Fifth District. Scheif called attention to a previous announcement that Attorney G. Rody Scheib was withdrawing in that district in favor of Attorney Frank J. Zappala. Scheib, Scheif said, was not a candidate. Scheib admitted that, although petitions had been circulated for him, he had withdrawn his name before it was put on the ballot.

RALLIES LISTED FOR PINCHOT

The campaign for Gov. Pinchot for Senate will be carried on in half a dozen widely separated meetings tonight.

Judge Ralph H. Smith and Dr. W. D. McClelland will address a meeting sponsored by the Brookside Civic Club, Brookside Farms.

At Dickinson school, Swissvale, Blair Gunther, member of the Pinchot campaign committee, will talk, J. D. Truxall presides.

John Bell, vice chairman of the Pinchot committee, will speak at Washington school, Universal, at Lincoln park school, outer Lincoln avenue, and at Thad Stevens school, Frankstown road, Eastwood.

PHILLIPS HERE TO PEP UP RACE

Former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler, conferred in his Pittsburgh headquarters today with local representatives, endeavoring to devise ways and means to put some punch in his campaign for the final week of the primary. Phillips said that as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination he had not sought the aid of political bosses.

Last night at Osceola School Joseph A. Burns, chairman of the Phillips speakers' committee, asserted that Attorney General William A. Schnader was the handpicked entry of the Mellon-Grundy-Vare organization, and that Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon was placed in the gubernatorial fight by a combination of professional county officeholders.

Burns said that Phillips would further legislation to relieve the tax burden on home owners and would encourage home owning and home building.

M'LEOD, AIDES IN NEW MOVE FOR VOTE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The fight for legislation to aid depositors in closed banks will continue until the end of the session, Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, author of the 100 per cent payoff bill, said today.

Having obtained the backing of 100 members, who signed a petition to bring his bill to a vote, he was confident of being able to force action on relief legislation.

The petition to bring the bill to the floor requires 145 names today to insure a vote on May 14. If it is not completed today, a vote can be obtained two weeks later.

With leaders losing hope for adjournment by the middle of this month, the McLeod bill backers believe that they would have time to carry their campaign to a successful conclusion.

McLeod is being deluged with invitations to mass meetings in many cities.

The petition was more than two-thirds completed, after it appeared that the opposition of Democratic leaders had brought the campaign for the bill to a complete standstill.

Meantime, the House Banking Committee was rapidly completing hearings which will preced a report on the Steagall compromise under which the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation would be given power to bring limited relief to depositors in closed banks.

CITY TO BE HOST TO BOYS' CLUBS

Thousand of Boys' Club members from all parts of the country will attend the national convention of the Boys' Club of America at the William Penn Hotel next week. Officers and members of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh will be hosts.

Organizations assisting in arrangements include the Woods Run Settlement, Soho Community Center, Irene Kaufmann Settlement, all agencies of the Community Fund, the Kay Community House and the Sarah Heinz House.

James W. Lodge is general chairman.

Features of the convention will be an address by Sheldon Glueck, professor of criminology at Harvard University, on "The Delinquent Boy;" a hand-craft exhibit, and presentation of the annual report.

'POOR' PAULINE LISTS WOES

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—(AP.)—Training her lorgnette on the trustee, Pauline Frederick, actress, testified in her bankruptcy hearing that her only assets are an old "town car" that cost $7,000 and some stocks and bonds.

The case also involves her show company, the Pauline Frederick Company. Miss Frederick filed a bankruptcy petition last autumn, listing assets of $1,600 and liabilities of $3,244.

She was adjudged bankrupt in Federal Court in December, but was required by Trustee Harry Ashton to come here for yesterday's hearing so she could be discharged of her liabilities.

MAYVIEW FUND HITS SNAG

Objections to spending $1,264,554 for a new building for mental patients at Mayview were voiced yesterday by Councilmen at a hearing on recommendations of the Mayor's committee which made a survey at the home.

The proposed building is intended to care for 500 patients. President of Council Robert Garland said that in his opinion the cost should be kept within $300,000.

A recommendation for an appropriation of $80,000 to buy eggs, milk and fresh fruit for the inmates of the home brought inquiries from Councilmen as to why the home, which is located on an 1,100-acre tract, cannot produce the eggs and milk.

Gwinnett Signature Bought for $10,100

NEW YORK, May 4.—(INS.)—Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, collector, today was the owner of an autographed letter bearing the signature of Button Gwinnett, a signer of the Declaration of Independence from Georgia. He paid $10,100 for it at the sale of the library of the late Dr. Roderick Terry, of Newport, R. I., noted collector.

Veteran Vagrant, Found Ill, Dies

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urge passage of the bill introduced by Representative McLeod, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end we urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

Rainey Favors Payoff Legislation This Session

Speaker Commits Self to Steagall Proposal

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Heeding the nationwide demand for relief of depositors whose 1,815 million dollars of cash assets are tied up in closed banks, Speaker Rainey has declared for bank relief legislation at this session.

Rainey committed himself to the Steagall substitute brought out by the House Banking and Currency Committee to forestall passage of the McLeod 100 per cent payoff bill.

Predicting that the Steagall bill will be passed, Rainey said:

"I think the government ought to release the frozen deposits within a reasonable extent."

The Steagall bill would pay off all deposit accounts up to $2,500.

Meanwhile, heartened by the success of Representative McLeod's three Pittsburgh speeches Wednesday, proponents of his bill for a 100 per cent payoff concentrated on completing the discharge petition to take the ball from the Rules Committee direct to the floor.

Charles P. Bloome, of Philadelphia, acting chairman of the national Depositors' committee, who is here working for the McLeod bill, dispatched telegrams to governors of 11 industrial states urging that they exert their influence with members of the House from their states who have not done so to sign the petition. The telegrams went to governors of Alabama, California, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

Bloome will address a town meeting at Johnstown, Pa., tonight in behalf of the legislation.

Two hours earlier, in the same vicinity, three Negroes robbed David Quiless, of 432 Atwood street, of $23.

FOES GIVING WAY

"Several signs indicate the collapse of the opposition. The great mass meeting in Pittsburgh was a notable outpouring of the people in a popular cause. Its effect has been felt in Washington already. The entire Republican delegation from Illinois has signed the petition. Three well known Democratic representatives who hitherto had opposed the bill have signed. They are Representatives Greenway, of Arizona; Howard, of Nebraska, and Lindsay, of New York.

"After witnessing the enthusiasm of the people in Pittsburgh I cannot understand how any representative from Western Pennsylvania could hope to come back to Congress after opposing such a decided demand for legislation for the relief of the bank depositors."

Representative James L. Whitley, of New York, was the hundredth signer. More than a dozen others, Republicans and Democrats, returning to Washington today, are expected to sign early. Among the number is Representative L. T. McFadden, of Pennsylvania, and several Ohioans are expected to sign.

ARTIST IN BOW WITH DRAWINGS

Edna Pearson Limns Supple Reactions Of Negro

By PENELOPE REDD

Edna Early Pearson makes her public bow as an artist at an exhibition of character drawings in the Wunderly Gallery which will be on view until mid-May. Miss Pearson is animated with a tender regard for the Afro-Americans who make life so comfortable and pleasant for many of us through their amiable management of the mechanism of living. Remembering that one of the most touching contemporary renditions of Negro life was done by Marc Connelly, a former Pittsburgh newspaper man, one sees no impediment towards a comparable achievement in paint on the part of Miss Pearson.

Penelope Redd

Miss Pearson's exhibition has so much unity of theme that it is difficult to isolate specific examples. She appreciates the Negro's capacity for direct living. She visualizes the joy of the fleeting moment which suffices instead of the Nordic's postponment to a future promising permanence.

She sets down the flexibility that makes even drudgery a social exercise. She captures the mercurial response to humor, tragedy and religion. Of the physical aspects of the Afro-Americans, Miss Pearson, of course, emphasizes the naturally rhythmic qualities of their movements.

Miss Pearson's pictures always have the air of improvisation and in that fact alone comply with the suppleness of the race which she interprets so sympathetically.

Here's the story briefly, why you can buy the famous "Goodman and Suss" Suits ROSENBAUM DAY at unheard-of low price

"Goodman & Suss" had a stampede of orders right before Easter. Even with their modern, up-to-date factory they were unable to meet the demand. After these suits were started in production (and many made ready for the Hand Tailoring), orders were cancelled because deliveries could not be made before Easter.

We and only two other stores in the United States were fortunate enough to buy this overproduction of Goodman & Suss Suits to sell at this low price

Here they are, men . . . If you want one of the finest ready-tailored suits made, take advantage of this ROSENBAUM DAY SCOOP. The tailoring measures up to the highest standard for which "Goodman & Suss" is noted. The patterns are individually chosen because of their distinctive and exclusive smartness. Woolens are imported, and domestic qualities are the kind only found regularly in the highest priced garments. Not ordinary suits—NOT BY A LONG SHOT—and men who know clothing quality will immediately recognize this.

There are 350 suits in all. Every one a brand new 1934 Spring and Summer suit. Complete selections. Custom patterns in checks, plaids and stripes, in blues, blue-grays, gray-greens, powder blues, browns, tans and staple oxfords. Complete assortments for regulars and shorts—Sizes 35 to 44.

CROWD SWAMPS REGISTRATION BOARD HERE

With only today and tomorrow remaining for citizens to enroll a score of additional clerks were pressed into service at the board's quarters in the County Office Building.

An emergency office on the second floor was set up. A double line of belated voters, two-thirds of them women, wound around Ross street into Diamond street. In the throng were a number of county employes who had passed up earlier chances to enroll.

STREET WORK REFUSED

Forty-four registrars were registering 1,300 voters an hour. The Registration Board refused to set up registration booths in the street, saying it was impracticable to increase the already augmented force as experts were needed to compile the permanent records.

Enrollment under the permanent registration system was held at the various polling places on three days, the last being Wednesday. Registration at the Registration Board's offices will end at 4 p. m. tomorrow. After that no one may qualify for the May 15 primary elections.

Total registration in Pittsburgh, when corrections are made and supplemental registrations now being made are added, is expected to show around 200,000, with Democrats not far behind Republicans.

WEDNESDAY TOTALS

The tremendous shift to the Democratic column is shown by the fact that four years ago the registration in Pittsburgh revealed 170,000 Republicans and 5,210 Democrats.

Tomorrow not only will be the last opportunity to register in Pittsburgh but also the last day to cancel a party enrollment in Pittsburgh; make application for assistance in voting because of physical disability; to have names transferred on vote lists resulting from change of residence in third class cities; enroll with the County Department of Elections for voting in boroughs and townships; file appeals with County Commissioners from actions of registrars in third class cities.

Veteran Candidate For Legislature

Offering honest and fearless representation, Edward Lee Bladel is a candidate for Republican and Democratic nominations to Legislature in the Twelfth District. Bladel was a member of the Intelligence Section, 28th Division, during the war. He was treasurer of the American Legion during the early months of its existence, he reports.

Kavanaugh Favors Jobless Insurance

Minimum wage, unemployment insurance laws and price stabilization are proposed by James J. Kavanaugh, candidate for Legislature in the Fourth District. To obtain the social legislation he wants, he declares a new State Constitution is imperative. He proposes state or municipal ownership of all public utilities.

Greatest Crisis Since 1860 Faces U. S., Beck Says

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP.)—Congressman James M. Beck, of Philadelphia, said that the next few years would "see an awakening of a forgotten class, the taxpayer, so near approaching confiscation of income." He spoke last night. He said:

"There is no doubt in my mind that America is in the the greatest crisis since 1860. I believe the next three or four years will be critical years in America and I am not referring to political parties.

"The impact of the two great opposing forces may be tremendous. One force has a conscious purpose to redistribute property by inflation, or statute, or what not, and this is designed to be done by the executive power of government.

"America must choose whether it will be a local self-government as set up by the Constitution or a regimented bondage of the New Deal which is as old as governmental oppression."

BRANDS HERRON COYNE'S 'TOOL'

Former Mayor John S. Herron "obeyed the voice of his master, State Senator James J. Coyne," in swinging his support to William A. Schnader, candidate for Governor, Edward O. Spotts, Jr., declares.

Spotts, chairman of the speakers' committee for Edward C. Shannon, also a gubernatorial candidate, in a speech last night, pointed to the Herron announcement for Schnader as a sign that Schnader was the Mellon-Coyne-Grundy-Vare candidate.

He said Herron's ward organization no longer meant anything since losing control of the city.

Gen. A. J. Logan and John Watson, vice commander of the American Legion, spoke at the Shannon noon meeting today. Former Gov. John K. Tener will deliver a radio address for Shannon at 10:30 p. m. today.

FORGOTTEN MAN POSE OF M'NAIR

READING, May 4.—(AP.)—Mayor William N. McNair, of Pittsburgh, called at the state Democratic women's convention headquarters today without being recognized, then paid an informal visit to Reading's Democratic Mayor, Heber Ermentrout, to express some views on Pittesburgh's city government.

"I'm from Pittsburgh, name of McNair."

The announcement drew the inquiry:

"Oh, are you a brother?"

So Pittsburgh's chief executive went on to Mayor Ermentrout's office. He commented:

"You ought to put your office in the lobby like I did? They say my offices are pretty nice. I only saw them once.

"If the people of Pittsburgh ever find out they have a Democratic Mayor they will fire him.

"We're giving them quite a show out there. Nobody knows I am the Mayor. I go out and deliver speeches that nobody knows anything about.

'Every bill the Republicans pass I veto. Then it is passed over my veto and everybody is happy."

ERK ANSWERS CHARGES BY BROOKS

It would be the height of folly to represent himself as a member of Congress, Edmund F. Erk said today in reply to a demand of Congressman J. Twing Brooks for an investigation into Erk's method of soliciting votes.

Erk, a former Congressman, is running for both Republican and Democratic nominations for Congress in the Thirtieth District. Defeated in the last election, he now is secretary to Congressman Michael J. Muldowney.

Brooks said Erk had sent out thousands of campaign letters asking "re-election;" that he had referred to "extraordinary Congressional duties weighing heavily upon him, and that he assured voters he would "continue" support of President Roosevelt.

Erk said:

"How can I represent myself to my own people as a Congressman when they know I'm not? That would be the height of folly."

Having been a Congressman, he said it was legitimate for him to use the word "re-election." Congressional duties were incurred in his secretaryship, he declared. He pointed out that he was an employe of the government and supporting the President in constructive measures.

Erk dwelt on the fact—and Brooks' admission of it—that he had not usurped the franking privileges of a Congressman.

To Brooks' objection that the letterhead used by Erk bore the title "Congress of the United States, House of Representatives," Erk said the practice of buying congressional stationary is a common one.

Hagan Indorsed By Councilman Kane

Councilman John J. Kane today pledged support to Joseph H. Hagan, candidate for the Democratic nomination to State Senate in the Thirty-eighth District. He said:

"My experience convinces me of the vital necessity of supporting candidates who will go to Harrisburg with the knowledge that their only boss is the people of their district.

"Of all the candidates, Hagan is, to my mind, the best fitted to carry on our fight. I have known him intimately for over 20 years. He is secretary of the Printing Pressmen's Union, Local No. 9. I know he is honest and capable."

HARRIS LAUDS MARGIOTTI

Senator Frank J. Harris is supporting Charles J. Margiotti for Governor because of his stand for social legislation and his tax reduction plan, he has declared.

In an address last night, Harris also stated that Margiotti would have supported him if he had not been forced out of the race by sickness.

He said:

"I am especially impressed by Margiotti's platform because of the fearlessness and sincerity and ability that are so definitely a part of his character and that will be put back of these pledges.'

Holmstrom Favors Governmental Cuts

George A. Holmstrom, candidate for Legislature in the Sixth District, is advocating reduction in cost of government. He also wants revision of the state Constitution.

GRUNDY FLAYED BY SHANNON

ALTOONA, Pa., May 4.—(AP.)—Gen. Edward C. Shannon predicted last night the day soon will arrive when the old controversial issues between Democrats and Republicans will have been relegated to the background and the question will arise "whether the United States shall stand or be throttled by Socialistic movements."

The Lieutenant-Governor, who is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, addressed a crowd estimated at 1,000.

Shannon also struck at the present Republican setup in Pennsylvania, saying the party now is "bound in the fetters of boss rule." He charged:

"Grundy is an anchor on the lifeline thrown out to save the party and Mellon and Vare have us handcuffed."

Mayor John J. McMurray presided at the meeting, at which Edwin R. Cox, president of the Philadelphia City Council and candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, also spoke.

Cox attacked the state liquor stores as an example of "mismanaged business in which politicians rather than business men have been placed at the head."

Shannon Indorsed By Spanish War Vets

Merrill Allen Camp No. 15, United Spanish War Veterans, has given indorsement to Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon for governor, Edmund F. Erk for Congress in the Thirtieth District and James R. George for Legislature in the Seventh District. The camp comprises more than 300 members.

Tabor Supporting Pinchot Candidacy

Through an error in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph, Attorney Edward O. Tabor, independent leader, was reported scheduled to deliver a radio talk supporting the candidacy of Senator David A. Reed, out for re-election. Tabor favors the senatorial candidacy of Gov. Gifford Pinchot. And he spoke last night for Attorney General William A. Schnader, running for governor.

MOTORMAN LOSES 38 LBS. EXCESS WEIGHT—EXPECTS TO LOSE MORE

This veteran Street Car Man says, "Last year I lost 38 pounds on 3 jars of SYL-VETTE, yet all I did was to take it in place of one meal each day. Getting rid of this surplus weight surely helped me a lot in my work. I feel better, am more alert, and now get around fine. Originally I weighed a little over 300 pounds. During the winter I did not attempt to reduce, but I am now starting SYL-VETTE again and expect to lose from 40 to 60 pounds more. I highly recommend this tasty food substitute which not only takes the place of a meal, but is so nourishing, too.

Mr. J. J. Lyden,
514 Howard Street, Bridgeport, O.

NO DRUGS—NO THYROIDS—NO SALTS—SYL-VETTE IS A FOOD

SYL-VETTE is a drugless, safe system of weight control, a condensed hunger-satisfying food substitute of which one teaspoonful equals a breakfast or a lunch.

SYL-VETTE not only satisfies hunger, but supplies nourishment and strength—also prevents sagging muscles, wrinkles, and that distressed, haggard look so common with other reducing treatments. That's because SYL-VETTE is rich in non-fattening proteins and carbohydrates.

HERE'S PROOF—19 out of every 20 users lose 3 pounds or more the first week — 10 to 15 pounds a month—which is pronounced safe by doctors. Economical, too—30 slenderizing meals $1.00.

NEW TAX BILL HITS LARGE INCOMES

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—The tax bill sent to the White House yesterday provides a normal income tax rate of 4 per cent on all net income as against 4 per cent on the first $4,000 and 8 per cent above that figure in existing law.

Exemptions are the same as in the present law—$2,500 if married and $1,000 if single—but a 10 per cent credit is allowed for earned net income up to $14,000.

Income surtaxes are raised, mostly in the higher brackets, and the taxes begin at a lower figure than at present, but due to allowances for the first time of normal tax exemptions in figuring the new surtax the lower bracket taxpayers will pay no higher tax.

The new surtax schedule reduces existing income brackets from 53 to 29. The new and present schedules follow with the percentages of rates of tax:

New Portion of Net Income From		New %	Present Portion of net Income From		Present %
$ 4,000-	$ 8,000	4	$ 4,000-	$10,000	1
6,000-	8,000	5	10,000-	12,000	2

Over $1,000,000		59

Under existing law the surtax increases 1 per cent for each $2,000 above $68,000 until $100,000 is reached. Then the percentage increases is the same, but the brackets jump by $50,000 and larger amounts until a maximum rate of 55 per cent is reached on the excess over $1,000,000.

MARRIED MAN GETS 'RELIEF'

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—The married taxpayer with a net income up to and including $25,000 will pay less than at present under the tax bill sent to the White House yesterday.

Admits Perjury; Sentenced to Jail

Henry Troianowski, of Butler street, was sentenced in Federal Court to serve one month in jail, when he pleaded guilty of committing perjury when a witness in a naturalization hearing. When he appeared in behalf of John Wierzerzbinski, of Forty-third street, September 19, 1932, he said he had never been arrested. Naturalization authorities learned he had been convicted in Federal Court in December, 1929, on a liquor violation.

Milk Price Drops To 4c Quart In 'War'

MORRIS, Ill., May 4.—(AP.)—The price of milk dropped to 4 cents a quart delivered today, the result of a "milk war."

Starting five days ago at 8 cents, milk company officials explained, the price has been steadily decreased.

CLEAN RUGS Yourself

It's safe — economical

Save those dollars you spend for rug-cleaning! Why send your rugs out, when you can clean them yourself, at home, on the floor, with H and H? H and H dissolves the dirt, raises the nap, revives color and lustre. It's easy to use, too. H and H now comes in cake or flakes. Either form will clean a nine by twelve rug at a cost of a few cents. One cake or one package makes eight quarts of jelly soap. At drug, grocery, department stores. For generous sample cake, write to the H and H Cleaner Company, Dept. 43, Des Moines, Iowa.

Jack Oakie To Replace Myrt, Marge

By (AIRCASTER)

Out of Chicago comes the news that Myrt and Marge and their chewing gum sponsor have parted company. Myrt and Marge may return, but it will be for another boss, and in another spot.

Into the chewing gum quarter hour, hitherto devoted to the adventures of the two girl troupers, the spot which played competition to Amos 'n' Andy, will step, when the summer is done, a cinema fellow by the name of Jack Oakie.

Jack recently performed on a one-shot, via WJAS, for a cereal concern, and the chewing gum boys hear him and marked him for a radio bet. He was summoned and signed and scheduled to represent the gum distributors at 7 p. m. over the Columbia system in the autumn.

Because Babe Ruth has proved such an appeal to kids, drawing 100,000 letters a week, Oakie will specialize in baseball stories, even though they may be out of season when he inaugurates his series.

LANNY'S SUB

James Melton is stepping into Lanny Ross' shoes on the "Showboat" series, on May 17. The official advices state that he is to remain on the show during the five weeks in which Lanny Ross will be occupied making a film in Hollywood.

Guy Lombardo, perennially a WJAS personage, is moving over to the NBC waves, July 15. Lombardo started out with CBS and has persistently rejected NBC offers. It was a question of loyalty.

Now Guy says it is a question of business, and he is moving over, not at the behest of the NBC, but on the invitation of a Memphis sponsor who manufactures lotions. The Lombardo band will provide, beginning May 15, a weekly musical extravaganza, probably via WCAE, every Sunday night.

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Are we getting books? I'll say we are, and they are coming up to Mayview as fast as we get them. Received a letter today from Director Hay thanking you all for the co-operation.

Some wag said that if we keep sending books and things to Mayview, we'll have to go there to find our more educated and intelligent people.

You perhaps have been reading about that streamline train due here next Saturday. Well, the president of the company owning the train has been invited to make a speech over KDKA at 6:30 that night.

I had requested the company to send me the operator of the train (the motorman, I think they call him, instead of the engineer) to describe the train, over WCAE at 6:30.

Can you imagine the embarrassment of some one telling the President what a fine speech he made over the radio and then in detailing facts about the broadcast reveal that he had been listening to the engineer instead of the President?

We'll have the engineer earlier in the day, I can see that.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

Field Day at Airport Being Planned For Junior Birdmen—Model Contest Coming

By J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander

Greetings, Junior Birdmen. With our membership steadily soaring throughout the country and interest skyrocketing as we make announcement after announcement of activities and features, we can lend our attention today to a few of the major events which are being planned for you. I was only awaiting an opportunity to give every one of you boys and girls an opportunity to join the Junior Birdmen so that you could all participate.

But no doubt even at that there will be plenty of wide awake boys and girls who won't know of our organization until probably after our summer activities have been concluded. However, if I may reach so far as to talk about proposed fall and winter activities, there will be popular pilot polls, famous aces banquets, junior birdmen radio broadcasts, indoor model meets and a host of other fine events to induce them to become junior birdmen and birdwomen. And to keep you members busy during the seasons too!

Plans for The Summer

By no means are our plans completed for the summer, but we have some dandy ideas. I am putting them into effect just as quickly as we can get them organized. First of all, somewhere about the first or second Saturday in June, we are going to have a field day at probably the City-County or Bettis Airports for you members and the finest outdoor aviation program ever put on at any airfield in or around Pittsburgh is in store for you. There will be a tour of the hangars, inspection of the planes, stunt and formation flying, parachute jumps, talks by famous fliers and all the sort of exciting outdoor aviation thrills that you would expect on a gala junior birdmen field day. I will have further details of this event in our column next week.

Then there is our local wing and national model plane contests that thousands and thousands of boys and girls throughout the country are looking forward to. A local wing meet will be held in each junior birdmen city, giving you all an opportunity to win many handsome awards and honors, and a chance to become the champion of your city. But what is more, each of the 17 city champions throughout the country will receive a trip to our national junior birdmen contest and here is where you will have you opportunity to display your merit and take the honor of all honors—the national model plane championship of the United States.

The date of July 7th has been chosen for the local contests in order that we may have no interference from school examinations and graduations. Of course many of you members may be anticipating going on summer vacations, but when you learn about this contest, and the dandy awards, you will probably stay in town just a week longer, or even come back from your vacation for the week-end to participate in this great nation-wide search for model plane talent.

Remember, even if you have never built a model plane before, we are starting our beginner's course in this column next week and I will bet you that every member will be able to construct a championship model to enter in the contest if they follow the directions.

Air Dictionary List Number 6

In our sixth series of definitions for our aviation nomneclature, published herewith, you will find many different types of altitudes with which you should become familiar. There are also several other terms of importance.

Airways—A route between two points best suited for aircraft having such flying aids to air navigation as landing fields, beacon lights, radio direction-finding facilities, intermediate and emergency landing fields, etc.

Airworthinss—The quality of an aircraft denoting its fitness and safety for operation in the air under normal flying conditions.

Altigraph—A recording altimeter. Instead of just showing the altitude on a clock-like arrangement, it records the altitude for permanent use. This device is often used in proving altitude records.

Altitude (critical)—The highest altitude at which a supercharger can maintain a pressure in the intake manifold of an engine equal to that pressure which exists during normal operation at rated power and speed at sea level.

Altitude (pressure)—The altitude corresponding to a given pressure in a standard atmosphere. This is the altitude at which the gas bags of an airship become full.

Altitude Mixture Control—A device on the carburetor for regulating the proportions of air and fuel supplied to the engine at different altitudes. It works automatically.

Aviation Dictionary Number 3

Many of you birdmen and birdwomen did not get your Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph last Friday. I have received scores of letters requesting the air dictionary printed that day. Therefore at your request we are printing it again. Be sure you clip it for your scrap book.

Air Base—A landing field for airships and planes. It is usually differentiated from an airport or an airfield in that it refers to a temporary field constructed for expeditionary flights, such as the air base at Little America, built by Rear Admiral Byrd for his South Pole flight adventures.

Aircraft—Any weight-carrying device designed to be supported by the air, either by buoyancy or by dynamic action.

Aircraft Carrier—A boat or ship designed to carry aircraft and to permit their landing and take-off on open deck runway.

Air Duct—A tube, usually of fabric, supplying air for filling or for maintaining pressure in the air-fileld parts of a balloon, blimp or other aerostat.

Airdrome—A landing or field for aircraft in England. In the United States we refer to them as airports or airfields.

Airfield—A locality on land used for the taking off and landing of aircraft. It also usually has facilities for shelter, a supply shop, repair hangar and a place for receiving and discharging passengers and cargoes to and from planes.

Airfoil—Any surface, such as an airplane wing, aileron, or rudder, designed to obtain reaction from the air through which it moves.

Happy Landings!

Well, time and space are up once more. Tomorrow I am going to tell you all about our forthcoming model plane course for beginners, and Monday—oh yes, that's the big day when we inauguarte our flight squadrons. I hope you are all ready with your 20 members to be one of the first in your neighborhood to start one of those units and send for your charter, officers' bars and book of rules and regulations for conducting your own flight squadron meetings and activities.

And before I bid adieu, I want to announce that in a few days I am going to devote one of our columns exclusively to girl members.

HAPPY LANDINGS!

Members of the Junior Birdmen are invited to send in their photos for publication in the Junior Birdmen column. They must be clear and sharp! Be sure to have your name and membership number on the back of each one.

Woman, 70, Hurt Riding on Bicycle

MEREDITH, May 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marcia Willis, 70, was aware today that times have changed since she was a girl. She was demonstrating yesterday for a prospective purchaser of a bicycle how she used to ride it. A passing automobile forced her off the road and in the ensuing fall, she suffered cuts that required 14 stitches.

TAXICABS MARK 25 YEARS WITH BROADCAST

Over WCAE at 7:15 tonight will be broadcast a program celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the operation of the first cab in Pittsburgh.

And believe it or not, two drivers who started 25 years ago and who still are pushing cabs around the city, will take part in the program.

That record is something to be proud of if you consider the contraptions these cabbies had to drive in the days when horses snorted at every horseless carriage.

Paul L. Houston, head of the Parmelee system here, will interview the veteran drivers, Isac N. Engle and George H. Whitingstall. A cab drivers' orchestra and a comedy skit by Joseph Cotz and Jakie Dolan, also cabbies, will be on the radio program also.

John W. Weibley, head of the first cab company here, will talk. Weibley sold his company to Walter S. Laird, who operated it until it was taken over by the Parmelee system in 1929 along with the Green Cab Company, which had been organized in 1916 by Mr. Houston and three brothers.

GERMAN BEAUTY HUNTED AS SPY

PARIS, May 4.—(AP.)—Search for a beautiful and cultured German girl for whose sake, police say, a former Polish army officer turned spy, was pressed today by the French secret service.

Authorities said the girl accompanied to this country Stanislas Krauss, the Pole whom they charge with peddling French military secrets to neighboring powers. She is still here, they said.

Krauss, now in prison, has confessed to espionage activities, police claim. His alleged accomplice, Capt. Froge, of the French army, has denied the charges. A third suspect — unidentified — is also held.

Beverage Men to Aid Code Board Selection

Allegheny County wholesale beverage distributors will go to Harrisburg Monday to partcipate in selecting a regional board to administer the wholesalers' code. The conference will be held under the auspices of the Federal Alcohol Control Association. Harry I. Neaman, Charles Leubbe and Otto Reinhold will represent the Allegheny distributors, taking proxies for others who cannot attend.

Rum Raid Inspired By Odor Problem For Court

Federal Judge Nelson McVicar has under consideration whether a "smell" of spirituous liquor emanating from a building is sufficient cause for issuance of a search and seizure warrant under the internal revenue law.

Inspectors of the Federal Bureau of Industrial Alcohol April 13 raided building on Leishman street, Arnold, and seized a 450-gallon still in operation and 100 gallons of moonshine whisky. Quay McHenry, arrested in connection with the raid, was held for court under $2,000 bond by the United States commissioner.

Through counsel he petitioned the court to suppress the property seized as evidence because of alleged unlawful search and seizure.

Jerome 'Bungled,' Says Evelyn 'Nesbit'

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—Evelyn Nesbit, in an autobiography published today, says the late William Travers Jerome as prosecutor in the Stanford White murder trial bungled the case against Harry K. Thaw.

Even though she was married to Thaw, the playboy of Paris and New York, Miss Nesbit writes that she had loved White for several years and loved him that night. For Thaw, she said she had only pity.

Second Czar Relic Stolen in New York

NEW YORK, May 4.—(INS.)—For the second time within a few weeks, a valuable relic of Russian czarist days has been stolen from a Park avenue show window.

On March 25 a window in the Hammer Galleries was smashed and a gold-hilted sword which had belonged to the late Grand Duke Vladimir was stolen. Yesterday the same window was smashed and a champagne cooler from the Czar's winter palace was taken.

That's because Jane uses DENTAY, the pure food powder made from the bark of a Persian tree. Entirely different—no more messy glue, paste, or gum tragacanth. DENTAY holds her plate firm and fast. No slipping, no fear of dropping it when she sings or talks or sneezes. Jane even sleeps with it in place.

DENTAY is absolutely harmless and tasteless. When spread on your plate the moisture of your mouth turns it into a natural adhesive that makes it fit tight and comfortably. DENTAY also forms a natural cushion which relieves the pressure on the gums when eating or biting, and keeps food particles from under the plate. Get DENTAY today. Speeches by U. S. Senator Davis Hold Interest

By MARK SHIELDS

The length to which Senator James J. Davis will go tomorrow in political analysis and discussion in two speeches he is scheduled to make is interesting not only politicians, but a good share of the public. The Senator is billed to speak at Mercer in the afternoon and Sharon at night.

Mr. Shields

Headquarters of Charles J. Margiotti, one of the candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, say flatly that Senator Davis will indorse the Punxsutawney attorney as the preferable nominee of the party. That, of course, will constitute news, but not of transcendental importance.

Expectancy surrounds the language in which the Senator will clothe this predicted indorsement, whether he will publicly express some of the discomfiture he privately felt when Republican leaders of the state in their negotiations over a preferred slate—before and after the dates for filing and withdrawing petitions—ignored the junior Senator. It is well known to many within political inner circles that the Senator was angry, and so expressed himself.

He was represented as insisting that should a candidate not meeting the progressive specifications he thought were desirable this year be selected, then the Senator would back a candidate of his own political persuasion. There were even hints that, failing other instruments, the Senator might himself enter the gubernatorial scramble, though these hints were never accepted as having much solidity.

Senator Originally Had Three Who Satisfied

The Senator had three candidates in the preliminaries to the primary whom he thought available. They were Superior Court Judge Arthur James, Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey and State Senator Frank J. Harris. James did not care to run.

Justice Maxey might have been persuaded, and at least gave ear to the subject—not only from Senator Davis but from others—but finally became annoyed at the procrastination of State Chairman Edward Martin. He flatly terminated the subject to remain on the bench, which always had been his real preference.

The entrance of Justice Maxey as a gubernatorial aspirant would have been more than pleasing to Senator David A. Reed.

When Senator Harris became active he drew the approval of Senator Davis. However, illness compelled Senator Harris to forego a campaign and abandon even the filing of petitions.

There was a hastily called conference in Pittsburgh when it became known that Senator Harris would not make the race, and at that conference Mr. Margiotti determined to become a candidate. Senator Davis was consulted on the matter, and was in and out of the conference over a period of several hours.

He did not then—and has not yet—indorsed Mr. Margiotti. That policy was ascribed to strategy, the desire being that Mr. Margiotti should become a candidate on his own force, and not as the agent of Senator Davis. It was asumed that later, should the Margiotti campaign develop push, Senator Davis would declare for him.

Attitude Toward G. O. P. Leaders Is Awaited

Now comes the question of whether Senator Davis in making that declaration, predicted for tomorrow, will recite any of the reasons which are leading him to support Mr. Margiotti, beside the belief that he thinks Mr. Margiotti capable. It will be interesting to see whether he—having intimated there was need for some new leadership in the Republican party—will inveigh against the leadership which in the last regular and special sessions of the legislature turned thumbs down on social legislation and some other issues which have risen to dog the party and threaten its hold on the state.

Senator David A. Reed, contrary to his usual campaign strategy, is to figure that Allegheny county was fairly safe territory for his ambitions. That is not the fact this year, something which finally has been impressed upon the Senator by friends who did not wish to tell him before, though they recognized the situation themselves.

The Monday night mass meeting in Carnegie Hall will mark the end of a full week of campaigning in Allegheny, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

Not only does the Senator wish to get all the votes possible, but he has a pride in making something of a showing at home. That is natural.

Pinchot Campaign Is Best Organized Here

What confronts the Senator is that, while there appears less fire in the campaign of his opponent, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, than in any previous battle, the Governor has here, through his associates, the best-managed campaign of any of the candidates for any major office. In fact, it is about the only campaign which has thus far exhibited a real approach toward organized appeal to the voters.

Moreover, this Pinchot organization is providing about the only centralized energy there is in the campaign here for Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon as a candidate for Governor, as it appeals to voters outside soldier ranks.

Note by Dickens' Sister-in-Law Tells of His Parting From Wife

Georgina Hogarth's Letter to Maria, Written At Author's Request, Seen as Move to Forestall Efforts to Revive Romance

The cooling romance of Charles Dickens' middle-aged association with Maria Beadnell Winter, the sweetheart of his youth, has been revealed in previous installments. In the accompanying installment Georgina Hogarth, his sister-in-law, in a letter to Maria discloses the inner facts of the author's unhappy married life which culminated in his separation from his wife.

By H. H. HARPER

MARIA BEADNELL WINTER, remembering that man is but a youth grown up, was not easily dismayed. Having once disarmed him with her contrite allusions to their former love affair, she decided to take another fling at him from a new angle, as will be seen in the letters which follow.

During the next two months there were no more letters that she cared to save, although it seems the correspondence was kept up, as this next shows that she had written him at least two notes—evidently persisting in her efforts to make another appointment.

Tavistock House,
Eleventh June, 1855.

My dear Maria:

I answered your last letter, but one, almost as soon as I received it, to let you know that I should be out of town that Sunday, and for several Sundays in succession. This note of mine must have gone astray somehow or somewhere, for I posted it myself. It has happened on a former occasion—but only on one—that a letter of mine failed to reach its destination. How this comes to be missing, I cannot comprehend.

Your account of your little child is distressing indeed, and makes me heartily sorry for your fatigues and anxieties. I have never had any faith in the homeopathic system and therefore have never tried it.

I am inclined to think that it is principally successful with people who have nothing the matter with them, and that active diseases where there is a vigorous action for evil going on, require more decided remedies. Still it is indubitably successful in some violent cases even.

I shall be very happy to receive your little token of remembrance, when you have less care on your mind, and have set your baby up—as I hope and trust you soon will—twenty times stronger than before. Take care of your baby's mother, and God bless her.

Ever faithfully yours,
C. D.

Apart from the note of sympathy, the platonic tone of this letter is decidedly marked; and saying that he was to "be out of town that Sunday, and for several Sundays in succession," sounds like a pretty obvious hint not to pester him any further.

* * *

IN URGING her suit Maria made no reference to the powerful weapons in her hands; possibly because the thought never occurred to her; or possibly because she hoped eventually to win him by persuasive measures.

Then, too, she was deeply concerned over her baby, which at that time lay mortally ill. Its death, two days later, drew from Dickens one of the most beautiful and consoling letters he ever wrote. It was addressed to "Mrs. Winter," for being somewhat cognizant of his own importance he knew she would want to show it to many people. It read:

Tavistock House,
Wednesday, thirteenth June, 1855.

My dear Mrs. Winter:

I am truly grieved to hear of your affliction in the loss of your darling baby. But if you are not, even already, reconciled to the parting from that innocent child for a little while, as to bear it gently and with a softened sorrow, I know that that not unhappy state of mind must soon arise.

The death of infants is a release from so much chance and change—from so many casualties and distresses—and is a thing so beautiful in its serenity and peace—that it should not be a bitterness, even in a mother's heart. The simplest and most affecting passage in all the noble history of our Great Master, is his consideration for little children.

And in reference to yours, as many millions of bereaved mothers poor and rich will do in reference to theirs until the end of time, you may take the comfort of the gracious words, "And He took a child, and set it in the midst of them."

In a book by one of the greatest English writers, called A Journey From This World to the Next, a parent comes to the distant country beyond the Grave, and finds the little girl he had lost so long ago, engaged in building a bower to receive him in, when his aged steps should bring him there at last. He is filled with joy to see her—so young—so bright—so full of promise—and is enraptured to think that she never was old, wan, tearful, withered.

This is always one of the sources of consolation in the deaths of children. With no effort of the fancy, with nothing to undo, you will always be able to think of the pretty creature you have lost, as a child in Heaven.

A poor little baby of mine lies in Highgate Cemetery—and I laid her, just as you think of laying yours, in the catacombs there, until I made a resting-place for all of us in the free air.

It is better that I should not come to see you, I feel quite sure of that, and will think of you instead.

God bless and comfort you! Mrs. Dickens and her sister send their kindest condolences to yourself and Mr. Winter. I add mine with all my heart.

CHARLES DICKENS.

* * *

THIS sad misfortune seems to have put an end to the correspondence—and to Dicken's anxiety as well—for a period of nearly three years, when the oft deferred separation from Catherine took place; and the devoted sister-in-law, Georgina Hogarth, wrote the news to Maria in the following letter—an historical item of great importance, settling as it does in the most authentic manner the much discussed reasons for the parting of Dickens and his wife. Her letter read:

Tavistock House, May 31, 1858.

My Dearest Maria:

There will be no mistake about your tickets this time. Charles has charged Mr. Arthur Smith with full particulars and he will forward them to you, in due course.

I am now going to tell you something which will, I am sure, surprise you, and, at the first, shock and distress you. It is that Charles and his wife have agreed to live apart in future. Believe me when I assure you that I am perfectly convinced that this plan will be for the happiness of all.

I worked hard to prevent it, as long as I saw any possibility, but latterly I have come to the conviction that there was no other way out of the domestic misery of this house. For my sister and Charles have lived unhappily for years—they were totally unsuited to each other in almost every respect—and as the children grew up this unsuitability developed itself more strongly, and disagreements and miseries which used to be easily kept out of sight have forced themselves into notice.

Unhappily, also, by some constitutional misfortune and incapacity, my sister always, from their infancy, threw her children upon other people; consequently as they grew up, there was not the usual strong tie between them and her—in short for many years, although we have put a good face upon it, we have been very miserable at home.

My sister has often expressed a desire to go and live away, but Charles never agreed to it on the girls' account; but latterly he thought it must be to their advantage as well as to his own and Catherine's, to consent to this and remodel their unhappy home.

So, by mutual consent and for the reasons I have told you, and no other, they have come to this arrangement. She is to have a house of her own in London, and her eldest son (at his father's request, and not taking any part or showing any preference in doing it) is to live with and take care of her.

The other children remain with their father—his eldest daughter naturally taking her mother's place as mistress of the house. She and Katy and I will divide the work amongst us, but all the dignity will be Mary's, and she will do the honours modestly, gracefully and prettily, I know.

Of course Charles is too public a man to take such a step as this without exciting a more than usual nine days' wonder—and we have heard of the most wonderful rumors and wicked slanders which have been flying about the town as to the cause of this separation.

To a few of our real friends Charles wishes the truth to be stated, and they cannot show their friendship better than by quietly silencing with the real solemn truth any foolish or wicked person who may repeat such lies and slanders.

Charles sends you his best love and to dear Ella his birthday congratulations. You can understand how much he has been harassed and occupied with all this business and his reading besides, and that he has very little time to write letters just now.

Give my particular love to Ella on Wednesday and wish her many happy returns of the day, and with our united kind regards to Mr. Winter, believe me,

My dearest Maria,
Affectionately yours always,
GEORGINA HOGARTH.

There is but little doubt that Dickens requested Georgina to write this letter, possibly anticipating that when Maria learned of the separation she would renew her bothersome efforts to make appointments.

(Letters copyright, 1934, by Christy and Moore, Ltd. Arrangement copyright, 1934, by John F. Dille Company.)

In tomorrow's installment will be revealed Maria's last attempt to revive her waning romance with Dickens and how he responded to it.

MR. MORRIS ON THE CAMPUS

Henry T. Morris, 88, oldest University of Pittsburgh graduate, is probably the only living link between the Cathedral of Learning, 42-story tower, and the small building at Ross and Diamond streets, downtown, that housed the Western University of Pennsylvania after the Civil War.

Visiting the Cathedral, Morris chukled:

"It may be a while yet, but I expect to see this building finished and live a long time after that! I feel as well today as I did 40 years ago."

Candidate Tears Down Own Poster From Pole

Co-operates in Drive Against Illegally Posted Signs

Attorney Herman P. Eberharter, candidate for Legislature in the Third District, has joined the ranks of those who tear down illegally posted political placards.

He tore down one of his own posters that had been tacked to a pole by an overzealous supporter.

Attorney Eberharter explained today that he heard of the illegally posted placard at night and immediately got out of bed and tore it down.

Scores of illegally posted placards heralding the campaign of Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, legislative candidate in the Twelfth District, have appeared on poles, fences, trees and building in the McKees Rocks district.

More posters of Frank A. Coolahan have been noted by residents of the same district.

Some posters have been removed by residents and property owners as a result of the drive by the Civic Club of Allegheny County to prevent, by a campaign of education of the candidates, any illegal posting of unsightly placards.

JUDGES SHARE IN COMMENTS ON LEVY

Watches, Horses Once Assessed to Bring In Revenue

Judges of Superior Court took a lively interest in arguments on Allegheny County's effort to uphold the 4-mill tax on savings accounts today.

The county appealed from a decision of Orphans Court which held the Einstein bill exempting savings accounts from the tax was valid. The case is that involving a tax of $88.06 which the county seeks to collect from the James Donelly estate on savings accounts aggregating $23,171.

Judge W. H. Keller interrupted the arguments to observe:

"When the Legislature passed that act (Einstein bill) it no boubt had in mind the encouragement of the people to put money in banks and to protect them so they would keep the money there. We all know the spectacle of the people taking money out of banks and putting it in strong boxes."

Assistant County Solicitor Thomas E. Whitten argued that the Einstein bill was unconstitutional and that the Legislature, once having fixed a tax classification, had no right to abolish it.

Judge Keller retorted:

"That argument doesn't appeal to me at all."

To which Judge Thomas J. Baldridge added:

"I think they used to tax horses, didn't they? They don't do that any more."

Whitten told the court the county had collected nearly $800,000 last year on savings amounting to $192,000,000.

FOREIGN POLICY DEBATED HERE

Each nation must safeguard its own interests, Lawrence Dennis, author, declared last night at the closing meeting of the Foreign Policy Association in the Schenley Hotel. His statement was made during a debate with Dr. Max Winkler, president and research director of the American Council of Foreign Bondholders.

Dennis said nations of the world no longer can safely engage in a "hands off" policy. Opposing views were expressed by Dr. Winkler.

John G. Buchanan was elected chairman of the association. Other officers named were: Dr. Thomas S. Baker, Bayard H. Christy and Eugene B. Strassburger, vice chairmen; Miss Mary E. Scott, recording secretary; Miss Mary Louise Succop, corresponding secretary, and George L. Hallman, treasurer.

St. Michael's School Planning Reunion

A testimonial party in honor of the Brothers of the Society of Mary will be held in Lithuanian Hall, 1723 Jane street, May 24. Among guests will be members of every class that has attended St. Michael's School, Pius street, since 1882; the brothers of St. Mary's School, North Side, where Brother August Kemme is a director; priests of St. Michael's Church, of which the Rev. Conrad Elben is pastor, and Brother James E. Yack, director of St. Michael's School from 1909 to 1923.

2 Children Share Father's Estate

Distributing a $15,000 estate between two children, the will of Fred O. Adams, of 1131 Sheffield street, was filed in Orphans' Court today. The heirs are Max F. Adams, a son, and Ella Adams Goldschmitt, a daughter.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Headline in papers today says: "Silas says we are drifting."

I had to do a little research work to find out who Silas was, and see if he had any idea where we were drifting. I found out he is an attorney from Chicago, and was delivering a speech in Washington before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Silas had the whole thing in brief case form, excepting the destination. It was like some big federal officer arising at a banquet, and saying, "Dillinger is drifting," and you couldn't very well dispute him, unless you happen to ask him, "Where?" Yours,

Will Rogers

LEADERS URGE MERGER FOR TAX RELIEF

Former Congressman E. J. Jones, of Bradford, today urged elimination of thousands of townships, terming them relics of bygone horse and buggy days. Such elimination would materially aid in relieving the American people from the heavy burden of local taxation, the former statesman declared.

Declaring that there are too many townships and too many counties in the state, Jones declared that local taxation is the straw which is breaking the camel's back in this country.

URGES MERGER

In urging elimination of townships and a reduction in the number of counties, former Congressman Jones expresses sentiments similar to those expressed by many leading Pennsylvanians. More than a score of present and former state officials have already gone on record as favoring drastic reduction in the number of local governments.

Former Congressman Jones, however, goes much further in his plan of governmental reorganization. He further proposed a consolidation of the 48 states into fewer units, which he believes would bring about a decided reduction as well as being of geographic benefit. He said that at present there are many Western states with populations less than Philadelphia, maintaining separate state and county governments with tremendous and unnecessary overhead expenditures.

SEES SAVINGS

He further pointed out that reduction in the number of states would cut down the overhead of local, county, state and national government and that it also would eliminate the tremendous and unnecessary overhead expenditures of small counties, such are to be found through the western section of the country.

In closing he said:

"This may all sound revolutionary but after all, the horse and buggy days are over and I firmly believe the system of townships, counties and states, a relic of those days, should be reorganized."

School District Mergers Urged by Pa. Educators

HARRISBURG, May 4.—(AP.)—Proposals for consolidation of small school districts into larger units in the interests of efficiency and economy were presented today to a special committee of educators. The group is composed of representatives of the School Directors' Association, State Education Association and the State Department of Public Instruction. After discussion the proposals were referred to a sub-committee for further discussion. Details of the proposals will not be made public until the final recommendations are made, which probably will be this fall.

M. A. Steiner, of Ingram, Pa., represented the supervising principals, and C. W. Lillibridge, of McKean County, represented the county superintendents on the committee making the recommendations. Others on the committee were A. F. Kemp, of Berks County; S. V. Rowland, Delaware County; H. S. Lessig, of Pottstown, and R. A. Poorbaugh, of Stoyestown, Pa. H. J. Stockton, school director of Johnstown, presided.

During the session here Dr. Timon Covert, of the United States office of education, spoke on the local school district and the needs of the various districts in Pennsylvania. Dr. John Butterworth, of Cornell University, explained the school district organization developments in New York state.

'THRILL' RACE BRINGS DEATH

Universal Service.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 4.—Death and injury waited at one of the vicious hairpin turns on the Oakland speedway yesterday for four young men who were attempting to qualify for the stock car races on Sunday.

The 5,000 spectators waiting expectantly in the stands for the "thrill" which comes when automobiles overturn and their drivers are hurled from the speeding cars or pinned beneath the wreckage were not disappointed.

Within the course of two hours there were two accidents, with these results:

James McBride, 22, Los Angeles, a mechanic, was killed when the car in which he was riding overturned.

Pinkie Richardson, 23, driver of the car in which McBride was riding, was critically hurt and may die.

James Miller, 21, professional driver, suffered a crushed skull when a car in which he was riding skidded and overturned on the same curve. He was reported in a dying condition.

Chris Vest, driver of the car that contained Miller, was seriously hurt but, according to physicians, will recover.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 4.—(AP.)—An alarm clock serves lunch on time every day to laddie boy, 11-year-old airdale owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Houy.

The dog stays at home while the Houys are at work and Houy sought a means of feeding the animal. He rigged up an alarm clock to ring at 2 p. m., and attached a wooden spool to the key so it winds a string. The string lifts a circular cracker box from a dish containing bones for laddie boy.

Neighbors said the dog regularly appears for lunch about a minute before the alarm rings.

Scores of Pittsburgh's smart set played a prominent role at the tea given in the William Penn's Chatterbox yesterday afternoon for Pittsburgh social registerite Senator David A. Reed, seeking re-election. And there were many others there, too, whose names grace neither the Blue Book nor Social Register.

Arranging the tea was Miss Elizabeth Arbuthnot, vice chairman of the Reed Volunteers. Senator Reed's audience at the tea—for he gave a talk—was gay with new spring costumes.

Miss Arbuthnot chose a floral printed silk crepe in spring-like colors with a wide brimmed hat of straw. Mrs. Thomas J. Hilliard was wearing a suit of crinkled grey wool crepe, with a hat of the same material.

Mrs. W. L. Jones Wears Smart Ensembles of Rust Wool

Very smart was the ensemble of Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., of rust wool barred with fine blue stripes with which she wore a matching hat. I saw her chatting with Helen Leovy, who chose a skirt of black crepe with a jacket and blouse of rose-beige crepe and black hat. Mrs. Jack Bissell chose a smart grey tailleur, and Mrs. Charles Wunder's suit was of black and white printed crepe with shirring at the elbows. Kathleen Guthrie was in black and white, too.

Mrs. George H. Love's brown crepe frock was enhanced by a crisp frill of ogandie and lace at the neckline, and I saw Mrs. Clarance Stanley.

Brown Crepe Fashions Dress of Mrs. Robinson

Mrs. Phillips Federation Nominee

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. John M. Philips was unanimously nominated to the presidency of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women yesterday by the nominating committee in session at federation headquarters in Harrisburg. This is one of the few times in the history of the federation that a presidential candidate's nomination has been unanimous and is considered in most quarters to be tantamount to election.

Mrs. James Graham Chalfant, district president, and Mrs. H. H. Parker were the two members of the nominating committee from this, the southwestern district, the committee being made up of two members from each of the five districts in the federation and a member-at-large, appointed by the federation board. Mrs. Richard B. Perry, of Dormont, who is now corresponding secretary of the federation, was nominated to the presidency of the district, to succeed Mrs. Chalfant.

Mrs. Phillips has had excellent preparation for her new duties. She is a member of the Twentieth Century Club. She founded, was its first president and is now honorary president of the Carrick Mothers' Club and she founded the Brashear Settlement and was its head for many years.

She was the first chairman of the federation's home department, an office which she held for six years, achieving remarkable results, and she is now first vice president of the federation, serving a three-year term. She is also a member of the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education.

MANY FURS DON'T DESERVE MOTH BALLS YET

By PRUNELLA WOOD

SPRING FURS are remarkably swank this year. All the classics are popular as ever—the like of sable, marten, silver fox, and so on—but they have been augmented by little jackets and capes of quite new design, for both every day comfort or chic and evening glamor.

It is the finer furs, moreover, that these interesting things have been done. There are plenty of appealing wraps and scarfs in lapin, of course, but they are rather similar to those that have always put in their bit between winter and true tummer. It is in weazel, summer ermine, white ermine, chinchilla, galyac, kidskin and fox, both white and silver, that we are getting novelty.

* * *

PROBABLY THE WOOING combination of sun on the avenue and cheer in the smart hotels around 5 o'clock accounts for the little fitted jackets that seem to ape the better styled boucle jumpers in their own lines and chic. They are elegant for tailleurs, just warm enough out doors and not at all bulky and awkward over the tea table.

Spring furs for wear with outfits that are more tuned to country life go for gilet and cape effects, most of them effective over a tweed coat or a man-tailored woolen frock. Some of the gilets look a lot like the Sherwood Forest toppers in bright suede which were so popular last spring as part of the spring frocks brought out by several American designers.

* * *

IT IS FOX in luxurious lengths looped together in cat's cradle puzzles that seems most effective for wear with spring evening gowns. White fox treated this way is more aristocratic than it usually is, and placed over the shoulders or hung negligently from the wrist, it is simply swell with any handsome gown, be it organza or summer velvet.

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Formal, but not at all overdone, this revered and fitted jacket of white caracul. It is so soft, so "dressmakery," that it can be worn with silk or wool.

A waist-deep shoulder cape of black caracul is one-piece behind, and split into soft petals over the front. It fastens at the left shoulder.

One may slip on this striking white kidskin gilet with its belt button fore or aft; either way, it is a tonic to one's sport coat or sport frock.

One pops on this soft gray kidskin cowl over the the head, and draws it to a Pierrette line under the chin by a silk cord. Excellent with a navy or brown coat, or brown coat.

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

Continuing our revivifying of the porch as we promised, we come to . . .

This thing of what to use for rugs! We were all ready to pounce upon some of the new braided cellophane rugs, when up came someone who knew all about same and advised us to choose the fiber ones that we're raving about now. For these will wear and wear . . . with their modern designs clear through to the back, WOVEN in, not painted on. Every coloring the well-dressed porch will wear . . . and prices ranging thusly—6x9 at $7.50 . . . and the 6x12 at $9.75.

* * *

Exciting, too, is the news that very excellent fiber rugs may be cut from rolls of "carpeting" one of the stores has just now. They come in all widths . . . and the idea is to just have a piece cut off the length you need. In a type of Scotch plaid effect . . . all good colorings . . . woven through . . . and only $1.75 the square yard. (Widths up to 8 foot.)

* * *

Having gone into the subject of awnings rather exhaustively . . . having spent moments peering at fixtures and pulleys and ropes . . . we feel (like the sailor) that we know our rigging.

Here is the newest and most outstanding feature in awning-dom! The double shrunk awning that has been made and tested expressly for Pittsburgh's weather conditions (which are laws unto themselves to say the least). They cost no more than others of the simple garden variety . . . and come in stripes and plain shades.

* * *

We feel quite in love with the slatted shades that so.e people are using in place of awnings. They're particularly nice if you lack a porch-proper . . . but own a rather nice-ish sun room. For these clipwood shades come in greens and natural brown stain. AND . . . the best part of them is that the store which carries them will paint them any shade you want . . . from apricot for your boudoir, to Chinese lacquer for the swank sunroom. Which makes them very much Venetian-blind-in-effect . . . only much, M.CH cheaper. For example, 4'.'s are $3.75, on up to 12x7's . . $11.75. Which should certainly cause more than two two hearts to beat in waltz time!

* * *

No porch would be complete without an ashtray, or receiver that cannot be knocked over easily . . . does not allow ashes to be blown about . . . and accommodates something besides cigarets. And these with the wide shelf around their tops have been made purposely for glasses to stand 'round on, holding "long cool ones."

The stands are about 24 inches high . . . in black and silver (chrome), containing a collapsible ash receiver that mysteriously swallows every sign of your cig. All the parts come out and can be cleaned. Just one of the first aids to lolling 'round "taking your ease" on warm days.

* * *

About this time we began panting (it was one of those warmish days) and fell into one of the chairs. Which proved to be . . .

But one of many at $6.75. A good price for budget-weary souls! A low price for such chairs as these! For there are barrel-back models of shiny, light brown bamboo canes that we'd have vowed weren't to be had for a cent less than $10 to $12!

And straight-backed styles with split-bamboo and whole canes, and a touch of red, green or orange woven in. (Bridge devotees would cheer these). The most conservative type of bamboo armchair that is so comfortable.

* * *

A glider, too . . . you gotta glide you know! This one of white . . . which is swank nowadays. It has waterproof cushions of misty blue with white sailing ships painted on them. Six separate cushions . . . three in back . . . three on the bottom . . . and even separate springs underneath so that when Aunt Eppie sits next to you, you won't be parked at a skiddy angle from her over-balancing weight! Each with his own springs, as it were! And the whole beautiful idea is $29.50—a popular price we find, for a good glider!

—DOROTHY RANDALL.

27 Days Remain To Enter Contest

Yet those 27 days are sufficient not alone for entrants already preparing their 600-word inscription texts but for everyone to accept the invitation of the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers and enter this historical project. Historians of every state have characterized this competition, undertaken to assist the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission in its quest for the best possible text for posterity, as the greatest patriotic stimulus the nation has ever achieved.

What a glorious honor awaits the man, woman or youth who submits the text that will be selected by the National Committee of Awards, of which President Roosevelt is chairman. That text will form the basis of the inscription of the national monument being carved on the granite side of Mount Rushmore in the South Dakota Black Hills.

If you haven't read the details of the competition, do so. The rules stipulating the nine specific episodes of history upon which the text must be based will be published in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. All necessary details will be available. If you want to receive the information right away, a special free folder is available at the downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street. The folder will be mailed upon a request to the Pittsburgh Rushmore Editor, care the Sun-Telegraph, provided it is ACCOMPANIED WITH A STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE FOR MAILING.

The Private Papers of a Reporter

I wonder what's become of Mah Jong and pogo sticks; the obscurity that has been predicted for Rudy Vallee for years? . . . Technocracy, and the plan to film "Lady Chatterley's Lover?" . . . And the $100,000 breach of promise suit Paramount started when Sylvia Sydney ran out on the Chevalier flicker? . . . What about the match that was supposed to be good for 300 lights, which Krueger was said to have bought up and suppressed, etc? . . . Ho, hum.

Things I Cannot Do Without: Crosby's cooing . . . Shaw & Lee's insane arm routine . . . Crash-proof glass on cars that carry June and Walda . . . A snack at 3 or 4 ante-meridian . . . Old Shoes . . . Worcestershire Sauce . . . "Song of the Islands" at least once a night . . . Orange juice and coffee half-hour after I get up . . . Capable contributors, and the white line in the middle of the highway.

How They Look From My Ringside Seat: Janet Gaynor: Queen of the Strawberry Festival . . . Edward G. Robinson: The kid we used to call "Butch" . . . Mussolini: A motorcycle cop, cultiplied by a million . . . Maurice Chevalier: The winner of the Paris porter's basket race . . . Tom Mix: Buffalo Bill with a hair cut . . . Phillips Holmes: What every man looks like until he looks into the mirror . . . Zasu Pitts: Any hired girl . . . Wallace Beery: All flannel and a yard wide . . . Observation: In Hollywood, my deputies report, there's the high-sounding Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences . . . It is the "top of the ladder" for a business that was started by cloak and suiters . . . Well, internal strife has hit the Academy, and it was recently forced to retrench, giving up some of the office space it occupied . . . And guess what's in the former quarters of the organization? . . . A pants-presser!

Some booking officials were discussing how poor the business has been in many theaters in New York . . . One executive is ill because of it, as a matter of fact . . . But the week Sally Rand appeared at a Cleveland theater was a real test, they decided . . . Sally had attracted heavy grosses everywhere . . . The New York booker phoned the Cleveland manager: "Well, how was she?" . . . "I am very happy," said the manager, "we only lost $3,000 on the week" . . . "And that makes you happy?" queried the puzzled booker . . . "Of course," was the retort, "the week previous we lost six thousand!"

There are plenty of ways to beat the depression, as many have found out . . . One of the most amusing ways was uncovered in a dairy lunch room the other day . . . A fellow walked up to the counter and asked for a cup of hot water . . . He took it to a table in the rear, and shook a quarter of a bottle of ketchup into it—then flavored it with salt and pepper, helped himself to the crackers in the bowl, and had a tasty tomato bouillon.

Add Ridiculous Theories: A Columbia Broadcasting official is a minister's son, but that isn't what we started out to say . . . He has just censored a new and lovely song: "Love Thy Neighbor" . . . The word "Thy" must not be sung on his networks, he says . . . It must be: "Love Your Neighbor" . . . His excuse is that in the original manner "it is sacrilgeous" . . . Oh, fiddlesticks, which is not what I mean . . . It seems to me that "Love Thy Neighbor" is one of the better ditties to create and preach good will to all . . . It isn't really a song . . . It is actually one of the finest sermons! . . . You'd think a minister's son would know that!

Things That Make Me Madder Thanell!: Owning a $10 bill—yet dying with thirst in a theater because I haven't a penny in my jeans with which to buy one of those paper cups in the machines!

Here's an eerie legend from Spokane, Washington: It seems there was a high-strung girl with a domineering, social climbing mother, who finally maneuvered her daughter into a marriage with a wealthy young man . . . Before the wedding, life for the girl was one continual round of social events and entertainments . . . When the day of the ceremony arrived, she was in so frazzled a state of nerves—that just as they entered the church, she had an attack of hysteria—and she began to scream . . . And here's the most difficult part of the tale to believe . . . She screamed all the way down the aisle to the altar, during the entire ceremony, and all the way back up the aisle . . . And everybody, including the parson, pretended to ignore it—and went ahead as if nothing were happening!

Bernie Hits As Screen Actor

By JIMMY STARS

HOLLYWOOD, May. 4.—Hello! Ben Bernie, the "Old Maestro" (also humorously pronounced MESSTRO), has seemingly accomplished the impossible—he's turned actor, and a very good one at that! Ted Lewis is probably the only other orchestra leader to go in for the heavy drammer, as it were. Of course, Paul Whiteman, Phil Harris and Ted Fio-Rito have done various "acting" bits at times, but never quite climbed over that invisible "line" to the histrionics of the movies.

Paramount execs are so excited over Bernie's work in "Thank Your Stars" (formerly "The Great Magoo") that a deal is now nearing the closing stage for a second film in which the baton waver will be featured. "One Night Stand," Vera Caspary's yarn, will be Ben's big cinematic venture IF and, of course, that "if" isn't as large as it seems. The bosses want him—and Ben wants to do the story, so there you have it!

* * *

George Stevens, the megaphonist, wants to know if you've heard of the Scotchman who took his caviar in capsule so he wouldn't acquire a taste for the stuff?

* * *

Although this is somewhat out of my dept, I still think it needs telling. Some weeks ago a little fellow by the name of Moe Norton had an idea, but no money. He wanted to put on a musical revue. Tirelessly and for weeks he worked and planned, argued with actors to "play ball" and to put it on the cuff.

Suddenly, this slip-shod idea took shape. Dave Gould, the dance director, stepped in an got a line-up of beauties. New actors joined in "for the fun of it." Still no money for scenery, but on they worked. They even dared a "jinx" on the Music Box Theater (sometimes known as the house of flops) and a week ago "The Shim-Sham Revue" opened. Only a few celebs showed up, out of politeness more than anything else.

Today, Moe Morton has a sore arm from shaking hands and receiving congratulations. Jack Osterman, Wini Shaw, Sid Walker, Cully Richards, Jay Mills, Murray Bernie, Gertie Greene, Oliver Faye, Janice Capon and many others are young riots with freshness and marvelous personalities. And they have song hits by J. C. Lewis, Jr.

It's grand to have ideas, but it is also something to have the courage to carry them out, to see them through!

Wanderings Around Hollywood . . . Oscar, the bootblack at Paramount has turned a few shades DARKER (if such a thing is possible) with envy! lickem, the M-G-M shine feller, has been loaned to Invincible Pictures for a role. Despite the fact that Oscar has appeared in several hundred movies, he has NEVER been farmed out—and he's ABLAZE! . . . Mrs. H. M. Warner wanted to surprise the honeymooners, the Mervyn Leroys, when they docked here, and so she climbed up the rope ladder about 6 a. m. and was going to assume the role of a newspaper scribbler, but all her plans went ASUNDER when she bumped smack into Doris (her daughter) and Mervyn, who were SO ANXIONS to get ashore . . . Verree Teasdale. (Hollywood's most-sought-after actress, if you must know) is to co-star with Jean Muir in "The Lady Surrenders" for Warners'.

Tracy Reporter In Warner

By RICHARD JOHNS

Universal's picturization of a newspaper story, "I'll Tell the World," showing in the Warner, provides variation in the usual run of tales about the Fourth Estate by weaving a Graustarkian romance into the lives of a reporter and a queen of one of those mythical little European countries.

Lee Tracy, as the inevitably enterprising wise-cracking reporter, dashes first to the barren wastes of the Hudson Bay country in evening clothes to cover the story of a lost dirigible.

He returns the next day, after scooping his rival, to be sent to Europe to shadow an exiled archduke, whose death is mysteriously and unsuccessfully attempted three times.

Why?

Tracy is sent to find out.

With Roger Pryor, as the rival newshound, at his heels, Tracy frontier into the sanctorum of a frontier into the sanctorium of a prime minister and into the graces of the queen, Gloria Stuart.

He learns all, and tells it, not forgetting to wreck the telephone he used to spread the news, in order to scoop to his rival.

Miss Stuart, as the Baltimore-reared queen, appears somewhat hoydenish for this position—in shorts on a bicycle—but then queens aren't what they used to be. Tracy, as the blatant, ebullient purveyor of what goes on in the world, gives a reasonably genuine performance.

Fields Has Office That's Popular

When visitors come to his home, W. C. Fields suggests that they go to his office to talk things over. He leads them into a room fitted with filing cases, a wide-topped desk, straight leather chairs. After conversation goes on for a few minutes, Fields exclaims "Gentlemen, let us adjourn to the bar." Then he pushes a button and the top of the desk folds back, disclosing a miniature bar with ice-making compartment, electric ice-shavers and mixers and a supply of liquors.

Dick Powell Is Star In Stanley

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

If you like Dick Powell—and who doesn't by this time?—you will like "20 Million Sweethearts," romantic comedy in the Stanley with a radio background. The matter of like and dislike for this rising young screen favorite is particularly pertinent in comment on this light, but thoroughly enjoyable picture, because it seems somewhat reminiscent of Dick's career in Pittsburgh—even in the very theater in which his shadow is now doing what Dick, in the flesh, used to do on the stage.

In the film, which represents the rise of a radio star—our Richard—he has his loyal admirers, and also the belittlers who say "if that guy goes on the air I'm going to quit breathing it." That part seems so much like Pittsburgh, where Dick's popularity with thousands was a pain in the neck to some others, who just couldn't see him. He was forever being compared unfavorably by the wisenheimers with the more flashy masters of ceremonies, who came and went while Dick was juggled between downtown and East Liberty.

It even took his bosses, les freres Warner, a long time to discover the real possibilities in Dick, but, to their credit, they eventually did, and they have now made the appeal of his personality, voice and talent a shade of the theme of "20 Million Sweethearts," the title pertaining to the way women accept a radio crooner, a preference that eventually lands him on top.

Pat O'Brien does a humorously breezy characterization of a radio talent scout, a role equally as prominent as that of Powell. Pat is in bad with his employer, so he has difficulty in getting even an audition for the "young Lochinvar of song" he has brought East after spotting him as a singing waiter in a saloon. Then he insists that Dick sing, instead of a ballad, the beer-hall favorite, "The Daring Young Man," etc., and it's all off insofar as a job is concerned.

But Dick and Ginger Rogers, a program artist, have fallen in love, and she pretends to become ill at a broadcast, and O'Brien cheekily shoves Dick in as a substitute. This time he does sing a ballad, and Dick becomes an immediate hit. This point really is the beginning of the film, which has to surmount that romantic axiom, that the course of true love never does run smoothly, before the finale is reached.

Besides the nice performances of Mr. O'Brien, Dick, Miss Rogers, Allen Jenkins, Grant Mitchell and Joseph Cawthorn, there are appearances of prominent radio acts, including the Mills Brothers, and several pleasing song numbers, including "I'll String Along With You," in its original setting.

"Spic and Span Revuette," with the ingenues, a girl band, is the current stage offering in the Pitt. The screen feature is "Stolen Sweets," with Sally Blane and Charles Starrett.

Dix to Fill Date Of 15 Years

One of the reasons behind Richard Dix's proposed trip around the world is a bet made 15 years ago with a fellow-actor, Reginald Cole. Playing in stock together at the time, they made a date to meet each other in Paris in 1934. Either failing was to pay the other $5,000. Cole is now in India. Dix has just cabled him the time he expects to be in Paris.

Mystery and Romance Mixed In Fulton

By ZORA D. UNKOVICH

Suspense at the start—of typical London variety, heavy fog, a lonely river bank, a bobby stabbed—suspense at the close—a killer tracking his eighth man, a to-the-death hand struggle, and tucked in between it all a nice little romance—that's the "Mystery of Mr. X" in the Fulton.

Not that Mr. X is our chief concern. His murders, it is true, are not exactly pleasant, but at least they do give Robert Montgomery a chance to be oh so debonair and clever. No situation is embarrassing enough to divest him of a mocking ease. His quipping smile just wont be wiped off.

The mystery in which Montgomery gets all the glory has the seemingly aimless murders of a number of policemen as its theme. One after another, in graveyards, by the river, on a forsaken road, you see a rapier cut through the heart of one bobby after another.

Our hero, attired in perfect evening dress, becomes involved when he steals the Drayton diamond just as a murder is being committed a few feet from him.

How he clears another suspect, the fond-of-drink Sir March (Ralph Forbes), in order to meet the commissioner of Scotland Yard and his lovely daughter, Elizabeth Allan, and then becomes so attached to the daughter that he decides to reform from his gentlemanly "taking" ways entertainingly enough (if not too plausibly) paves the way to the solution.

One man, alone, doubts the obliging Montgomery, and he is Lewis Stone in his quietly acted part of a Scotland Yard Detective. Because of him the romance goes haltingly though he finally does his part in squaring things.

In addition to the mystery feature, which will entertain you if you're not in too exacting a mood, a Hearst News Reel shows you the high points of the week, while Our Gang cavorts amusingly through "Mickey's Rescue."

The Great Lover

MRS. PATRICK MAGUIRE took one look at the kitchen clock and jumped up from the table.

"Excuse me," she said, and hurried into the living room.

"It's that sissy lover again," said Patrick. "He's got your mother daffy." He chewed thoughtfully. "And your sister, too."

Mickey said nothing. Mickey was just 12.

Inside, the radio squawked and squalled and sputtered, and finally a voice was heard.

". . . and a trial bottle will be sent to you free upon request," it said. "Just send a Jo-Co Laxative bottle, or a reasonable facsimile, to the station to which you are listening. And now—Signor Hogpus, the Great Lover!"

Ma Maguire moved an inch closer to the radio. So did Sis. In thousands—nay, hundreds of thousands—of homes throughout America, women bent an attentive ear to Hogpus, the Great Lover. He it was who could tell all the Ma Maguires what was lacking in their love lives. He it was who could explain to all the Sis Maguires why the boys didn't swoon at sight of their lovely faces. He it was who could answer any question pertaining to love. He it was who understood the feminine heart. . . .

"Good evening." The voice was soft. Velvety. Cooing. "Tonight, I want first of all to speak of the case of a young lady who is listening right now in Milwaukee. I won't mention her name, of course. But I will say that she is young and extremely beautiful.

"This young lady has a problem which she wants me to answer. In doing so, I feel a sense of great responsibility, for this young lady—like so many others—will accept my advice and act upon it.

"This young lady is ardently fond of a young man named Joe. As a matter of bald fact, she is in love with him. But Joe, sad to relate, doesn't know that our young lady is alive. What, she asks me, is she to do?

"I spent considerable time last night dwelling upon this problem. It is unusual, to say the least. Consider: A beautiful young lady loves a man named Joe. But Joe doesn't love the beautiful young lady. Do you follow me?

"The question is: What to do? My advice," the voice slowed down and became tense, "my advice is that the young lady should do something her crinoline-attired grandmother would never dream of doing. She should, in the parlance of the times, go on the make for Joe.

"I know that many of the old school listeners-in will not agree with my solution. I know that many will claim I am wrong. But I know that, in my veins, flows the wisdom of the old world in regard to affairs of the heart.

"Now, before I go on to the next case before me this evening, I want to tell that beautiful young lady that it might help to try a bottle of Jo-Co. It peps you up, makes you feel alert, clears your skin, brightens your eyes, adds luster to your teeth, and staves off that dull, listless feeling which kills the love of one person for another." . . .

"Oh, Mamma!" shouted Sis. "Isn't he marvelous?"

"Shut up!" said Mamma. "I want to see if he'll answer my letter." . . .

In the radio station, the sound engineers looked through a square frame of glass at Signor Hogpus. From time to time they snapped switches and turned dials. In the center of a barren stage they could see Hogpus perspiring as he read from a folio of typewritten sheets.

After a while they saw the announcer tiptoe close to him and hold up one finger. They saw Hogpus nod and keep reading. They they saw the announcer cut in, suddenly smiling, and read something from another typewritten sheet. Then they saw him wave to them, and they cut the station off the air.

Hogpus and the announcer walked side by side to the locker room. The announcer smiled.

"Nice work tonight," he said. "Good material, Hogpus."

"Yeah. But I hate it."

The announcer looked surprised.

"What are you talking about?" he yodeled. "Radio is making a big name for you. You're making plenty, right now. In the future, you'll make even more. Practically every woman in the country quotes your rules on Happy Marriages."

"I know," nodded Hogpus, "I know. But I want to write. I want to forget all about this love business. I want to go out somewhere in the country and write a book about Dillinger or somebody. I want to get far away from radios and silly letters from sex-starved females. I want to be by myself, if you get what I mean."

"I don't," replied the announcer. "It sounds goofy."

"Didn't you ever have a yearning to do something different?" asked the Great Lover. Didn't the spirit ever move you to want to break away from a humdrum life and do something spectacular?"

"Sure," he said. "Certainly. That's why I left the piano tuning racket and became an announcer."

"Well," bellowed the Great Lover, "now you can understand my position. I want to break away from this racket, and write. I want to pour out my whole soul on a typewriter. I want to create, to produce. I want people to run into bookshops and say: 'Give me something that Hogpus wrote. Anything.' You see?"

"Yeah," replied the announcer. "I see. Well, why the devil don't you do it?"

The Great Lover bowed his head solemnly.

"I can't," he murmured. "It's impossible. If I did, I'd never be able to keep up my alimony payments." . . .

"NOTHING SHABBY about this pink organdie which was washed all last summer with Chipso!"
Last summer's Chipso washing was so easy on this yellow print dress that it starts a new season looking NEW!
Even blue can be kept CLEAR and BRIGHT with safe Chipso washing. This dress was two months old when the photograph was taken.
BETTY JANE, ROSEMARY, RUTH ANN, MRS. DEYHLE AND HERBERT, JR., PHOTOGRAPHED IN THEIR HOME IN BOND HILL, CINCINNATI, OHIO
"I can tell that Chipso is safe," says Mrs. Deyhle, "because it is so nice for my hands. After washing dishes with Chipso I can go right to sewing on silk, or can run my hand through silk stockings, without ruffling a thread! Herbert Jr.'s wool jacket feels soft and new after repeated Chipso washings, although rich Chipso suds take the dirt out of his rompers WITHOUT HARD RUBBING. My white crepe-de-chine dress DID NOT TURN YELLOW in a whole summer's Chipso washing."
"Three little girls and a small baby boy make plenty of washing, but Chipso helps me manage it without any trouble," declares Mrs. Herbert F. Deyhle.
"Chipso gives better suds than any soap I have ever used. It is certainly a dirt-chaser . . . just soaks dirt out. I never have hard rubbing to do. Yet Chipso is as easy on the clothes as it is quick-acting on dirt. I wash everything with Chipso—the girls' knickers and socks, as well as the cottons and heavier pieces. I never have any trouble with colors fading. All the woolens are fluffy and soft, even the baby's blankets which have to be washed so often."
Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong, harsh soaps and powders.
Get your big box of CHIPSO from your grocer. At its low price, you will find this rich, SAFE soap the best soap value on the market today.

LEAGUE FOES HERE SPUR CAMPAIGN

The drive of patriotic Americans to obtain signatures of persons protesting against entrance of the United States into the League of Nations and World Court was intensified here today with the announcement in Washington that a hearing is to be held on this subject by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee May 16.

Authorities on international law, civic leaders and spokesmen for patriotic organizations will submit to the committee a mass of reasons why the United States should not become entangled in the foreign league.

40,000 PROTEST

Advocates of entrance into the league were heard recently by the committee. As they were allowed one day in which to present their arguments, opponents to the league will be given a similar allotment of time it was announced.

To date more than 40,000 signatures of persons opposed to the league have been forwarded to Washington for presentation to the senate committee. Hundreds of additional petitions are still being circulated by American Legion and Veteran of Foreign Wars posts and the auxiliaries of both organizations in all parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

There is still time for local patriotic groups to obtain petitions for the signatures of their members. The Sun-Telegraph which is leading the fight in this district, has many petitions available which can be obtained by writing to the League Court Editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Petitions will be accepted up to the last possible moment and then shipped to Washington.

SPEED URGED

Organizations and individuals who have petitions filled out are urged to return them immediately to the Sun-Telegraph so that they might be presented with the hundreds of others to the Senate committee.

The internationally minded groups who advocate entrance of this country into the league also are active in the Pittsburgh district. In many cities throughout the country petitions were being openly circulated by the international propagandists. Pastors of many churches in this district have received letters and petitions from higher church dignitaries, asking that the pastors use their influence to have the members of the congregation sign the petition and in addition send personal messages to their United States Senators.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

ARAB WARFARE ALARMS BRITAIN

LONDON, May 4.—(AP.)—British occupation of Hodeidah was threatened today because of the breakdown of the civil administration at that important South Arabian port as a result of the headlong flight of Yemeni hill warriors before the conquering troops of Iben Saud, ruler of Saudi Arabia.

Apprehension over the future ambitions of the powerful Ibn Saud in other parts of the Arabic world were overshadowed in British official quarters by alarming reports that a state of anarchy exists in Yemen itself.

Meanwhile, nomads of the desert are reported to be rushing into Hodeidah and looting the city, the capture of which Ibn Saud is reported to have made certain by putting the Yemeni to utter rout.

A British warship lay in Hodeidah harbor today, but it could not be learned immediately whether any patrols had been landed or whether Ibn Saud's army had arrived to take control of the fallen city.

League of Nations Names U. S. Woman

GENEVA, May 4.—(AP.)—A committee of three, including an American woman, was named today to make arrangements for the plebiscite which will determine the future of the industrially important Saar Valley.

Britain to Restrict Japanese Imports

LONDON, May 4.—(INS.)—Bringing closer to a head the threatened bitter trade war with Japan, Great Britain today announced that quota restrictions for the importation of Japanese goods into various parts of the British Colonial Empire are being set and will be announced next week, unless there is some sudden change of front on the part of the Japanese to break the deadlock on a trade agreement.

JAPS TO SHUN PEACE PARLEYS

TOKIO, May 4.—(AP.)—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota voiced a vigorous expression of Japan's new "hands off China" policy today and implied that Japan proposes never again to discuss the question of peace in the Far East with Western powers.

Addressing the annual conference of prefectural governors, the Foreign Minister declared that Japan refuses to submit to a repetition of what happened at Geneva in 1932 "when unfortunately Japan's opinions concerning the maintenance of peace in Eastern Asia were rejected—compelling us to secede from the League of Nations."

Although Hirota mentioned only Geneva in this, his first public expression on the Tokio government"s recently enunciated policy toward China, there was a strong implication that Japan intends never again to debate Oriental questions on equal terms with the Occident as she did at Washington in 1922 when the nine-power treaty was framed.

JAPAN SEIZING U. S. MARKETS

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Japan is capturing American trade markets in Latin America right and left, according to a confidential report compiled by the State Department.

This report, based on information obtained by American diplomatic and commercial representatives, discloses that depreciation of the American dollar has failed to stop the expansion drive of the Japanese merchants, who are continuing to capture American markets by underselling the Yankee trader as much as 50 per cent.

The Japanese competition has reached such serious proportions that it was feared it might interfere with President Roosevelt's plan to strengthen the bonds of economic unity with South America through the conclusion of reciprocal trade agreements.

WELLS ARRIVES IN U. S. 'TO TAKE REST'

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—England's literary virtuoso, H. G. Wells, was in America today on a unique mission.

Unique, he explained, because he is not going to lecture, won't deliver any speeches, hasn't anything to say.

"I'm here to rest—and see a little of America," Wells said, adding he would remain in this country about two weeks.

Wells, whose writings range from fact to fantasy, who turns with ease from economics to imaginary tales of the future, hasn't revised his prophecy concerning the next World War. He declared:

'The next world war will be in 1940, despite recent developments. I'll still bet on 1940. Yes, that seems about right."

Situations leading to war require time to mature, Wells said, adding:

"There's no war situation in Europe now. There may be one in Asia. I couldn't say where the breaking point will be."

This 1940 struggle on which Wells declared he would stake his reputation as a prophet will be the war to end war, he asserted. He said:

"It will bring about the ultimate salvation of the people, but that only after much tribulation."

Wells is anxious to visit Washington..

"I recently expressed an interest in your administration. I asked: 'Will Roosevelt be a great historical figure, or will he be just a romanticist?"

"I want to see, first hand, what he is doing."

Asked what he considered the most stable country in the world, Wells replied:

"I say Iceland."

Our Grandmothers, Even Queen Victoria Smoked

Everything I say is swell . . . So thinks John S.

And he is a young man who does not beat about the bush. He comes right out and stands firmly on his own platform, does John S. NECKING and PETTING are not in his line . . . and he has a prejudice against SMOKING and DRINKING . . . And so he wants me to speak up on these matters, for he insists that I disclose people's PERSONAL AFFAIRS as if I was digging right down under the skin.

Thank you, John S. And here goes:

Miss Brunot

Smoking is a very old habit among women. Our grandmothers here in Pennsylvania, some of them at least, used to steal out on the rear, rickety porches, and have their after dinner pipe, sitting there seeing the sun set, and hearing the hens cluck as they sought their roosts.

The women of the European courts have smoked for generations. Queen Victoria, who stood for all that long Victorian era, was an inveterate pipe smoker and Queen Elizabeth was one of the first to try Virginia tobacco when it was brought back to her from the new world by Sir Walter Raleigh. So, John, when so many women, and for oh, so many years have taken this WEED as a natural outlet for entertainment, I scarcely feel that I, who never set myself down as a reformer, can object.

Of course, like the eating of pie, it must be done in moderation.

Drinking is another matter. Perhaps it can have worse effect . . . Yet anything taken to the extreme is bad. Hundreds of people die of Bright's disease every year in the United states . . . And usually from OVEREATING. The taking of rich foods, the second, third and FOURTH helping of food is very dangerous, and carries away more of mankind than does all the drinking of strong drinks. Christ turned water into wine at the feast of Galilee. Two of the strongest men among the Hebrews were sent into the promised land to spy, and returned carry huge clusters of grapes . . . remember! Yet again we read that WINE IS A MOCKER, and so on.

UP TO INDIVIDUAL

Also we have our Carrie Nations, our Frances Williards, our W. C. T. U. organizations . . . and each in turn do good . . . So, John S., this is not a question for me to decide. It is up to each man and each woman . . . each home . . . each locality. And not poor little me, who only chances to be a hungry heart helper.

I agree, however, too much petting and too much necking is not a real help on the way to matrimony. Love-making is a beautiful thing when sincerely done. When two young people genuinely care for each other it is as natural as the sun rising for them to express this affection in a demonstrative way . . . It MAKES THE WORLD GO ROUND for them. Yet too much of this is done carelessly.

Even young people can be carried away by an imaginary emotion, and because they have been too inconsequential in their granting of kisses. And this all too often leads to indifference after marriage. Girls do not have to PET and NECK to be popular. Boys who are worth their salt, do not expect this.

Back seats of automobiles, lonely park benches, comfortable sofas in the dull-lighted living rooms, may seem like invitations to the boy friend. But the wise girl will stay out where the bright lights shine.

And so, John S., in answer, I say, like Prof. Coue, I am a philosopher of happiness. I am not an all-round reformer. If one goes along carrying enough of such contentment much else can be forgotten by the wayside.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am a young girl of 16. A sophomore in high school. I like a certain boy very much. He tells other girls and other boys he likes me, but has not told me yet. We are the best of friends, though. But have not seen each other now for two weeks. Me asked me for my address and telephone number. The problem is, how can I get him to come to see me oftener? Or am I too young, since I am but 16 and he is 18?

DROPPED FRIENDS

Last summer, I found out what the other girls were like with whom I ran. They drank and acted wild, and now they are mad because I have dropped them. I think I am better off. Don't you? Girls today need pep, I admit. But they don't have to act in the wrong way to have it, I say. None of these girls ever finished high school. But I intend to do so. They are trying to make trouble for me. They wrote a letter to this boy, and said terrible things about me. He showed me the letter. What can I do? Should I join these girls again? How can I attract the attention of this boy?

UNDECIDED.

You are right where the two roads meet, Undecided. In other words, you are at a Cross Roads. Keep on exactly where your heart tells you to go, and let these other girls go their own way. By no means, have them for friends again. You have character and ambition, keep them both.

Tell the boy explicitly that you have quit going with these girls, and why. And also again deny having done any of the things these girls accused you of. He will believe you, and be your friend. You are very young for a real beau. But there is no reason why you should not have friends among the opposite sex. Two weeks is not so long, and I am sure this young man will toddle around soon.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

Fay King Calls Common Sense Youth's Greatest Heritage

I MUST WORK HARD AND SAVE CAREFULLY FOR AWHILE!

I'M NOT A RICH MAN BUT I'VE DONE VERY WELL CONSIDERING MY HUMBLE BEGINNING!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

A news story that must have touched everyone who read it was the suicide of a 17-year-old youth lately.

Poor foolish youngster, he squandered it at once on a fine car, a swank apartment, and among foolish young friends. It didn't last long, and death was the only way the little fellow could see out of his unhappy problem.

Poor little lad—he lacked that good common sense, without which no one, rich or poor, can be happy.

It is the greatest asset youth can have. It has helped many to rise in the world, and without it some with wealth and education have failed in life.

Given in Marriage :-: A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Warned of New Threat by Lee Chow

At the sound of Harry Underwood's voice calling, "Drop it, Lee Chow! Drop it, I tell you!" my father's hand shot out quickly and grasped my arm.

"Stand still!" he commanded, softly but firmly. "Jim!"

"Come with me! Katie, take care of Mrs. Graham until I come back or call her."

He had opened the door as he was speaking, was across the threshold at the last word, Jim at his heels, and the door closed upon a vision of Harry Underwood, erect, towering above the crouching figure of Lee Chow, each man warily watching the other.

Katie had caught my arm as my father released it, and she clutched it tightly with both hands. I could not determine whether fright or a desire to guard me was impelling her. But when I glimpsed her excited eyes, I knew that neither emotion was dominating her, although she, no doubt, was in some degree influenced by both. Patently her movie-soaked soul was thrilled by the adventurous possibilities behind that closed door.

"Vot you tink?" she demanded in a stage whisper that could have been heard in the next room. "Dey fighting doo'el?"

KATIE INQUISITIVE

"Of course not," I answered, a bit impatiently, for I was in no mood to answer questions.

"Den vot matter mit dem?" she persisted. "Me, I tink dot Lee Chow go dot vay dey do in movies—dose foreign men's in south, ven dey roon around mit knife in teef, slashing eferybody dey see. Vat you call dot? I forget."

"Hush! Someone is coming out," I said sternly, balking at explaining to Katie the processes of "going berserk" or "running amuck."

The door was indeed opening, slowly, cautiously, and the next instant Jim slid around the edge of it, and closed it after him.

"Vot happened? Vot matter?" Katie clutched his arm and shook him violently, as if she would hurry his rather slow thought processes by the attack.

If Jim had planned revenge for her cavalier reception of his captious comments upon her violently colored pajamas he could not have achieved his purpose better than by his behavior subsequent to his exit from the room—behavior which, I knew, had its roots only in the desire of a faithful "one-track" mind to carry out directions given it.

ORDERED TO ROOM

But as he spoke directly to me, paying no more attention to his wife than if she had been a piece of furniture, I knew that Katie was infuriated almost to the point of primitive biting and scratching.

"Your father says that you please will go to your room right away and stay until he comes. He says Katie is to go with you and stay with you. He says he and Mr. Underwood are perfectly safe, but that your coming into the room would make things bad just now. So if you will just go up right away, I can hurry back."

"All right for you, Meester Smarty!" Katie spat the words at him venomously. "Keep your old secrets. Me kin find oudt more mit mine eyes shut dan you eef you keep dem open for four weeks of Sundays."

I already had started for the stairway, for I knew that such a message as my father had just sent to me admitted of no delay or quibble in obedience to it. That Jim understood its urgency, as well, I knew when he uttered a low tense, "Beat it, quick! I've got to get back in there! The Chink's gone batty."

If any odd pieces of material left over after making a frock are washed each time the frock is washed, they will not look so odd if used later on for repairing the garment.

When putting new elastic in a garment to replace the old, fasten the end of the old piece to the new, pull out the old and the new elastic is pulled in place as the old is pulled out.

Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Fine Positive Inference

It is unusual in bidding a hand at Contract to show at one stage of the bidding a minimum hand by the negative notrump response to a Forcing Takeout and later, with identically the same cards, to jump from five to seven. However, there are instances in which this bidding is perfectly logical, although in the hand discussed below the guess could have been taken out of the entire matter by the use of the Four-Five Notrump Convention.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K Q 6 5 ♡ A Q J 8 7 3 2 ◇ 9 ♣ A
♠ 10 2 ♡ 9 6 ◇ K Q J 3 2 ♣ J 9 7 6	North / West East / South	♠ 4 3 ♡ 10 5 ◇ 10 8 6 5 4 ♣ K 8 3 2
	♠ A J 9 8 7 ♡ K 4 ◇ A 7 ♣ Q 10 5 4

South	West	North	East
1 ♠ (1)	Pass	3 ♡ (2)	Pass
3 N T (3)	Pass	5 ♠ (4)	Pass
7 ♠ (5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A minimum Opening bid.

2—A very fine Forcing Takeout based upon a splendid fit with partner's suit, another long and strong suit and 3½ honor-tricks in the hand.

3—South can do nothing else safely at this point. The hand does not have adequate support for partner's Takeout, the spade suit is too weak to rebid, and the hand contains only 3 honor-tricks.

4—The North player was not a user of the Four-Five Notrump Slam Convention; otherwise the bidding from this point on would have assumed a different course, though it would have reached the same goal.

5—This is an unusual bid but entirely logical. South's hand has appeared to be a minimum all the way along. It does, however, contain two Aces, and now, when the partner has shown strength enough to make a Forcing Takeout and then jump to five after a minimum response, the King of hearts assumes a tremendous importance. Obviously North must hold the Ace of clubs, and with only two hearts South reasons that there will be an opportunity to discard any losers in his hand on the hearts. The solidity of the spades is certainly assured by the Forcing Takeout plus the Raise beyond game.

In the play a diamond was opened and, of course, the contract was made without difficulty. As a matter of fact, it could not be defeated, regardless of the lead.

Tomorrow's Hand

	♠ 3 ♡ Q J 10 7 5 ◇ A K Q 3 2 ♣ 5 4
♠ K 10 8 7 6 2 ♡ K 9 ◇ 10 8 ♣ J 10 6	North / West East / South	♠ J 5 4 ♡ A 6 3 ◇ 7 6 4 ♣ A 9 8 3
	♠ A Q 9 ♡ 8 4 2 ◇ J 9 5 ♣ K Q 7 2

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.
The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Gifts to the Baby

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be godmother to my girl friend's baby, and I would like to know what the proper gift would be? "A" says that I must buy the whole dress outfit and "B" says only a ring.

Please tell me the correct thing to do. K.

It is not usual for the godmother to buy the dress outfit for the new baby, but if she is an especially close friend and an especially generous person, she may, of course, do it, after she has consulted with the mother. And it is in distinctly poor taste to give a baby a ring. Babies aren't supposed to wear rings, shouldn't be given rings, and shouldn't be allowed to wear one even though some unwise friend thinks it would be "cute."

The usual presents for a baby are a silver mug, a porringer, a set of spoon, knife and fork, marked with the name of the baby and of the giver, if you wish, or a dress or jacket or carriage blanket, or a set of brushes and containers for powder and so forth or a gift of money, no matter how small, to start a bank account.

VARY MENUS WITH MEAT DELICACIES

Have you ever wished for something different in meats, something that would be a change for steaks, chops and roasts? I think most of us have and while we were making this wish we were overlooking the portions of the meat animal which are known as "meat delicacies." These are the liver, heart, kidneys, tripe, sweetbreads and brains.

These meats are rich in vitamins and minerals and because of this are particularly valuable in the diet.

Since many questions are asked as to the cooking of these meats, the following recipes may be of help to you:

Split kidneys; cover with boiling water and simmer over a low fire for five minutes. Drain and remove the skin. Dip into melted bacon drippings and season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Broil five to eight minutes, turning frequently and brushing with drippings. Serve with any preferred sauce.

SAUTED BRAINS—Soak brains in cold water for one hour; remove membranes and parboil in salted water to which a little vinegar or lemon juice has been added. Drain, cover with cold water and when cold, drain again. Separate into pieces the size of an oyster, dip in crumbs, then in egg and then in crumbs again. Brown in butter or fry in deep fat and drain on unglazed paper.

TRIPE A LA CREOLE—1 pound boiled tripe, 2 cups tomatoes, 3 tablespoons bacon drippings, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, 1 tablespoon Worchestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon paprika.

Melt drippings in frying pan;

HELPING HAND ON YOUR SHOPPING LIST

Week's Menus Start Tomorrow; Offer Housewives Aid

Before you get out your pencil and pad to make up your week-end shopping list, remember Prudence Penny is going to publish a week's menus beginning tomorrow. You'll want to consult her menus in doing your buying, so why not wait until you get your Sun-Telegraph to make up your mind.

It will be so much easier, too, with her suggestions at hand. If you want, you can use the menus as they are, or perhaps you'll want to make a change here and there. In any case, making up your shopping list will be merely a simple matter of going down the day's food items from breakfast to dinner.

You can make other women's daily cooking easier by supplying them with your best recipes. You can do this by sending them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Although no recipes are returned, for those printed, the sender receives either a $5 or a $1 prize.

POUND CAKE WAFFLES

One teaspoon baking powder.
Four eggs.
One-third cup butter.
Two-thirds cup granulated sugar.
One-third teaspoon salt.

Beat the butter and sugar until light and creamy. Add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs then the flour, salt and baking powder sifted together. Add flavoring and beat till smooth and light. Last of all fold in the whites of eggs stiffly beaten. Bake the same as ordinary waffles. An attractive way of serving these waffles is to butter lightly, divide waffle, spread the bottom half with fresh or canned fruits (such as strawberries, cherries, peaches or pineapple); place second half on top and over all a generous amount of whipped cream. May be served on a Sunday afternoon or for a Sunday night supper.

Claim that George Westinghouse, inventor of the airbrake and founder of the Westinghouse company, was the originator of the Saturday half-holiday in America was made today by Ernest H. Heinrichs, of 1318 Lancaster avenue, Swissvale.

Heinrichs said Westinghouse established the half-holiday as a permanent custom in his old Liberty avenue plant in June, 1871.

Courtship Talk Given in Y. M. C. A.

Advice on things to be considered in choosing a wife, or husband, was given in the North Side Y. M. C. A. last night by L. Wayne Emory, activities secretary, in inaugurating a series of talks on cultural and practical information.

He also told his audience what to avoid in courtship.

Grapefruit Good Source Of Needed Vitamins

Former Health Commissioner of New York City; United States Senator from New York.

Grapefruit is a logical and valuable alternate for the orange. It can be used interchangeably with the old favorite. Like the orange, the grapefruit belongs to the group called citrus fruits.

It is grown extensively in Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, Arizona and California. In Texas, a grapefruit with a pinkish, or pale rose colored pulp, has been cultivated. It is a great favorite at banquets and dinners. Arizona grapefruit is considered exceptionally choice quality.

Though the grapefruit was cultivated for many years, it is only in recent years that it has become a favorite. Many believe that the original grapefruit was carried by Capt. Shaddock from India to the West Indies and from there to Florida.

FLAVOR IMPROVED

The peculiar bitter taste of the early grapefruit was not liked. To cover this taste, a great deal of sugar was necessary. But modern cultivation has improved its flavor and no artificial addition is now required. The true lover of grapefruit knows that it should be eaten in its natural state — without sugar.

Our present knowledge of nutrition and the importance of vitamins is of recent date. In olden days when nothing was known about vitamin C, scurvy was a common disease due to the lack of this vitamin in the diet. Scurvy is called a "vitamin deficiency" disease.

Fortunately, we are now familiar with the value of vitamins and we know what foods are rich in these vital substances. As a result of this information, scurvy is now rarely seen. All citrus fruits, such as oranges and grapefruit, are called anti-scorbutic or anti-scurvy foods. They contain an abundant supply of vitamin C and prevent that disease in all its forms.

ESSENTIAL TO GROWTH

The grapefruit also contains vitamins A and B. Vitamin A aids in preventing infections and diseases, especially infections of the eye. It is also essential to growth, strength and health.

When vitamin B is absent from the diet there is a resulting disease known as "beri-beri." Foods containing this vitamin should have an important place in the diet. It not only prevents beri-beri, but aids in overcoming intestinal disturbances and stimulates the appetite.

Small amounts of valuable minerals such as lime, iron and phosphorus, are found in the grapefruit. These substances form the strong and healthy structures of the body, bones and teeth. They are also necessary in regulating the various body processes.

The grapefruit, carrying all these elements, is a health protecting and health promoting food. Not only does it please the palate, but it adds length of life.

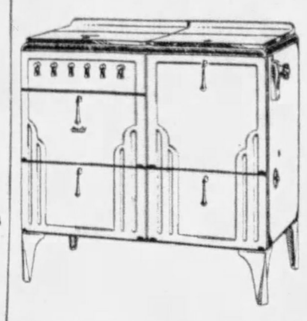
MODERNIZE YOUR KITCHEN

Decide to do it now. Take the first step toward owning a beautiful modern kitchen by replacing your antiquated cook stove with a 1934 Magic Chef. It will save you countless steps every day—and hours of drudgery every week—for years to come.



Magic Chef has improved round-head type burners which spread the flame evenly and economically—light themselves automatically as you turn on the gas. Sanitary high burner tray fits closely around burner heads so that boil-overs and spattering fats cannot splash on burner arms or clog burner heads. Two-piece Grid-pan Broiler drains fat away from flame — prevents overheating and smoking. Red-wheel Oven Regulator insures perfect baking and roasting results.

The model illustrated above has an elevated broiling compartment entirely separate from the oven. This broiler is located immediately below the cooking burners. Both broiling and baking compartments have independent burners, which permits broiling and baking at the same time.

DOUBLE Rich!

DOUBLE Strength!

Campbell's Soups bring you condensed, concentrated goodness. You are buying double richness—double strength. So when you add an equal quantity of water in your kitchen, you obtain twice the quantity of soup at no extra cost.

Campbell's great contribution to American cookery is the making of the very finest soups — soups unequalled regardless of cost. Their economy (approximately one half the cost of "pre-watered" soup) is an added but important feature to you.

Celebrities in abundance, the atmosphere of glamour, the anticipation of something new (excepting that at The Warwick there's scarcely ever a whisper of criticism from the sophisticated). There's good reason for the choice of first nighters who call this home. And not the least of these is a famed cuisine and a genuinely whole-souled hospitality."

STOCKS TAPER AS ACTIVITY SLOWS UP

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—The stock market enjoyed a quiet rally in the first hour today, but agile and still doubtful traders were quick to cash in small profits and prices generally tapered in a resumption of extremely dull business.

Various rails, steels, motors, metals, alcohols and aircrafts came back for gains of fractions to a point or more. Then offerings were encountered which apparently could not be overcome. Washington continued to be the focal point of speculative interest, although decisive stimulus from this sector was lacking. The trend of industry was also being watched closely for signs of seasonal relaxation.

Commodities turned in a much better performance than usual. Wheat got up a cent or more a bushel and the other cereals firmed. Cotton improved about $1 a bale and rubber futures displayed further strength. Silver was about steady. Bonds were dull and somewhat mixed. Dollar rates were a non-influential factor.

The fact that the House adopted the 45 per cent margin provision of the exchange control bill was not interpreted too pessimistically in brokerage quarters. When the 40 per cent amendment was defeated, some observers thought the margin requirements might even be run up to 60 per cent. In other words, exchange members appeared to be "thankful for small favors."

Activity in some of the motors was coincident with the report of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce which showed shipments of approximately 269,569 cars and trucks during April. This was the largest figure for any month since August, 1929. It was also slightly above the March total and was about 92 per cent ahead of last year.

Some of the mining issues reflected a faint renewal of hopes that tomorrow's conference of the President and leading congressional silver advocates might result in some legislation which would aid the metal. It was believed that the Chief Executive had not changed his position against any mandatory measure, but it was thought he possibly would agree to the passage of some sort of a flexible bill which would permit broadening of the monetary rate if it was found advisable.

WHEAT CLOSES AT ADVANCE

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP.)—Wheat market jumps of more than 2 cents a bushel today reflected belief that moisture help for crops was inadequate, and that drought dangers were again acute.

In particular, spring wheat states and Nebraska received only scant precipitations. Furthermore, the official forecast pointed to rainless skies ahead for the Northwest.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¼@1¾ above yesterday's finish, July 77⅞@78, corn ⅜@¾ up, oats ½@1⅜ advanced, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an equal gain.

'AID BUSINESS' PLAN PUSHED BY U. S.

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 4. — The Roosevelt administration at this juncture is emphasizing a positive program to aid business and employment. It believes that when Congress adjourns within the next few weeks, the basis will have been laid for substantial economic improvement this summer and later in the year.

Mr. Rukeyser

In connection with the recent weakness in commodity prices, sources close to the top recognize that quotations cannot continuously move upward, and welcome a reaction now, when farmers are not moving crops to market, rather than in August and September.

As part of the "help business" plan, the administration is behind the plan to insert in the Senate version of the stock exchange bill amendments to the Federal Security Act, which will remove the barriers to new long-term corporate financing.

SEEK VOLUME RISE

One of the amendments, which has received a sympathetic hearing at the White House, would emuate the provision in the British companies act to penalize those who bring strike suits against corporations and financiers, in case they fail to prove their contentions.

Another deals with restricting the liabilities of bankers to the actual amount underwritten. High executive officers of the government think the opposition to the law has been fomented by lawyers, but in order to foster business improvement they are eager to put through the program of liberalizing amendments.

Moreover, in order to raise business volume, the Roosevelt administration is eager to put through the reciprocal tariff bill. The President, it is understood, believes there are opportunities to expand total trade by dealing with specific situations, rather than with grandoise, theoretical conceptions. In order to facilitate the passage of the measure, the White House has consented to inserting in the law provisions for hearings in advance of tariff changes.

The bill gives the President the right to raise or lower tariff rates to the extent of 50 per cent. Contrary to the impression the power would be used exclusively to lower tariffs, it is known that the right to raise rates would also be availed of.

SILVER LAW DUE

Before Congress adjourns, the enactment of silver legislation is expected, and the White House will doubtless be acquiescent if it is permissive, as expected, rather than mandatory.

It is understood, too, a strong effort will be made in the present session to anticipate the payment on the bonus certificates which mature in 1945. The opposition of the President to this is well known.

Despite the President's reported opposition to the McLeod bank payoff bill, the agitation for the measure has at least served to make the administration realize it had been ultra-conservative in making loans against the assets of closed banks. Accordingly, the order has gone out to liberalize such advances.

Moreover, a strenuous effort is being made by the administration to get bank examiners to take a less pessimistic view of bank assets, and thus encourage bankers to loosen up in their loans to customers.

However, the piling up of unprecedentedly high excess reserves in member banks of the federal reserve system is taken by the administration as a definite indication of the small demand for loanable funds from those of good credit standing.

'Teddy' Roosevelt Heads 'Express' Board

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—The election of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, former governor of Puerto Rico and later governor general of the Philippines, as chairman of the board of the American Express Company, affiliate of the Chase National Bank, became generally known today.

Col Roosevelt said:

"This is not my first connection with the banking business. In 1917, before the United States entered the war, I was with a private banking firm. Neither I nor my wife inherited anything, so we have to rely upon my earnings."

BANKS' EXCESS RESERVES OFF

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—Surplus cash balances of Federal Reserve member banks dropped off during the past week, but still maintained the unusual level of $1,500,000,000.

Total reserve balances including legal reserves were reported at $3,570,000,000 on May 2, a $174,000,000 decline due partly to a revision of the April 25 all-time peek figure of $3,746,000,000.

The reserve board also reported a further dwindling in commercial bill discounts and purchases to $46,000,000—a new post-war low which served to boost the use of gold and government securities as collateral for $3,058,777,000 in outstanding Federal Reserve notes.

Gold stocks increased $1,000,000 to $7,756,000,000 while gold certificate holdings of the reserve banks went up $96,142,000 and Treasury deposits with the reserve banks advanced $129,000,000.

SANDERS OUT, G. O. P. CHIEFS VIE FOR POST

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—An under-cover scramble for the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee was seen here today as a result of the resignation of Everett Sanders, who was Herbert Hoover's personal selection to conduct the disastrous campaign of 1932.

Financially deep in the red and split into a dozen factions, the G. O. P. is looking for a Messiah who can combine the ability to raise funds with the ability to make peace between the divergent elements of the party. There is no agreement yet as to who this shall be, but in all probability he will be elected before the committee meets June 5 in Chicago.

FLETCHER CONSIDERED

Ex-Senator James E. Watson of Indiana.

Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa.

Ex-Vice President Charles Curtis, of Kansas.

The Hoover wing of the party is said to favor Edge, Fletcher or Dickinson. The latter was the keynoter at the Chicago convention which renominated Hoover, and has been one of the most persistent critics of the "New Deal."

Edge and Fletcher are liked by the eastern leaders because they are wealthy and have contacts which presumably can find the money the committee so desperately needs.

HOOVER LABEL SHUNNED

There will be, however, considerable opposition to any candidate known to be favored by the so-called "Hoover crowd." Sanders, the retiring chairman, was a Hoover selection, and there is a strong element in the party that believes the time has come to break completely with the past.

This sentiment has been growing since the ex-President made his curious motor pilgrimage through the West recently.

RECALLS CLEVELAND

But as he contemplated the workings of the Roosevelt New Deal, the ex-President is said to have undergone a change of heart. Re-reading history, he is said to have become impressed with the fact that Grover Cleveland went down to defeat after his first term, only to return triumphant.

The Sander's resignation goes into the record books as being due to ill-health. That is unquestionably true in part, but it is also known that at least 25 members of the national committee had signed a petition calling for a meeting of the national committee to select a new chairman. It was prompted by the element that wants to cut loose from everything connected with the Hoover administration.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Scientists who run around the world trying to record eclipses of the sun should hurry to Washington immediately.

Sunny Jim Farley is in one now which is phenomenal. The Postmaster General has maintained his good nature without interruption for many years, even through the air mail mess. What has darkened his beaming countenance now is a curious incident inside the New Deal.

Farley fired a certain hold-over employe of the Postoffice Department several weeks ago for what he considered good and sufficient reasons. The employe was not only a Republican, but what Farley would call an obnoxious Republican, meaning he was too Republican even for a New Deal. His $6,000 a year job was given to a deserving Democrat.

Shortly thereafter Mr. Farley read in the newspapers that the man he fired had been appointed to a better job in the Treasury Department at a salary of about $7,500.

FISCAL FRENZY

Wall street smart fellows have worked themselves into frenzy the last few days trying to find the answer to the Treasury's new stabilization fund mystery.

They suspect further dollar devaluation, more gold or silver buying, possibly federal backing for the bond market.

What has driven them balmy is the fact that none of these steps is needed, none of them sounds logically, but, then why did the Treasury take its gold profit and prepare its stabilization fund for action at this time?

The most satisfactory whispered explanation is that the Treasury did it because of France. Insiders have been expecting France to go off gold at any time, at least to the extent of declaring a gold embargo against exports to non gold countries.

DILLINGER

The Department of Justice has been a beehive inside since the last Dillinger escape. Word has been passed down the line that he must be captured. Apparently the higher-ups are worried about the political effect.

There seems to be a general feeling on the outside that Dillinger would be in a cell now if the federal agents would co-operate with state and city police.

SOLUTION

A group of New Deal economists were sitting around gabbing the other day when one hit upon a bright idea for solving all our current economic problems. Said he:

"What we need now is to absorb ten million unemployed and to stimulate the capital goods industries at the same time.

"All right, let's start off by putting the ten million violators of the NRA codes in jail. That would necessitate building more jails. We could hire the ten million unemployed for jail construction and purchase jail building materials from the capital goods industries.

A well known impartial journalist has just completed a trip through 15 states of the South and Southwest. He reports strong antagonism exists against Prof. Tugwell for reasons that are not quite evident—President Roosevelt has virtually no open critics.

THIS NEW GOLDEN PLY TIRE MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE

Proved 3 times safer from blow-outs at high speeds

A BLOW-OUT is one of those things you can't do much about when it occurs. But you can do plenty about it beforehand by making sure that the tires on your car will give you real blow-out protection.

Today the danger from blow-outs is greater than ever before. High-speeds and smaller wheels generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A tiny blister forms and grows—bigger—BIGGER until BANG! A blow-out!

An amazing invention

To protect you from blow-outs, every new Goodrich Safety Silvertown has the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This remarkable invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form inside the tire. The great, unseen cause of blow-outs is prevented before it begins.

Racing daredevils tested out the Golden Ply at breakneck speeds. On the world's fastest track. Gave it everything they had. Not one blow-out. Similar tires without the Life-Saver Golden Ply failed at one-third the distance the Golden Ply Silvertowns were run. And what's more, the big, rugged Silvertowns kept right on eating up the miles.

No extra cost!

Remember, you pay no price premium for this extra safety—this extra mileage. The new Goodrich Safety Silvertown with the Life-Saver Golden Ply costs no more than other standard tires. Get a set for your car before your turn for a blow-out comes.

This insignia indicates that we comply fully with the tire industry code.

FREE! This handsome Safety League emblem with red crystal reflector to protect you if your tail light goes out. No obligation. Just join Silvertown Safety League at either of our stores. Endorsed by Traffic Officials.

JUNIOR PATROL

Are you pulling your weight in the boat, fellows?

You have probably all seen a picture of a crew race. There are eight husky fellows in a slender boat, and each of them has a big oar. They row as hard and fast as they can with a smaller boy, the coxswain, to guide the boat.

In a way, we are all in a boat—this big world we live on. And all the men and women and children in it are riding on it. About the ones who loaf and don't work, we say: "They don't pull their weight in the boat." We mean that someone else has to take care of them. They are riding in the boat because somebody else is pulling an oar.

Of course, some people are ill and can't do their share. We don't blame them. We take care of them the best we can. That is our duty.

A captain should expect every fellow in his patrol to do his share, as much as he is able. Of course, too, we know that some fellows have many things to do. A fellow has only so much time. Some fellows are stronger than others. Some think faster. But there is a fair share of work for all, especially helping others.

Now here is a letter from Virginia Wallace, of 249 Blackstone street, Hazelwood. She says:

"I am writing this letter to tell you how the members are co-operating with me. We have our club meeting every Tuesday about 4 p. m. The first meeting we finished electing the rest of the officers.

"One member dropped out of the club because when we were voting she said you should not vote for yourself if you are running for the office. Please write and tell me if it is right or wrong. I am sending a pledge for a little boy who would like to become a member. We pay two cents each club meeting and we are going to have a party the second week in July. We have $1 in the treasury already."

Yes, it is all right for a candidate to vote for himself, Virginia, if everybody knows it and he wants to be elected. When there are only a few to vote, that makes it fair.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

JACKSON BIG FIGURE IN GIANTS' SPIRITED PLAY

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Top Clubs Unimpressive.
Cubs, Giants Show Little.
Dodgers Beat Slab Stars.
Goslin Sets New Low.
Some Facts About Derby.
Chances Against Neusel.

Perhaps it's because the season hasn't advanced far enough to permit the players to approach normal form, but what Pittsburghers have seen of the National League's supposedly best clubs doesn't indicate that it will take a wonder team to win the pennant this year. The current week has presented in succession at Forbes Field the first two choices for the flag, and there were many stages when neither of them looked any better than a second-division outfit. The Cubs were loose and unsteady in all departments, and the Giants, while they managed to grab their series opener here yesterday, in spite of Watson Clark's failure in an attempted comback, did not play in a way even faintly to suggest a club of world championship caliber.

Watson Clark

The ball played here so far, in the main, has been far below major league standards, and when the Pirates lost it was usually because they outsinned the opposition either in the box or in their general work. Yesterday, the fourth straight knocking out of Larry French put the Bucs in a hole at the start, and then Hal Smith couldn't match the relief pitching of Herman Belle, who previously had beaten the Rovers only twice in nine tilts with them.

The Giants were fortunate in having a three-run lead, thanks to Travis Jackson's clean-up triple, before Clark blew up in his first start of the year. The opening number of the series against a possible pennant rival wasn't an ideal spot in which to start a hurler who hasn't pitched a complete game since he blanked the Pirates, 3 to 0, on May 22, last year.

DODGERS BAD NEWS TO GIANT SLAB STARS

Not only an individual pitcher, but almost an entire staff, may be jinxed by a certain club while uncommonly effective against all the other teams in the league. The record of the Giant hurlers in their all-time competition with Brooklyn is an outstanding example. If Bill Terry's famous Big Four had been called on to face only the Dodgers they never would have approached the ranking they won last year as the greatest mound combination in the National League. Though New York has beaten Brooklyn three times in a row this spring, Fred Fitzsimmons is the lone member of the renowned quartet who has been able to master the Dodgers consistently.

The mighty Carl Hubbell, who always has found Brooklyn his worst hoodoo, having beaten that club only nine times while suffering 20 defeats at its hands, has a couple of mates in Hal Schumacher and the now incapacitated Leroy Parmelee to share his Flatbush discomfiture. Schumacher's decision over the Dodgers Wednesday was only his third against four defeats, while the best Parmelee could do against the outfit now headed by Casey Stengel was to win one game out of three. It is only by reason of the great success of Fitzsimmons, who has trimmed the Dodgers 25 times while losing just 10 games to them, that the Big Four holds a lead over Brooklyn by the narrow margin of 38 games won against 36 lost.

GOSLIN NOT PROUD OF HIS NEW RECORD

Sometimes a player is not inclined to boast of a new record he has established in baseball, and Goose Goslin is not at all proud of an all-time mark that goes into major league history with his name attached. The Tigers went out and got Goslin from the Senators on account of his batting value, but what did the Goose do in a recent game against Cleveland but turn in the unparalleled performance of hitting into four double plays in successive times at bat. Each double play developed from a Goslin grounder with one out, and three different pitchers figured. Two were made while Goslin was facing Mel Harder, right-hander, and one each off the pitching of Thornton Lee and Lloyd Brown, left-handers.

Goose Goslin

Goslin wants to bet that no other major league player in history ever had such a disastrous day, and the records bear him out. No more than six double plays ever were made in one game, and there is nothing to match one player's hitting into four. The previous record for hitting into two-ply killings in a single engagement was three.

DERBY WON BY TWENTY-SEVEN FAVORITES

Picking the favorite to win the Kentucky Derby tomorrow will stand just a little less than a fifty-fifty chance of being the right guess, according to the records of the annual turf classic. In 59 runnings of the Derby, the favorites have come home first 27 times, against 32 victories by horses quoted at longer prices in the betting. Favorites finished second 16 times, third only twice and were unplaced 14 times, indicating that when a favorite quits, he quits all over.

The track for the Derby was fast only 34 times. For 10 runnings it was good; for seven, heavy; for three, muddy; for three, slow, and for two, sloppy. The date of this year's Derby is the earliest since 1909, when Wintergreen won on a slow track in 2:08. The event has taken place six times earlier than May 5, and once on the same date. Strangely enough, in those seven early races the track was fast in every instance except on the occasion of Wintergreen's victory, so if tradition holds good a fast course would appear to be promised for tomorrow. The earliest date was when His Eminence won the stake on April 29, 1901. The largest field was that of 1928, with 22 starters, Reigh Count being the winner. In 1892 and 1899 there were only three starters. The time record for the race was set in 1931, when Twenty Grand won in 2:01 4-5.

LOUGHRAN MAY BE TOO SMART FOR FOE

Whether or not Walter Neusel, German heavyweight, has any chance of approaching the measure of success won in the ring by his countryman, Max Schmeling, may be determined tonight, when Neusel meets Tommy Loughran for 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden in New York. Neusel has shown considerable promise in his five years of professional fighting, winning 26 of his 48 bouts by knockouts. He holds decisions over Larry Gains and Ray Impelittierre, knockouts over Les Kennedy and Stanley Poreda and a disputed verdict over King Levinsky.

Walter Neusel

But the German never has been up against the class, experience and boxing skill he will be facing tonight. Loughran may have seen his best days, but he still is a master boxer, the distance is short enough to keep him from tiring, and he is likely to prove too smart for Neusel, who is said to be not the fastest thinker the ring has known. Also, unless he has been cured of the faults recently, Walter has a tendency to leave himself open when attacking, and to keep his feet so far apart to make the best of footwork possible, all of which would seem to indicate he is made to order for the hitting and fast-moving Loughran.

PITT AND TECH NETTERS FACE TESTS TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Net performers of Pitt and Carnegie Tech continued a busy program of home competition this afternoon, the Panthers engaging Bethany on the Trees Field lot while the Tartans entertain Penn State on the Morewood rectangles. The Dukes, after two tussles in the past three days, will be idle till tomorrow when they invade the Wash-Jeff precinct. Other Saturday sessions send Penn State to Pitt, Carnegie Tech to Grove City, and Wesleyan to West Virginia.

Bethany, victim of a decisive Blue and Gold lacing on its own courts last week, is not reckoned a menacing foe for the Herron Hillmen in the local contest. State, however, arrives with a record showing 8-1 verdicts over Gettysburg and Bucknell and may be depended upon to make things interesting for both of her local rivals.

Pitt and Duquesne edged through tough scrimmages here yesterday to annex 5-4 victories over W. & J. and the Skibos, respectively. Dr. Dave O'Loughlin watched his Golden Cats drop four of their six singles jousts to the Presidents, but the cagy Panther mentor reckoned wisely in arrangement of his doubles combinations and bore off all three dual decisions to run the Pitt success sequence to four in as many starts.

Meanwhile Grant Siverd's Dukes came to life after bad trimmings by Grove City and Pitt and displayed gratifyingly improved form in achieving a close win in the Plaid bailiwick. Like Wash-Jeff, the Bluffites bagged four single tussles, but, unlike the Prexies, the Siverd host contrived to snatch a doubles tilt, Roy Getty and Pete Petruska rallying to defeat Jones and Goss of the Schenley Parkers, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

As the varsity stars staged bitter struggles, the vigor of their efforts was more than matched by two secondary school arrays, Mount Lebanon High and Shady Side Academy. These clever squads of youngsters, who incidentally fought it out for Interscholastic Conference final honors in 1933, tangled yesterday in a non-league match and wound up in a 3-3 deadlock, diminutive Allerton Miller of the Shady Siders downing Bill Fay, West Penn boys' champion, 6-1, 7-5, to crack the Lebanon sinking streak and assure a tie as the Fox Chapel lads swept both doubles affairs. The summaries:

SINGLES

Ganger, Pitt, defeated Hopper, W. & J., 6-2, 8-2; Joe Marden, Pitt, defeated Jack Thompson, W. & J., 6-1, 6-1; Cohen, W.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: EX-SOLDIER, EX-MARINE AND EX-GOB—Judge Joseph A. Gillis, of Detroit, had the distinction of serving in three branches of our national defense during the World War in little more than two years' time. April 2, 1917, saw him in the Naval Training Station, whence he went to the Naval Hospital in Norfolk, and, in 1918, he was transferred to the Marines in Quantico, Va., in which service he went overseas. In October, 1918, Gillis was transferred to the Army, Hospital 39, LaRochelle. Thereafter he served with the 31st Regiment Engineers, and, upon his return to America, went to the Navy Yard in Boston, from which he was discharged on October 2, 1918. 100 THREADS IN A NEEDLE—One of the most interesting things about the famous Sing Sing prison at Ossining, N. Y., is the various specimens of craftsmanship of the inmates—handicraft of every kind. Nofio Zuzierla has specialized in threading needles, and has given me an ordinary needle threaded with 100 strands, the task requiring only 20 minutes. The needle now is in the Believe It or Not Odditorium. FIFTEEN BONE FRACTURES—Little Vernon Cherry, of Fort Smith, Ark., is only 6 years old, but has suffered 15 serious bone fractures in that short time. When only a few months old, Vernon broke his right leg, and since that time has broken it twice again, broken his right arm five times, right collar bone twice, left leg twice and left arm twice. Vernon unfortunately is afflicted with a soft bone structure, which makes him more than ordinarily susceptible to broken bones from comparatively easy falls, and he is anxious to receive the medical aid that will cure him.

INFIELD STAR HELPS KEEP CLUB UP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pittsburgh today placed the stamp of approval on Bill Terry's champions of the baseball world. Mechanically the new kings of the diamond were very shaky in defeating the Pirates, 5 to 3, yesterday. It really was a question whether one club was worse than the other in a sloppy game of ball, yet through it all there was a strain of fighting spirit in the New York camp that spoke volumes for the club.

Stonewall Jackson himself was a winning inspiration around the shortfield and at the plate. Recovered from his knee injuries, the Giant captain is in a great stride.

Perhaps little will be printed about one of the high spots of the game, the details of which came to this writer in a very informal manner last night. The Pirates, you will recall if you were a part of the holiday throng out to see the opener, had the tying run on the sacks in the ninth with two out when Lloyd Waner drove a smoking liner to deep center. With some apparent difficulty George Watkins hauled in the drive, which could have been a winning homer had it got away. And that is what almost happened.

WATKINS IN JAM

Watkins is the aggressive outfielder who recently transferred his allegiance from the Cardinals to the Giants. He fits into Terry's

CHICAGO CUBS BAFFLED BY ED BRANDT

Associated Press.

The St. Louis Cardinals, riding the crest of a hitting wave that has supplanted their supposedly invincible pitching, now are justifying the predictions made for them before the National League season started.

After losing seven of their first nine games, the Cards began hitting and ran 8 to 7 triumph over the Phillies yesterday made it five in a row and gave them a .500 average for the first time since the second day of the campaign.

TEAM IS HITTING

In the course of this streak they have collected 60 hits and 34 runs to make victories possible, although only one pitcher has gone the route. Yesterday's contribution was 11 blows off Phil Collins, of which Joe Medwick collected two singles and his fourth home run.

Despite their come-back, the Cardinals still are out of the first division. The Boston Braves, the only team they had a chance to oust from the top four yesterday, came through with a smashing 6-0 victory over Chicago's Cubs and went into a tie with the defeated Pittsburgh club a half game ahead of the Cards.

Ed (Dutch) Brandt added to the southpaw plague that has bothered the Cubs recently by holding the Chicago sluggers to two puny singles to shut them out for the first time. The Braves, meanwhile, smacked Pat Malone for nine blows, including homers by Marty McManus and Wally Berger. Chicago's troubles started even before the game when Billy Jurges, regular shortstop, was carted off to the hospital with a mild attack of appendicitis.

GIANTS VICTORS

The New York Giants improved their position at the top of the standing by defeating the Pirates, 5-3, as Travis Jackson accounted for four runs with a triple with loaded sacks and a homer.

Brooklyn and Cincinnati battled through seven scoreless innings before the Dodgers got to Ray Kolp for three runs, enough to win, 3-2, in the eighth.

Rain wiped out all four American League games.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER
Former Star, Now Coach of Pirates

To the Sports Editor:

Somebody asked me if I was trying to be like my good friend Will Rogers in writing these messages. I told him no; that I was just trying to be like that guy Honus Wagner.

Honus Wagner

There is no fun in trying to be like somebody else, especially these days. About the only fun a lot of people got the last few years was just being themselves with their friends and families. When everything else goes wrong, and you get out of a job, and feel like 2 cents in front of strangers, it's a pleasure to get off some place with people who like you for what you are. The reason I like ball players is because they never put on the dog. Regards,

HONUS WAGNER.

LEFTY GROVE SET TO GO

BOSTON, May 4.—(AP.)—Although Bob (Lefty) Grove can cut loose with his $125,000 pitching arm without suffering even the slightest twinge nowadays, it will probably be some time before he starts another game for the Boston Red Sox. Manager Harris said:

"Grove says he is feeling fine and rearing to go, but I have no idea when I will be able to start him. That does not mean, however, that I am not going to use him very soon, within the next few days if the St. Louis Browns or Detroit Tigers force us to use a relief pitcher.

"I think that would be the best spot for Bob's return. Nine innings might be a bit too much for him just now, but both of us agree that a few doses of relief work will tell the story."

ALDINE PINMEN GET PRIZES

Prizes were awarded the bowlers of the Aldine Industrial Duckpin League at its first annual banquet at the Mayfair Hotel last night. Jules Jauquet, one of the best pinsters in the district, received four awards. He finished ahead of the field with a 184.66 average for 90 games; his 667 score gave him top honors for three games and his Federal Reserve Bank team carried off the team championship. Fred Birkel, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pressmen team, won top honors for a single game with a 275 score. The Bonini team cashed in on its 1.042 mark. The Bankers also won the prize for its 2,696 score, which was high for three games.

Eddie O'Brien acted as master of ceremonies. Richard Owens, chairman of the prize committee, awarded the prizes, and Joe Zalin's orchestra furnished the music. Albert P. Yochum, John Mulvaney, chairman of the banquet committee; Philip Gundelfinger and Philip Grabowski were speakers.

U. S. FENCERS WIN

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—American fencers retained the Col. Robert M. Thompson trophy against the British team in a three-day international series completed last night. The Americans, leading 34 to 30 after the foils and epee competition, were victorious in the sabers division, 20-12, to win the series by the decisive margin of 54 to 42.

NEW 1934 MODEL

RESCO TWIN-FOOT MEASURING MACHINE AND FITTING PLATFORM

1893

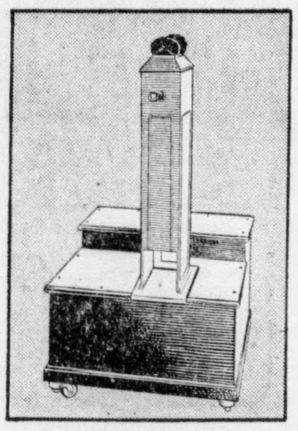
1906

28 years ago we used the Carbon Imprint Pencil Outline system, used in some shoe stores today.



1917

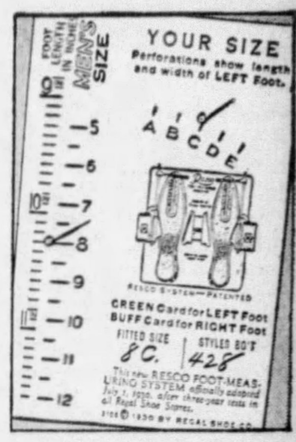
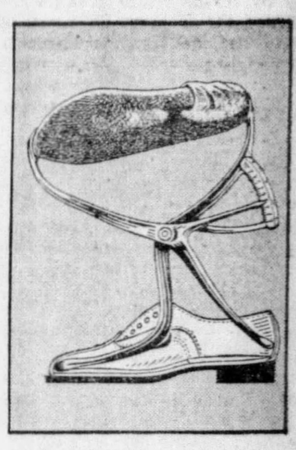
1921

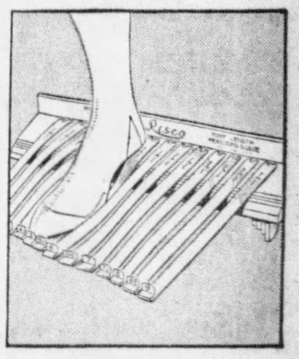
13 years ago we discarded the Single-Foot Measuring Machine, which a number of shoe stores are introducing today as a new idea.



The Twin Resco Machine punches two cards, showing the exact length and width of your right and left foot in Regal Shoe Sizes and Inches.



The Resco Short Shoe Detector first measures the exact length of your foot and then visibly proves whether or not the shoe fitted has the correct inside length.



The Resco Short Shoe Preventer is used by Regal salesmen to insure sufficient inside shoe length for elongation of foot in walking.

If you can walk with the Resco Short Shoe Preventer inserted in your shoe, without feeling pressure against your toe, the danger of a short shoe is eliminated.

NOW AT YOUR SERVICE

in all Regal Stores . . . and only Regal Stores

We are presenting to you on our 40th Anniversary, the final development of the perfected Resco Twin-Foot Measuring Machine, which we believe is the outstanding achievement and triumph of our 40 years' experience in shoe retailing.

THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE, BUT HERE IT IS!—the result of fifteen years of intensive research in measuring and fitting millions of feet, using our own stores from Coast to Coast as testing laboratories during our experimental work.

In one survey of 18,000 civilians, we found that 62½% of the men and 57½% of the women were fitted short. In 60% of the cases the left foot was longer than the right, and in 40% the reverse was true.

In four New York public schools an accurate survey of all the pupils' feet showed that 82% of the shoes worn were misfitted.

Our records revealed a wide variation in length—from one to three sizes—between foot measurements taken when sitting down and standing up.

WHY? Because the ordinary method in the average shoe store is to measure the length of one foot—when the customer is sitting down, instead of accurately measuring the length and width of both feet with a sensitive, scientific machine—when the customer is standing up.

There is no other Foot Measuring Machine in the World today that measures the length and width of both feet at the same time, under the balanced weight of the body, and automatically registers on two separate cards the length and width of both the right and left foot individually, and translates your foot sizes into Inches that everybody can read and understand.

Our "Century of Progress" Exhibit in Chicago during the World's Fair included more than two hundred different fitting appliances, and showed the evolution of Shoe Fitting—from the antiquated Old-Fashioned Size-Stick to the New 1934 Model of the Resco Twin-Foot Measuring Machine, now used exclusively by the Regal Shoe Company and adopted by the United States Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

You are cordially invited to come in and have our salesmen show you the new Resco Twin-Foot Measuring Machine—Short Shoe Preventer—Short Shoe Detector, and other exclusive Regal Foot Measuring and Shoe fitting devices, and demonstrate the ten Regal tests of shoe fitting.

Col. Bradley's pair of Blue Again and Bazaar drew No. 16 and 17 positions respectively. Mata Hari placed No. 4 and Sir Thomas No. 5.

GIVEN FINAL DRILLS

Their hard work finished Derby candidates today took their final blowouts, to prepare them for tomorrow's test. As usual, Mata Hari stole a march on her rivals and was on the track shortly after 5 a. m. She took a five-eighths spin in 1:04, breezing after going the first quarter in :26 and a half in :51 2-5.

Agrarian, which has been attracting new followers daily, showed the best flight of speed to turn five-eighths in a minute flat, and pulled up six furlongs in 1:13 by fractions :23 1-5 and :47.

The blowout of Discovery in particular impressed back stretch observers. He ran the half in :47 2-5, the last quarter in :23 2-5. Spy Hill also impressed with a quarter in :23, three-eights in :35; half pulled up in :48 2-5. Blue Again, going handily, worked a quarter in :23 1-5, and Bazaar turned a half in :49 1-5 breezing. Bender First made three-eights in :38 4-5 breezing.

SINGING WOOD SPEEDY

Singing Wood was buck jumping to turn three-eighths in :35 1-5, and Peace Chance stepped the half in :48 2-5, the first quarter in :24 3-5. Thomasville went a quarter in :23 2-5 from the barrier, and Speedmore convinced onlookers of his fitness by stepping three-eighths in :23 4-5 and :35 3-5 handily.

Sgt. Byrne was unextended to turn off a quarter in :24 and a half in :48. Prince Pompey's final test was tabbed in :25, :50 1-5 and 1:03 breezing. Quasimodo stepped a handy half-mile in :49 1-5.

A splash of international racing will be offered the fans today when Winooka, Australian wonder horse, runs a half-mile exhibition here. The turf pride from "down under" will be sent in company with the American 4-year-old, Advising Anna, between the second and third events at the Downs this afternoon. It will not be a race, and no bets will be taken.

Campanula Wins Thousand Guineas

NEWMARKET, Eng., May 4.—(AP.)—Sir George Bulough's good filly Campanula today won the clasic One Thousand Guineas, first of the two major stakes for the sex on the British turf.

Lord Durham's Light Brocade was second, and Sir Alfred Butt's Spend A Penny, third.

It was the one hundred twentieth running of the stake and the fourth consecutive victory for Campanula since she suffered defeats in her first two starts last year as a two-year-old.

Mistor, owned by the estate of the late American millionaire, W. M. G. Singer, finished fourth. The other American-owned entry, Marshall Field's Foxcroft, finished last in the field of nine.

Adele Rogers St. Johns Thrilled Awaiting First Derby Scene

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS
International News Service.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—Everyone else in the world but me has seen a Kentucky Derby before.

That was why for a while today in Louisville I felt a little lonesome, a little forlorn.

There seemed to be so many memories connected with a Kentucky Derby, with this greatest of all horse races. The air was vibrant with reminiscences, with breath-taking memories of the year Earl Sande lifted Zev, a sprinter, over that last heart-breaking quarter mile—of the year the champion of champions, Twenty Grand, won all by himself—and sometimes even gray-haired folks talked of the time Diamond Jim Brady bet on one horse and the James Brothers bet on Spokane and Spokane won.

IT'S SO GRAND

I haven't any memories about the Derby. I've never seen it. I've never even been in Louisville before. I haven't the faintest idea who's going to win it (except that if Riskulus doesn't it will be a long, hot summer). I've smiled vaguely and tried to look intelligent and pretended I know what the gang means when they say "Do you remember when?" But really I'm just a sap—I'm just a gal who's come to see the greatest horse race in the world for the first time—and I'm completely sunk with excitement.

It's so grand.

I went out for the first time to Churchill Downs—that famous race track where in 1875 Aristides, "the little red horse," stomped home in front to win the first Kentucky Derby.

AIR OF GAIETY

The old stands—with their air of dignity and of gaiety—and somehow of late we have lost the secret of gaiety, and I found it again today at the Kentucky track. The spacious rooms where you can sit between races, where soft-voiced, dark-skinned gentlemen bring you anything you may desire. The stands that look so gracious and so old. Somehow, I thought I was going to be disappointed in Churchill Downs, because you are so often disappointed in places that have been built up to you for years and years. But the ground green lawns that lie within the circle of the famous track, the exquisite flower beds—a little formal and old-fashioned—the masses of lilacs and blooming trees—why, it's all exactly the way you picture it for the Kentucky Derby.

Everyone talks about the great race on Saturday. They don't talk about anything else.

Years ago I used to have a pal named Red Commerford. He was a little guy with red hair and bow legs who had ridden horses and then trained them for years for Barney Schrieber. He knew a lot about horses—and maybe a good deal more about people.

And one day when we stood together out at the Saint Anita track, in California, Red said to me:

"You'll notice it says in the good book that God made man and woman first—and then when He had thought it all over, maybe He decided to make horses."

Well, that's the way you feel here.

Right now I'm breathless. I can't sleep. I don't want to eat. It isn't because my pals and I from California have gone down for a lot of fun on a California horse named Riskulus. Suppose he wins—or doesn't win. Who cares? It's just that suddenly I seem to know that out there on that track tomorrow I'm going to see champions—live things that will give you their best and more than their best, who will keep on running when they can't run, who will run faster than they know how.

Any time in this world you watch great champions—the real thing—undefiled and clean and beautiful, you're watching something that makes your heart beat faster, makes you have more confidence in life and its ways. And tomorrow we'll see the champions of champions—the greatest race horses in the world — running again the long, long trail blazed by Gallant Fox, and Zev, and Flying Ebony, and Aristides. And maybe we'll some day be able to equal them in staying power and heart and speed and unselfish endeavor. Gosh, it's a thrill to see your first Derby.

TECH GOLFERS HOPE TO STOP PITT MARCH

Carnegie Tech's varsity golf squad, under the leadership of Capt. Joel Haverstick, will make a second effort to stop the University of Pittsburgh's march to the district college championship tomorrow morning when the Tartans and the Panthers meet for the second time this season at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

The first clash, at St. Clair, played on a day that was far more suitable for football, found the Plaid taking a lacing from Pitt. From the setup of tomorrow's match, there is little to indicate that the tables are going to be turned. The St. Clair session found Tech asking for a six-man team. The Panthers obliged and the result was just the same. It is likely that Tech will revert to the four-man outfit for tomorrow's battle.

PITT POWERFUL

Pitt had a narrow escape at Morgantown last Saturday when West Virginia was met, but looking at the results of the matches played to date, it is logical to assume that Pitt will not be beaten in a team match this season. The brilliance of Regis Wolff and Claude McKee makes these boys standouts and in Decker and Wasco, Pitt has two boys who are going to make McKee and Wolff battle hard to hold the top positions on the squad.

Four sections of the Interscholastic Golf Conference swing into action again today. Some real battles are expected. At present, only Turtle Creek, Peabody and Kiski sport undefeated records. Turtle Creek meets Dormont at Alcoma, Jeannette goes to Kiski to meet the defending champion and Peabody clashes with Taylor Allderdice at Schenley Park.

Today, women's open day will be held at the Westmoreland Country Club and another banner turnout of the fair sex should be on hand at Pete O'Hara's layout. Yesterday found large crowds both at Chartiers Heights and Aliquippa.

The first competitive golf for women of the season was staged at the Churchill Valley yesterday where a large field of golfers teed off under ideal conditions. Mrs. J. R. Murphy, of the St. Clair Country Club, won both low gross and low net prizes with a 94-20-74; Mrs. George S. Hays, former president of the Women's Golf Association, was runner up for the low gross prize with a 96.

DUKES DEFEATED

The kickers handicap resulted a triple tie, Mrs. Eva Blair, former City champion, now playing at Stanton Heights, Edna Conley, of the Churchill Valley and Mrs. Krick, of Blairsville, sharing honors.

Kiski made a clean sweep of its match with Duquesne University at Saltsburg yesterday, winning 6-0. In the doubles, Foster Meyer defeated Xavier Totten; Cass downed Parent, Garner upset McNally and Gaisford defeated Alderson. In the four ball, best ball match, Meyer and Cass defeated Totten and Parent and Garner and Gaisford stopped McNally and Anderton.

OUTSIDER MAY WIN IN PITT INTERSCHOLASTIC CARNIVAL

TOLEDO SCOTT NAMED AMONG FAVORITES

By JESS CARVER

If ever the spot was right for a dark horse to slip through and win, said spot will exist tomorrow on the occasion of the twenty-seventh annual University of Pittsburgh interscholastic track and field championships.

There'll be 62 schools in competition in the Pitt Stadium tomorrow morning, running and jumping and twisting and turning, heaving and pushing, from early in the morning until Sgt. Byrne wins the Kentucky Derby. (What, you don't think so?)

Scott High School, of Toledo, with a team of 25 athletes; Sharon, the 1933 champion; Linsley Military Institute, of Wheeling, and East Huntingdon, runner-up to Sharon a year ago, rule as pre-meet favorites, which doesn't mean a thing. If Scott has as much material strength as it does numerical, it should walk in.

SIX CHAMPS BACK

But you never can tell. A few years ago Phil Bridenbaugh and Bill Klee fetched one or two outstanding individual stars down from New Castle and walked off with the W. P. I. A. L. championship. The fact that there will be six '33 winners in action again tomorrow would indicate that the points will be well split up. In fact, any school that can slip in one or two firsts and a second and third here and there, enough for, say, 18 points, can just about count itself in.

The following 1933 champions will be on hand:

Lewis, of Rankin, and Bennett, of Bridgeville, who tied in the high jump; Criste, of Cresson, the pole vaulter; Bayer, of Sharon, half-mile champ; Jim Rogers, of Linsley, victor in both hurdles, and Zelina, of East Huntington, who won the javelin.

The Pitt officials wisely have seeded 11 of th fastest sprinters in the 100-yard dash. The meet record, which has stood since 1921, is 10 seconds, and it has been equalled five times, by Shumacker, of Allegheny; Locke, of Shaw High, of Cleveland; Warfuel, of Huntingdon, and Pryor, of Ford City.

SPRINTERS SEEDED

The 11 seeded lads are Thomas and Mason, of Oliver; Coffey, of Westinghouse; Luptak, of Duquesne; Baran, of Derry township; Pointdexter, of Wilkinsburg; Julian, of Uniontown; Lange and Jones, of Scott, and Couch, of Peabody.

The Scott squad is due to arrive today and has a workout scheduled for the stadium this afternoon.

By TOM BIRKS

When the player lists of the City League officially were released by President Everett Sweeny yesterday, it developed that Manager Dinty Moore, of the Parmelee club, had gathered about the best pitching staff in the circuit. If the league pennant is to be won on pitching, then Parmelee is "in."

The Parmelee list reveals five hurlers, all seasoned with plenty of experience. Harry Powley, Verona boy, heads the list. Harry is the same fellow that pitched Verona Community to a championship hereabouts, was signed by the New York Giants on the recommendation of Honus Wagner and then was farmed out to Bridgeport.

Following Powley comes Regis Leheny. And when the popular Oakland boy makes up his mind to pitch it will take the best club in the circuit to beat him.

VAVRA VALUABLE

Then comes Ernie Vavra, the boy who pitched Universal to prominence in this district, who has been rated as the greatest fast ball pitcher on the local sandlots. When his control is right, it is almost impossible to beat him.

Dinty produces another speed ball pitcher in J. Gigliotti, who fast-balled his way through the smaller leagues in the district. Bill Hershey completes the list and is another boy who has been pitching great baseball in sandlot leagues.

It may be Moore's intention to have Powley play the outfield and Leheny to play first base, but they can always take their turn in the box.

The stock of the J. J. Vaughans went sky-high when the name of Abe Martin appeared on the list turned in by Manager Ray Downey. It was figured in City League circles that Martin would be with Dormont or Books. The tall lefthander is going to be quite a thorn in the side of the championship contenders. Joe Lauth, a veteran of many campaigns, also has signed to play for Rooney.

COCHRAN WITH DORMONT

Dormont's list provided a few surprises. Ottie Cochran was supposed to be running the Ottie Cochran club in the North Side Twilight League, but his name bobbed up on the Dormont list. Ottie, however, assured the writer that he only plays with Dormont when his boys are not in action. Cochran is one of the greatest utility players in the league, and aside from Heinie Boll and Walter Kimmick there is not a player in the circuit more dangerous at the plate when runs are needed than the popular North Side lad.

The Book list ran true to expectations. Swede Anderson on the pitching staff and George Spiers a utility player, are new men that should help the club in its efforts to annex a third straight pennant.

Ray Rounds, manager of the Mt. Oliver Businessmen's Association, slipped in the name of Charley Rohleder, which rather surprised the boys. Rohleder was one of the great pitchers in the City League a few years ago. Later he went to Detroit.

Bill Dalzell turned in the name of Carl Stewart, of spitball fame. When Stewart was at his best, and he served his best years for Homewood clubs, he could stand City League clubs on their heads.

There is a possibility that the Mt. Oliver-Homewood game scheduled for Arlington avenue field next Monday will be postponed. Manager Ray Miller states that the contractors are behind in their work.

W. Pa.'s 'Best Bowler'

CHARLES M. (DUTCH) HOLLEN WITH HIS TROPHY PRIZE

Hollen was the winner of Hilary Wertz' recent "Best Bowler" duckpin tournament staged on the Strand Alleys in Oakland, rolling 5,480 for 30 games, an average of 182.66 per game. He turned in five better than 200 scores in his third round for a total of 1,115. Back in 1931 he rolled a 300 score. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture of the star admiring his "Best Bowler" prize.

THE GAME OF SOFTBALL

—What It's All About—

This is the thirteenth installment of a series of rules of softball being published in connection with a district amateur tournament which the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will conduct this summer, the winner of which will represent Pittsburgh in the national tournament in Chicago in September. Players are urged to clip and preserve the series.

RULE 24—Scoring Runs

1—A run shall be scored when a base-runner has legally touched first, second and third bases in order and shall have touched home plate before three are out. No run may score if the runner reaches home on a play during which the third man is forced out at second, third or home, or put out before reaching first base. (A double play on a caught fly ball is not a force out.)

2—A run shall be scored only on a hit ball or a play. No run shall be scored on a throwback to the pitcher. Any throw to a fielder other than the pitcher shall be considered a play, and not a throwback.

3—A runner on third base cannot score on a passed ball or any pitched ball which passes the catcher. A runner on third base may attempt to score on a fair or foul fly ball after it is caught, (except an infield fly) or on a fly ball touched by a fielder (Rule 20, Article 2), or on a play on any other baserunner.

RULE 25—Declaring Outs.

1—The umpire shall declare the batsman or base runner out, without waiting for an appeal for such decision, in all cases where such player is put out in accordance with these rules, except Articles 10, 14 and 18, Rule 24, and Article 1 of Rule 16.

(Note: Unless appealed to, the umpire does not call a player out for having failed to touch a base, leaving a base too soon on a fly or batting out of turn, as provided in these rules.)

RULE 26—Umpire's Judgment.

1—There shall be no appeal from any decision of the umpire or umpires on the ground that he was not correct in his or their decision that a batted ball was foul or fair, that a base runner was out or safe, a pitched ball was a ball or strike, or on any other decision involving accuracy or judgment; nor shall any decision of an umpire be reversed unless he be convinced that it was a misinterpretation of one of these rules.

2—The manager and captain only shall have the right to protest against a decision and seek its reversal on the grounds rules. The umpire, if in doubt on a point of rules, may ask his associate for information. Under no circumstances, however, shall either umpire interfere with or criticize a decision unless asked to do so by his that it is in conflict with these associate.

Ouimet Gives Mates Special Golf Clubs

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 4.—(AP.)—In a diplomatic way, Capt. Francis Ouimet has suggested to his Walker Cup golfing teammates that special technique is called for in approach shots at St. Andrews where international matches with the British will be played next Friday and Saturday.

In practice, nearly every member of the American team has been losing several strokes a round on full approach shots which skid over the stone-like surfaces of the greens and skip into rough or cavernous traps.

Yesterday Ouimet presented each member of his team with a "runner-up" club, made especially to Ouimet's order and bearing his name. The club is designed to simplify approaching problems at St. Andrews.

Tilden and Vines Both Hard Hitters

Two of the most terrific hitters in tennis will oppose each other when Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, veteran and youth, both former national champions, battle in one of the matches of their series in Duquesne Garden next Tuesday night. Both players are tall and rangy and bear down with plenty of stuff on the ball.

It was announced today that the exhibitions will get under way at 8:15, daylight saving time, with Keith Gledhill opposing Dr. Alfred Chapin. Vines and Tilden will follow and a doubles match will close the program with Tilden and Chapin paired against Gledhill and Vines.

RACE PILOT KILLED

OAKLAND, Cal., May 4.—(INS.)—Improperly inflated tires today were blamed for an accident at the Oakland Speedway in which Jimmy McBride, Los Angeles automobile racer, was killed and three speedway companions were injured critically. They were practicing for the 250-mile road race here Sunday.

CORNELL ELECTS FOOTE

ITHACA, N. Y., May 4.—(AP.)—The Cornell Athletic Association today announced that William H. Foote, of Milwaukee, Wis., had been elected captain of the basketball team for 1934-35. He is a junior and plays guard.

JACKSON ACE FOR GIANTS IN RACE

scheme of hustling players, but he had an experience in the noisy ninth that caused him to eat his evening repast while still under the spell of a scare. Here's the way George related it to this writer as he encountered me after the game:

"Did you notice the jam I was in on that liner Lloyd Waner smacked out there? Say, that's one for the book. It wasn't that I had to cover so much ground to get to it, but my sun glasses failed me for an instant."

In case the average reader doesn't know about the sun glasses, they are attached to the outfielders' caps with a spring attachment that throws them into focus as soon as it is released. The fielder keeps the lens folded against the visor of the cap until a ball is hit in his direction. Then he touches the spring and proceeds to keep the ball out of the sun after the lens fly into place.

"I didn't think that little rascal would hit the ball so hard, but I was on the alert and was ready to step back a few stens and to my left to get in the path of the liner. I touched the release on the glasses, and they dropped, but I guess I hit it so hard that they snapped back and there I was looking into the blazing sun as the ball headed toward me!

"Well, an outfielder generally knows just about where a ball is headed for when it leaves the plate and my intuition had me in the correct spot. I had just enough time to adjust the glasses again and grab the ball. But I had quite a narrow escape."

HUBBELL UP TODAY

Had Brother Lloyd's drive eluded Watkins it might have rolled to the fence for a homer that would have given the Pirates the game. Stranger things have happened in baseball.

Larry French had a terrible time during the few minutes he pitched in the opener. Manager Terry gave French the razz in the third round when he bunted safely after having two strikes. The surprise move filled the sacks with none out. Larry stiffened to take Ott out of the picture on a pop fly, but the rejuvenated Jackson smacked a triple to the gate in right center to clear the sacks. The drive sent French to the showers in favor of Hal Smith.

Loose play by the Giants in the third and fourth let the Pirates tie the score. Southpaw Bill Clark, in his first start of the year, uncorked two wild pitches among other bad offerings and Watkins fumbled a hit in the outfield to help a bit. The Giants scored the winning run in the sixth on loose play by the Bucs.

VINCE DUNDEE BEATS DIAMOND, KEEPS TITLE

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Manuel Castro vs. Ervin Bertier, 10 rounds, New Orleans.

Paterson, N. J., May 4.—(AP.)—Working in a precise, machine-like fashion from start to finish, Vince Dundee last night retained his middleweight boxing championship by a decisive decision triumph over young Al Diamond, rugged Paterson challenger.

But Dundee was not in danger then or at any other time, partly because Diamond seemed unable to use his right to any advantage.

TOM FACES NEUSEL

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP.)—They're feeding another young and aggressive heavyweight to Tommy Loughran in Madison Square Garden tonight, blond Walter Neusel, of Germany.

For a time it looked as if the Philadelphia veteran would be a short-ender at 8 to 5, but the odds were shrinking rapidly today and indications were they would be at even money by the time the former light-heavyweight champion and his youthful rival enter the ring for their 10-round bout.

Neusel packs a fairly healthy wallop, is hard to hurt and has plenty of strength and stamina, but veteran critics doubt whether he is ready yet for such a master craftsman as Loughran.

CHILLYSAUCE

Bloody Ryan's spirit and sportsmanship is lauded by writers in town with the Giants. Many fans felt that Bloody would be gloomy and morose after being pushed out of the shortfield by Travis Jackson. A scribe approached Ryan and asked him if he were down-hearted. And Blondy replied:

"I should say not, Jack is one of the greatest stars of baseball. I was just subbing for him last summer and had a swell time."

Ryan is quick on the trigger. He was with Jackson last night when a friend talked with Travis regarding his knee injury which kept him out of action for months at a time during the past several years. Jackson had trouble with both knees and was elaborating on his ailment. He said, pointing to one of his knees:

Jackson connected for a homer, a triple and a single. His bat drove in four of the five New York runs. Travis is so tickled over his recovery he can scarcely refrain from shouting his joy from the house tops. A Memphis specialist gets credit for the remarkable cure.

Ryan was yanked out of the New York lineup in favor of Hughey Critz on a minute's notice. During the New York practice period, Blondy twisted an ankle and little Hughey had to don the fighting togs in a hurry. The tall infielder may find it hard to get back, but he will be a moral asset to the club in the dugout.

THIL VICTOR

PARIS, May 4.—(AP.)—Marcel Thil, French claimant of the world middleweight championship, won a 15-round match last night from the Belgian challenger, Gustave Roth. Thil piled up a decisive margin in the final rounds, taking an easy decision. He weighed 157½ pounds, Roth 157.

CATHOLIC AID NEEDS SHOWN

Although unemployment relief funds are now distributed by the County Relief Board, private agencies must still handle unemployment cases complicated by other forms of social problems, the annual report of the Conference of Catholic Charities pointed out today.

Speaking of the activities of the organization, Miss M. Luella Sauer, executive secretary, said:

The report revealed that the Catholic Charities has a load of 1,260 families, of which 1,000 are receiving relief, a part of which comes from government funds. Copies of the report, accompanied by a letter from Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Pittsburgh Catholic Diocese, will be sent out to all priests in the diocese.

The agency is financed through the Community Fund.

THAW'S WIDOW GETS ESTATE

Mrs. Marjorie Priest Thaw, widow of Col. William Thaw II, was named sole beneficiary in the estate of the famous World War flier, his will on file in Orphans Court revealed today.

No value was placed on Col Thaw's holdings, which included $1,000 in personal effects and real estate of unestimated value.

Col. Thaw's real estate holdings included an interest in the Thaw homestead on Morewood avenue. He also derived considerable income from the Thaw coke trust, established by his grandfather, the late William Thaw.

Col. Thaw's interest in the trust, of which he was a trustee, ended with his death.

Col. Thaw's will named his brother, Benjamin Thaw, Jr., and the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company as executors.

Col. Thaw died of neumonia two weeks ago.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LXI.

"Please hurry, Kay! You know Gregg hates to wait."

Kathleen glanced at her image in the mirror, smiled, and answered irrelevantly: "I always longed for a neat, slender nose like yours. It's so silly the way the point of mine tilts upward."

But she now regarded the airy feature with dreamy satisfaction. Last night Scotty Campbell, with whom Kathleen was now in love, said it was the cutest nose in the world. Scotty was not like Gregg. He wouldn't be angry if Kathleen kept him waiting.

Kathleen applied a bright pink lacquer to her nails, surveyed them critically, went over to a flame colored dress which lay on the bed, to see that the shade matched perfectly. Without warning, Edward was in the room. He was immaculately dressed in stiff white shirt and black tuxedo. He looked very well.

"Dancing," said Kathleen crisply. "We're going to the Mark."

Edward regarded them with longing, so that Pippin said impulsively: "You look quite handsome, Edward. Where are YOU going?"

"Why don't you come along with us? We'd love to have you!"

Kind-Hearted Pippin

Kathleen put down the nail file and offered indifferently: "Oh sure, come along. That will be fine with me."

"Do you really mean it, Kay?"

As Edward went down the hall, she said evenly: "You can't bear to hurt anyone, can you, Pippin? But after all, he's chosen to marry her. He didn't ask our opinion. Why do WE have to love her? You spoiled your own evening and mine to make theirs. Why? Your impulse is always to save the other fellow even if it robs yourself. What a sap—what a sap—"

Before Pippin could defend herself, Kevin laughed. He stood at Kathleen's door with a half-mocking: "Generous children, aren't you? But who's going to fix my shirt?"

"You'll have to be your own valet tonight, darling! Pippin and I are stepping out. You heard her invite Edward to join us?"

I'll fix your shirt, Kevin!"

She took the dress shirt he flung to her and said with a happy sigh: "I think so, too!"

Fixes Kevin's Shirt

Pippin fixed the shirt, got out black silk sox and dusted off Kevin's shoes as a hundred times she had helped Kathleen, while Kevin sat on the edge of the desk phoning to the hospital with instructions about various patients. Pippin finished her job and moved quietly to the door. Kevin swung around with a sharp:

"Hey! You're not finished."

"Yes I am."

"To Bob Nolan's stag dinner. You know he's being married next week? I've got to leave early. Have to finish up some work at the office."

"My father is a slave-driver, isn't he?"

"He drives himself hardest of all. I really should have gone to Los Gatos tonight, but he made the call."

"Is someone sick at Los Gatos?"

"Yes—didn't you know Jane's mother had pneumonia? She's been laid up a long time. Her heart is bad."

Before she could check it, the anxious question was out: "Is that why you had to run down there each Sunday?"

"Why yes!" He added with a quick, teasing light stealing into his eyes: "What did you suppose took me down?"

"Yes I did. I love Edward. I don't want to see him going around with a sad, injured look."

Kelvin reached over, found Pippin's hand, pulled her to the desk: "You love a great many people, don't you?"

Pippin Feels Gay

"I suppose so! Kathleen thinks I'm a perfect weakling!" She laughed and felt gay, felt singing and joyous. "I love being in love!"

"But very artistic and restrained. This is a most precious orchid . . . the very first Gregg ever sent. I think it was noble in him."

"Why did Gregg send you an orchid?"

"A wonderful thing happened today. The editor of a newspaper in Hong Kong wrote that he has a job for Gregg as reporter. Also Gregg finished a serial he's been working on for months. It's a thriller and should bring in scads of money—at least $500. Tonight we're celebrating."

"Gregg is very much in love with you, isn't he, Pippin?"

"Why darling, can any man look at me and not love me?"

"He's coming back here as soon as he's free?"

Unconsciously, Pippin sighed: "Yes—that's his plan."

Not Going With Gregg

"Also he's waiting until you are graduated, isn't he, Pippin? He wants you to go with him and he won't take 'No' for an answer."

"I'm not going with him, Kevin!"

"Do you mean that you've chosen Bill? You love Bill, don't you? And he would be the wiser choice, of course. Just as good a brain—perhaps better brain than Gregg. Didn't you tell me he was the honor student of his class in Annapolis? An attractive fellow with all that money."

"Is money so important, Kevin?"

"Oh," said he with a shrug: "either one can qualify at that. As the Germans say—one does it well—another, just as well! This is a new dress you're wearing. You get a new dress every week."

"Nothing of the kind."

"You have several dozen that I've seen. Suppose you had to wear the same dress everywhere you went—even if it were a pretty thing like that blue of yours—"

"Because you've always had enough. People who are well fed don't crave food or dream about delicacies. Hungry people do. A girl would be a fool to marry a poor man if she could marry a rich one who is just as attractive or nearly so."

"Even if she loved the poor man much more, Kevin?"

Both Want Love

"Well, think what poverty and worrying over bills does to a young couple no matter how much they love each other. A girl used to luxury and pretty things is drained of color and joy. She has a skimped feeling mentally and emotionally; the man would come to regard himself as insufficient. He would be harrassed, goaded, impatient. Imagine telling the girl you love she can't have a new hat—imagine having to dole out nickels to her or being forced to deny her the pleasures she's always known. Couldn't take you skiing or to the good shows or dancing except once in a blue moon . . . What would become of love after a year or three of that, Pippin?"

"Real love would survive! It would grow stronger and deeper. Helena says so. But I'm not thinking of love and marriage, Kevin. I'm going to take that job in the lab. As a matter of fact, I'm never going to get married at all!"

"When did you reach this startling decision, Pippin?"

"I think I've known for ever so many years that I was never, never to marry."

"You sound awfully despondent and regretful. Why won't you marry?"

"I wouldn't marry unless I loved a man so terribly I couldn't possibly be happy without him. It would have to be absolutely inevitable. I'd have no choice at all but to fling myself in his arms the minute he said: 'Will you?' If it isn't sweeping and complete like that—it's nothing! I don't want it."

Kevin leaned down, his face flushed. She felt his arm draw tight about her; felt her heart skip.

"You haven't loved in that way, Pippin? But you want to, don't you?"

She could not master the longing to look in his eyes. They were rich and dark and seeking. They seemed covering her and holding her.

"You want love—that kind, Pippin?"

She said faintly: "Yes—that kind!"

"I do, too."

Successful in the North, the Revolutionary Army suffered defeat in N. Y., N. J., Pa., Del. (1777).

Leaving Gen. Clinton in command of New York—who captured forts, devastated lands around the Hudson—Gen. Howe embarked his troops and sailed up the Chesapeake Bay, landing 50 miles from Philadelphia. Washington, moving from his winter quarters at Morristown, N. J., against Howe, suffered defeats (Brandywine, Germantown, Pa.) Howe occupied Philadelphia, from where Congress fled to Lancaster, later York, Pa. Washington, with exhausted troops made winter camp (December) at Valley Forge, Pa.

In the coming months of indescribable sufferings, starvation of his soldiers, disunity of Congress, disloyalty of many Americans, rather burning grain than supply the famishing Continentals, only Washington's undaunted courage and energy kept alive the spirit of patriotism.

SEGMENTED WORMS—EARTHWORM—10TH ANIMAL PHYLUM

Segmented worms (Annelida) about 4,000 species) include marine worms, leeches and the familiar earthworm (above). The segmentation of the body is both external and internal. The head regions contain the mouth, brain and sense organs. There is a complete alimentary canal, a blood circulatory and ganglionic nervous system. The body has bilateral symmetry (left and right half) characteristic of higher development. Earthworms soften soil with saliva, suck mud into mouth, pass it down their food-tube, absorbing the organic matter.

TIDES OF WATERS ON EARTH—ATTRACTION OF MOON AND SUN

Newton's hypothesis about universal gravitation states that matter attracts other matter in the universe with a force (gravitation), proportionate to product of the masses and inversely so to the square of their distances. The moon attracts strongest the seas nearest to it, raising their surface; same time also draws earth nearer, causing high tide on opposite side.

The tides caused by the sun's pull—being much farther—is only about 45% that of the lunar. At full and new moon pulls of the sun and moon (being in one line) are superimposed, giving the highest "spring" or "jumping" tides. In first and third quarters of moon occur the "neap or "narrow" tides, when high water is lower, low water higher than average.

FRANKLIN AT THE COURT OF FRENCH KING LOUIS XVI

While Washington fought his desperate struggle against weapons, deprivations and disloyalty, the great patriot and scientist, Benjamin Franklin, worked for the same cause with diplomacy and statesmanship in Paris, France. After the victory of Saratoga he convinced Louis XVI of the advantages of a French-American military alliance against Britain, her old rival, France soon helped with troops and gold, turning the tide in favor of the cause of liberty.

CHRIST BEFORE PILATE

The coming of a Messiah had been long predicted. The birth of Jesus Christ, (Iesous, Greek form of Joshua, saviour; Christos: anointed) caused Herod, king of Judea, fearful of an earthly king aspiring to his throne, to destroy male children up to 2 years of age in and around Bethlehem. Jesus, meanwhile taken to Egypt, was safe.

In manhood, His teachings were of highest morality and purity. Nevertheless, those in power accused Him as disturber of the peace before Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor of Judea, who, believing Him innocent but in fear of the wrath of the wicked Caesar, Tiberius, delivered Him to be crucified. Concerning Christ's life and teachings, see the Bible. (World History)

INFANCY OF GLIDERS—LILIENTHAL

In man's age-old struggle to master the air, the glider was one noteworthy step. It is a motorless, heavier than air craft. Besnier, a French locksmith, constructed (1678) hinged flaps, connected to rods to be worked by hands and feet. It is said he succeeded in gliding across the river. However, it took two centuries until the really successful gliders were constructed by Otto Lilienthal, a German, who made over a thousand flights. Finally he crashed (1896), a martyr to flying.

The Subject Must Be Loud

This year has been marked by the clashing of great minds. Some Democratic. And the others in quarter sizes.

The result has been a tempest in a hiccup. When two strong men stand chin to chin there is bound to be an oratorical cloudburst accompanied upon the piano by rhetorical heat lightning.

Each one is determined to save the nation in his own rough manly way or perish with the winners. That leads to the question we now query. How is it that two great minds dig their own channels?

Why do our illustrious leaders fail to agree on anything, be it salvation or be it ruin? Are they famous because they argue? Or do they argue because they are temporary landmarks.

To the average man who reads and squints there is nothing progressive or reactionary in these hoarse, stringent duets. He knows it is just a couple of publicity jockeys going to the whip.

There are no more flowers that blush unseen or gems that sparkle anonymously. Neither are there canaries far away from the microphone.

Every move is a news reel now. And every syllable a national hook-up. When two big caribou lock horns it ain't in the barn. It's in town hall at 50 cents a ticket and no questions asked.

The corrugated and morose rumble of a grizzly on a lone hill will attract more attention than the bleating of a million sheep in the pasture. That's why you find the national politicians looking for a solitary toe-hold on the political rostrum.

When they want to bellow all the answers they desire are the reverberations of their own echoes. It makes no matter what the subject is. That is easily changed, warped and parried.

All they require is the hint of an argument that can be nursed into a problem. Then they are off for the wars with their shields at their chests, their "Ex Caliburs" flashing in the sun and mattresses strapped to their backs.

ODD FACTS

British automatic machines receive every year 2,500,000,000 pennies, 900,000,000 sexpences and 300,000,000 shillings. French coins collected from them are shipped across the Channel in return for British coins found in French machines.

All wandering wrecks, according to a long-standing legend, drift to the Sargasso Sea, called the graveyard of ships, but in 1926 Dr. William Bebe, famous oceanographer, failed to find so much as a spar there!

Well Said, Mr. Davison!

This Community Is Entitled to Federal Assistance For a Federal Project.

George S. Davison, president of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, deserves honorable mention for the valiant stand he took for recognition by the United States Government of the rights of this community.

He was principal spokesman of a delegation that asked the Board of Army Engineers in Washington Wednesday to establish storage reservoirs on the upper Ohio and its tributaries, and especially one on the Allegheny at Warren, Pa., to prevent floods and aid navigation.

Board members asked him if local communities were prepared to assume any share of the cost. Mr. Davison answered in the negative, and let the board understand that the answer was final.

He then proceeded to call attention to the fact that the Pittsburgh district has put up a large share, in the form of general taxes, of the money expended by the government. That money has been expended elsewhere. Allegheny County received next to nothing of the three billion, three hundred millions recently appropriated by Congress for public works.

In the face of this shameful treatment it is little short of impudent to suggest that this community assume the cost of a federal project which the federal government should finance.

Not only Allegheny County, but the people of the entire Ohio Valley would benefit by the proposed reservoir at Warren. And even if Allegheny County were alone to benefit, it is entitled to some consideration from the federal government, for it has alone more people than any of a dozen states.

The Cook Forest Beavers

They Seem to Have Been Exterminated Through The Game Commission's Folly.

The Cook Forest Association, of which Samuel Y. Ramage, Taylor Allderdice, Thomas Liggett, Arthur E. Braun, H. H. McClintic, Homer D. Williams and John M. Phillips are directors, has received word that the beavers on Tom's Run, in that beautiful state park, have probably been exterminated. This is more than a shame—it is an outrage.

The Game Commission's folly in declaring an open season for trapping beavers is to blame. This invitation to slaughter the valuable fur-bearers has resulted, according to the Game Commission's own figures, in the killing of more than half the beavers in the state.

That the beavers in Cook Forest were killed is particularly lamentable because the forest is designed to preserve the native wild life of Penn's Woods for educational purposes. A quarter of a million people visited the Cook Forest last year, and many of them were much interested in the work of the beavers, the most skillful carpenters and engineers among the animals.

Mr. Liggett, who did more than anyone else to establish the Cook Forest as a public park, states that he has learned on excellent authority that the Game Commission's invitation to trap beavers led not only to trapping them but to tearing down their dams and shooting them.

He points out, also, that the way has been paved for further killing of beavers by unscrupulous persons, who can say, if found in possession of the pelts, that they obtained them during the open season.

Symphonies for Pittsburgh

It is a good omen that New York has succeeded in raising half a million dollars to save its Philharmonic Symphony Society from extinction. For Pittsburgh will undertake shortly to raise $100,000 for the support of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra for two years; and we surely should be able to collect a fund only one-fifth as great as New York collected.

The maintenance of a good symphony orchestra here is well-nigh a civic necessity. This city, the home of great composers, scarcely will be able to hold its head high in the community of American municipalities if it should fail to support such an organization.

Music becomes an increasingly important element in our lives. The radio has given multitudes appreciation of the best. There is accordingly greater need for a Pittsburgh orchestra now than there was in the days when Frederick Archer, Victor Herbert and Emil Paur wielded the baton in Pittsburgh.

Unfair to Porto Rico

Island Citizens Are Improperly Treated as Aliens In the Sugar Bill.

By the passage of the so-called sugar control bill, Congress has betrayed the people of Porto Rico.

Instead of treating them as citizens of the United States, as, of course, they are, they have been treated in the limitations upon their sugar quota as aliens.

Their sugar industry has been discriminated against in favor of the sugar industry on the mainland.

It has been done in callous disregard of the protest of the Secretary of War and of the appeals of Gov. Winship that the people of Porto Rico be given the treatment to which they are entitled under the Constitution and laws of the United States.

The committee of Congress which drafted and reported and steered this discriminatory legislation against Porto Rico through both houses have suppressed the messages of Gov. Winship, and ignored the petitions of the leading citizens of Porto Rico.

And all of this has been done at the instigation of the same sinister sugar lobby that has betrayed the dependent people of the Philippine Islands by breaking every promise to them in the fake independence bill, and by condemning to destitution nearly four million Filipinos in putting upon copra and coconut oil a prohibitive tariff.

President Roosevelt will have the support of the whole country, the sugar lobby and its dupes alone excepted, if he will veto the sugar control bill upon the ground that it is unconstitutional, unjust to the people of Porto Rico and dishonorable to the people of the United States and a downright disgrace to the legislative branch of the government at Washington.

The Voice of the Nation

That, so far, is the answer of loyal Americans to the efforts of internationalists and propagandists to inveigle the country into the League of Nations and the League Court.

The petition of protest sponsored by the Hearst newspapers and supported by patriotic organizations has been signed by MORE THAN A MILLION CITIZENS—and the work goes on.

If YOU have not yet signed, do so today—and ask your friends and neighbors to sign.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 4.—Thoughts while strolling: Nothing makes me so thoughtful as evening church chimes. Tamara's voice is like Helen Morgan's. How smart many of us thought we looked with white edgings to the V of our vests! Maybelle Manning and Louise Groody bear a resemblance.

One word description of Clifton Webb—floaty. No one should remain in New York more than eight months at a stretch. Such terrifying life should be savored in small doses. Nobody clings to an old hat like Berton Braley. Wonder if Spruille Braden was ever a fullback? What shoulders!

Those smartly groomed fellows who breakfast at 11 a. m. in the rosebud lounges of big hotels. Hell's Kitchen is the only section of New York where they talk raw-edged like Jimmy Cagney. Amelia Earhart and George Palmer Putnam seem to like the sedate tea-roomy places.

Everybody blabbing about the gaiety of London. And the doldrums of Paris. Never see someone jot down a note that I do not want to peek. Sidney Howard appears to have written all the hit plays this season. An Oakland (Cal.) boy, by the way. Why do ambulance doctors always like to appear hard-boiled?

One of my favorite people—Conde Nast. Journalistic hope: A ban on the Macoco and Tommy Manville didoes. When he wants to be, no one can be funnier than Frank Sullivan. Wonder if Frank Buck and Clyde Beatty know each other? They should have teamed up and brought back Insull.

Recently I drove by a tenement where seven, trapped by flames, perished. The interior was a jumble of charred collapse and the sky could be seen through the room. A New York tenement never looks as disreputable from the street as it is. The trick of the owners is to give the facade a certain grandeur. As few tenement dwellers have guests, this outward display attracts them, too.

And tough breaks: Elizabeth Cobb's husband, Alton Brody, was in a German prison camp badly wounded for weeks. When he regained a little of his strength he and a companion escaped, wandering and crawling across No Man's Land by night and covering themselves with mud and slime to hide by day. After several days, they were so emaciated by hunger and exhaustion they decided to return to camp and give themselves up. When they finally arrived, they learned the armistice had been declared the day before. And felt kinda silly!

One of my cherished and delightful friends of the feminine persuasion has all the super delicacies of refined womanhood, yet will miss no opportunity when in Spain to see bull fights, cheering like a native. Her reasoning is a little cock-eyed but highly amusing. As a girl of six she was chased across her yard and onto the front porch by a neighbor's cow. She never forgot!

Long before I heard George Bernard Shaw used the same method of handling personal correspondence. I have replied to most letters on post cards in my own handwriting. All that one wishes to say in any letter can be encompassed on such cards. Indeed the major fault of 99 per cent of the letter answerers is they say too much. A post card bridles us happily.

Gulls in the New York Harbor sight an incoming liner before it is revealed by glasses. They may be fluttering around small craft, shrilling their eerie cry and diving for scraps when in the tick of a clock they wheel about and race for approaching steamers. Did anyone ever notice a gull's old man expression?

Ed Wynn's art is expressed by this. I see him off the stage seldom and hear him much on the air. The other afternoon after a lapse I ran across him at my tailor's. It somehow seemed strange that his voice did not tremolo into a flutey uptake or his hands fight a three-round draw. That he talked calmly in low voice about sensible matters seemed altogether incongruous. So indelibly has he stamped himself in our thoughts as a public fool, that to find him an unemotional fellow chewing a cigar and needing a hair cut bewilders.

Of which, as Ring Lardner used to say, he has a complete set.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I Wear Gay Hats!

A marching song for women over forty.

* * *

Red hats;
Bold black and white,
With saucy crowns
And swooping, swagg'ring brims;
Gay hats that hardly match
My tired eyes,
Gray hair, and wrinkling skin,
And slowing gait—
Instead of small, sedate,
Dark turbans
Which would suit
My fifty years.

* * *

I wear gay hats!
And sometimes giggling girls
Pass me and whisper—
"See—the poor old thing!
"She tries so hard
"To still look young!
"Why can't she realize
"It's not worth one's while
"To wear gay hats
Listening I smile,
And think,
And pull my big brim lower
Till it seems to wink,
And in my heart
A small, wise song
Begins to sing . . .

* * *

"And hats like these,
"They say,
"Don't match my years
"But why should years
"Condemn one to wear gray?
"Surely, it's a break
"To have lived fifty years
"Upon this earth!"

"I wear gay hats
"Because my soul is gay
"And grateful!
"It's a privilege
"To have been alive
"For all these years;
"To have been able
"To live deeply,
"Not as dumb brutes live
"Who have no urge
"Outside their stupid flesh,
"But as men live
"Who dare to think and feel;
"Brave men, who dare to ask
"What life is all about,
"And dare to pay the price
"The answer costs!"

* * *

"I wear gay hats!
"As soldiers carry flags
"And their blood-stained rags
"So I wear swooping brims
"BECAUSE I'M PROUD!
"Proud that I've dared
"To take from 50 years
"All that they held
"Of laughter, love and tears
"Romance, adventure,
"Rebellion, reckless risk,
"Hardship and boredom,
"Heart break and delight
"Bullied, loafed and lied!
"And yet
"I've somehow

* * *

"And so—
"ABOVE MY 50 YEARS!
"Filled with old age fears?
"Not I!
"Let those who still
"Are damp behind the ears
"Be sorry.
"Envy me my years!
"I'M 50!"

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

The Dangerous Season

This is the dangerous season, when a man's biggest problem is to make a girl fall for him and, at the same time, prevent her from landing him.

* * *

There is something about the shine on a white-collar man's coat that brings a lump to your throat and makes you wonder if his wife loves him enough to make it worth while.

This world is full of super-optimists who still think they are going to make a "come-back" in Wall street; of thirsty souls who still fancy the Repeal will bring back good whisky; and of wistful girls who still imagine that romance will be revived by the long skirts and picture hats. Yet, it is 15 years since we had to save butter-fats for the World War soldiers—but you still get a paper-edged pat of butter painted on your plate.

* * *

* * *

What a girl is most interested in, as the summer comes on, is not a redistribution of wealth, but a fair distribution of dancing men and eligibles at the beach club.

* * *

Success is what enables a woman to discard four or five husbands and still be considered merely "capricious"—or to remain a spinster all her life and still be regarded as just a bachelor girl."

* * *

After she has heard him dealing out priceless "advice" on everything from world recovery to women's fashions and garden seed, many a doting bride can't understand why her Wonder Man hasn't been made a member of the Brain Trust.

* * *

The greatest blessing of marriage is that it puts an end, forever, to a bachelor's fear complex. The fear that some woman will GET him!

Lots of people are economizing this year by not getting a divorce—and planning to run along with the last year's partner for another season.

* * *

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Aren't you a considerable bluffer when you attempt to prove that you are courageous?

In telling of past exploits you emphasize what you think proves you to be a person of unusual nerve.

But it is not surprising that persons who have known you for some time look rather skeptical when you relate experiences that make you stand out as a hero.

You talk too much about yourself to be selected.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Explorers All

Though on no unknown seas do we embark
Nor do we search for any fabled land,
Down treacherous streams in forests deep and dark
Or stumble, parching, over desert sand;
Yet still we are explorers all, who grope
Through the strange continent of self to find
The wells of beauty and the source of hope

We are explorers all, with flags unfurled
But farther they who thread the maze within!

ISN'T IT SO?

Why ask your dealer to supply you with butter of the first rank?

If you are disappointed in love, it may save you a greater disappointment in marriage.

Roosevelt Fails to Check Growth of Spoils System

By James T. Williams, Jr.

SOON after President Roosevelt entered the White House, the public was encouraged to believe that the merit system of federal appointments would be greatly extended under his administration. In fact, the promise was volunteered specifically that the President would urge upon the Congress the merit system of appointments throughout the postal service.

This has not been done. There appears to be little chance of its being done before Congress adjourns. The failure to make this extension months ago has lowered the standard of federal administration. And the dissatisfaction in congressional districts over the distribution of patronage will probably cost many a Democratic congressman his renomination in the coming primaries of his party.

Four of the eight members of the Oklahoma delegation, for example, face hard fights for renomination. Their most formidable opposition comes from the dissatisfaction of their constituents over the exploitation of the federal service by the appointment of incompetents to fill vacancies in the postal service and other federal agencies. The Oklahoma situation does not differ in this respect from that in many other states.

* * *

Patronage May Be A Detriment

THE theory that patronage is a political asset to a Senator or a representative in Congress is not well founded. For example, every time a congressman recommends a constituent for appointment as postmaster, he is apt to make more opponents than supporters. This inevitably follows when a member of Congress utilizes his federal patronage to pay his political debts at the expense of the public interest.

More than half the letters received and replied to by many representatives in Congress, affiliated with the party in power, have reference to the distribution of the patronage actually or supposed to be at the disposal of the Congress. Much of the time of members of Congress, which ought to be devoted to the study of public questions, the scrutinizing of federal administration and the consideration of federal legislation, is now squandered upon the search for or distribution of federal jobs for needy or greedy constituents.

When the Roosevelt administration entered power, it was estimated that there were over 5,000 excepted positions, exclusive of postmasterships, which could be converted into the competitive service, and thereby protected against political exploitation by executive order of the President.

During the last year, many new positions have been created which have been filled not by the merit system but by the spoils system. Only the other day, Congress overwhelmingly rejected a proposal to give to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation civil service protection against pork-barrel politicians.

* * *

President Could Turn Congress

MOST of the Federal offices at present have been excepted from competitive examinations by special acts of Congress. This means that both the President and Congress must act if the federal service as a whole is to be taken off the political pie counter and put under the merit system.

If the President, however, would lead in this movement by going to the limit of his authority in extending the merit system by executive order, public sentiment would not only accept his leadership but would also help to turn Congress in the same direction.

The wrecking of the federal air mail by politicians, the disruption of the aeronautic branch of the Department of Commerce by politicians, the contamination of many federal relief agencies by politicians, the exploitation of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation by politicians, the filling of so many federal offices under the Department of Justice by politicians, reveal the rapidity with which the spoils system is defeating the merit system to the demoralization of the federal service.

Because of his tremendous popularity and the resultant strength of his leadership, President Roosevelt's opportunity to call a halt upon these raids of the spoilsmen was never greater than it is today.

And until the legislative branch of the federal government is liberated by executive action and legislative enactment from the curse of distributing patronage, many a senator and representative in Congress will find himself so swamped with "patronage troubles" that he will have far less time than he requires to devote to his legitimate duties as a legislator for the nation.

Human Side of the News

A Marvelous Clock in Hamelin Will Commemorate the Legend of the Pied Piper

By Edwin C. Hill

"HAMELIN TOWN in Brunswick by famous Hanover City" is setting up an ornamental clock in the tower of the Hochzeithaus which, in English, is the Wedding House. The clock will be a marvel of craftsmanship with carved figures and ingenious mechanical tricks, a worthy decoration for the interesting gabled structure which it will grace.

But our story tonight is not about clocks and buildings. Rather it is about what the clock will commemorate, namely, the six hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the legend of the Pied Piper. For it was in the year 1284 that this "wandering fellow with a gypsy coat of red and yellow" piped the children from Hamelin to Koppelberg Hill, which opened to receive them and then closed upon them, not a single one to be seen again.

Such is the story which history rejects as folklore and which will live on, a joy forever, as told by Robert Browning. It all began with:

"Rats!
They fought the dogs and killed the cats,
And bit the babies in their cradles,
And licked the soup from the cook's own ladles,
Split open the kegs of salted sprats,
Made nests inside men's Sunday hats,
And even spoiled the women's chats
By drowning their speaking,
With shrieking and squeaking

* * *

Piper Promises To Expel Rats

NEEDLESS to say, Hamelin town was beside itself, and in desperation the Mayor offered one thousand guilders to any one who would rid it of the plague. In stepped our piper, a singular fellow in his looks, or lack of them—thin, tall, beardless, with pointed nose and slits of blue for eyes—utterly quaint. He made his bargain and he blew on his pipe and lo! and behold! every one of the million rats and more left off what they were doing, and charmed by his music, followed him to the Weser River and rushed in to be drowned.

The piper hastened back to collect his fee, because he had a supper date in Bagdad that very night. But the close-fisted burgomaster demurred and, instead of the thousand guilders, offered only fifty. The piper, angered, warned that he would play a different tune, but they mocked him. And that was the last straw. Up went the pipe to the stranger's lips and from it poured the sweetest notes.

This time the children heard and understood. It was telling them of a fairyland and bidding them hasten to it. They stopped play, they stopped fighting, they stopped working and they followed, down the road, out of the town and into the mountain. A fable, you say? Well, say it not in the streets of Hamelin, today, a quaint old city of 25,000 where the Weser and the Hamel meet, not far from the North Sea.

There they will show you the narrow street of the Pied Piper on which, by law, not a pipe may tweedle or a drum roll. You may see, too, the House of the Rat Catcher, one of the finest examples of Rennaisance architecture. My history tells me that the whole thing is legendary, a tale which undoubtedly grew out of the tragic Crusade of the Children, when thousands of little ones died in the foolhardy attempt to lead them to the Holy Land to fight the Turk.

* * *

Descendants Found In Transylvania

AND yet against history, I have the testimony of Dr. Walter Starkie, given to me here in New York only recently, that he believes the story of the Pied Piper and that he has located the descendants of the children of Hamelin, off in Transylvania, where Browning's poem says they eventually turned up. The doctor—a gentleman and a scholar with a list of university degrees as long as your arm, and a title from the King of Spain—told me of coming across a flaxen-haired, blue-eyed tribe in a remote part of Hungary, whose presence there, among the dark-skinned gypsies, could be explained only by their traditions.

Wandering through these Romany lands as a vagabond violinist, Dr. Starkie studied their people and listened to their stories by the campfires of the tribes. He will tell you what they told him, and give him a pipefull of time and he will come pretty near convincing one:

"That in Transylvania there's a tribe
The outlandish ways and dress,
Out of some subterranean prison,
Into which they were trepanned,
Long time ago in a mighty band,
Out of Hamelin town in Brunswick land,
